My Success.—I indge that there are not many tracts more difficult to drain than mine was, considering all the circumstances, except those which are frequently flowed by tides or the waters of some lake or river. Westchester County, N. Y., 35 miles from Had I owned the entire swamp, or had there our City Hell, and a little eastward of the been a fall in the brook just below me, had I our City Hall, and a little eastward of the hamlet known as Chappaqua, called into existence by a station on the Harlem Railroad. It embraces the south-easterly half of the marsh which the Railroad here traverses from south to north-my part measuring some which increased the cost and postponed the fifteen acres, with five acres more of slightly success of my efforts; but this is at length elevated dry land between it and the foot of the rather ragged hill which rises thence on the east and on the south, and of which I the east and on the south, and of which I least now own some fifty acres lying wholly east 1859; and, though the Spring months were promptly recognized and readily taken as the now own some fifty acres lying wholly east ward of my low land, and in good part covered with forest. Of this, I bought more than half in 1853, and the residue in bits from time to time as I could afford it. The average cost was between $130 and $140 per acre: one small and poor old cottage being the only building I found on the tract, which consisted of the ragged edges of two adjacent farms between the western portions of which consisted of the ragged edges of two adjacent farms between the western portions of which mine is now interposed, while they still adjoin each other beyond the north and south join each other beyond the north and south or source are henceforth; but the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I whose intrinsic merit and substantial character for the fifteen acres I w road half a mile from the railroad on which their buildings are located and which forms

, 608 pp. 12min, Law Style, $2,40. THIS UNEQUALLED BOOK concerns the property, business, individual rights, and social privileges of every one, and afords a fund of legal knowledge that to many will make it worth its weight in gold. The simplicity of its instruction, the comprehensiveness of its subject, the accuracy of its details, the anolities aforded in its perfect arrangement, and the conciseness and attractiveness of its style, as well as its cheapness, make it the most desirable of all legal hand-books. No effort or expense has been spared in adapting it theroughly to the times, and affording in it the most recent and useful haformation. CONSTITUTION BITTERS

CTANDARD PERIODICALS FOR 1870. Republished by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., New York.

Indispensable to all desirous of being well informed on the great subjects of the day. 1. THE EDINBURGH REVIEW.

This is the oldest of the series. In its main catures it still follows in the path marked out by drougham, Jeffrey, Sydney Smith, and Lord Hol-and, its original founders and first contributors. THE LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW. which commences its 128th volume with the Jan-uary number, was set on foot as a rival to the EDINGURGH. It resolutely maintains its opposi-tion in politics, and shows equal vigor in its liter-try department.

ow in its 5.81st volume, occupies a very high position in periodical literature. Passing beyond the narrow formalism of schools and parties, it appeals to a wider range of sympathies and a higher integrity of conviction. OUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS, 5. BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURG MAGAZINE was commenced 52 years ago. Equalling the Quarterlies in its literary and scientific departments, it has won a wide reputation for the narratives and sketches which enliven its pages.
