

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

WILLIAM L. MADDOCK & Co., dealers in fine groceries, No. 115 South Third Street (opposite the Grand Bank), Philadelphia.

On last Tuesday the weather was so cold that most of our people were constrained to build fires in their sitting-rooms and places of business.

Our fellow-citizen, J. A. Erasmans, is making improvements in the building formerly occupied by Jacob Metz as a tinshop, preparatory to opening it as a grocery and general variety store.

The Town Hall is fast approaching completion. It is a necessary addition to the public accommodations of the town, and will no doubt be the means of bringing to its projector ample reward.

Our exchanges come to us with laudatory notices of Howes' Circus, which performs here this afternoon and evening. The street procession is said to be unusually attractive, while the performances are of a high order.

A suicide of an unusual character occurred last Monday, near Light Street. Our readers may remember that some months ago, on his way to Bloomsburg, George L. Johnson lost a considerable sum of money. Soon after some burglars entered the house and stole another sum. His mind, never very strong, has been unsettled ever since. On last Monday, as we are informed, he told his wife to come up stairs and "see what a pretty revolver he had found." She went up, and he searched about the bed, but apparently was unable to find it. Shortly after he went up again, and his wife followed, when he produced a revolver. She endeavored to persuade him to fire it out of the window, but he refused, and fired down the steps. He then started down, she following, and after cocking the pistol, he turned it toward his breast, and before his wife could prevent, fired, the bullet lodging in his breast, and causing death soon after. We understand a brother of his is wandering through the county in the same mental condition.

BASE BALL.—Very few towns of importance are without their base ball clubs. We have two here, the Continental and Enterprise—the latter including the younger portion of our people. Both use the Fair Grounds for their exercise. In the former there is magnificent material, and we believe that with patience and practice they will acquire a good reputation in the State. We would suggest, however, the adoption of a less pretentious name. Last week the Alerts, of Danville, played a few innings with the Serenato Club, on the latter's grounds, but did not conclude an account of the main. The Alerts undoubtedly met their match. The succeeding day, Thursday, the clubs from Scranton, Plymouth, Kingston, Danville, and this place met at Wilkesbarre. The Athletics of Philadelphia were, on invitation from the Wilkesbarre club. Of course the Philadelphia had it all their own way, but much instruction was gained, and the various clubs will renew their pastime with fresh interest. The exercise is vigorous, healthy, and pleasant.

HENRY CLAY POSER.—When Henry Clay was a young and brilliant member of the Legislature of Kentucky, one of the oldest Buckskins heard him quote the common law of England as follows: "In the case then under discussion, the old fellow was astonished, and jumping up began: 'Mr. Speaker, I want to know, sir, if what that gentleman said is true? Are we all living under the old English law?' The Speaker informed the anxious inquirer that the common law was recognized as a part of the law of the land. 'Well, sir,' resumed the Buckskin, 'when I remember that our fathers, and some of us, fit, bleed, and died to be free from English law, I don't want to be under any on it any longer. And I make a motion that it be repealed right away.' The motion was seconded, the Kentucky blood was up, the Buckskin fired off speech after speech, and Mr. Clay had as much as he could do to explain the matter, and save the Legislature of Kentucky from repealing the common law of England.
