THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.

When this shall have been done the Government will have been restored to its integrity... The Constitution of the United States had been re-established in its full supremacy...

We give up most of our issue this week to the Address and Resolutions of the great Philadelphia Convention... We hope that every man into whose hands this number of our paper falls will read them throughout.

The argument of the Address covers most of the points now in public debate, and fully and ably presents them for public judgment... The Resolutions constitute a Union platform upon which all patriots and true men can stand.

We propose to give in our next number the proceedings which took place at Washington upon the presentation of the Resolutions of the Convention to the President, including the remarks of Senator Reverly Johnson on behalf of the Committee of the Convention...

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

The National Union Convention, now assembled at the City of Philadelphia, composed of delegates from every State and Territory in the Union, admiringly...

MAGAZINES FOR SEPTEMBER.

The Galaxy comes to us with its usual excellent variety... Mr. Tonic, in the number for September first (the initial number of the second volume) contributes an article on "Reform and Revolution in England..."

The Atlantic Monthly opens with a story of the war—"The Surgeon's Assistant, Mrs. R. C. Watson..."

Our Young Folks is interesting this month. It is commenced with a poem entitled "The Tale of the Whale..."

Godey's Lady's Book comes to us filled with variety, both pictorial and literary... An excellent steel-plate engraving, "Resting at the Well," gives us an introduction to a feast of good things...

Peterson's Magazine gives us a representative picture, "The School at Play," which carries us back to our school days...

It is announced that with the number for September first, Every Saturday will be enlarged from thirty-two to forty pages... The great success of the journal justifies and demands this enlargement...

The yacht Alice, which has recently made the passage across the Atlantic, was built in Portsmouth, New Hampshire...

GENERAL DIX'S SPEECH.

We present to our readers this week the able, eloquent, and patriotic speech of General John A. Dix upon taking the chair as temporary President of the National Convention at Philadelphia...

Gentlemen of the Convention and Fellow-Citizens of the whole Union: I return to you my sincere thanks for the honor of having done in this city to preside temporarily over your deliberations...

We are here to assert the supremacy of representative government over all who are within the confines of the United States... A Government which cannot protect the violation of its principles or of the protection it extends to the people who are represented in it...

Eleven States have been wholly without representation in the legislative body... That numerical proportion of the represented and unrepresented has been changed by the admission of the delegation from Tennessee—a unit taken from the smaller States...

It is this wrong which we have come here to rectify, and, as far as we are able, to redress... The United States declared that armed resistance to the authority of the Union was over, all the States had a right to be represented in the legislative body...

These resolutions were not concurrent, but they were substantially identical... Moreover, they were entitled to be so represented on other grounds of fairness and good faith...

Each House of Congress is made a judge of the qualifications of its members, and can reject individuals for just cause... But the new conditions in regard to our political system, and the progress to the public prosperity and peace...

Each House of Congress is made a judge of the qualifications of its members, and can reject individuals for just cause... But the new conditions in regard to our political system, and the progress to the public prosperity and peace...

It is in our power to restore the legislative body to its full proportions by giving to the members of the Union their proper place in the public councils... Legislation without representation is an anomaly under our political system...

There are commercial and financial reforms which are indispensable to the public welfare, but we shall not have the power to carry out these until we change the political complexion of Congress... This should be our first, our immediate aim...

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Two events have moved the mental atmosphere of this quiet city—the arrival of Queen Emma and the delegates from the Philadelphia Convention...

The grand success of the Convention in uniting varied parties, in devotion to the perpetuity of the Union, and in the highest welfare of every section of our beloved country, are a glorious promise for its future prosperity...

The pronouncement given to Massachusetts and South Carolina in the Convention recalled an incident which occurred last Thanksgiving Day in a visit to the hospital... A young Confederate officer from Charleston, South Carolina, who had been confined to his bed for many months...

The Annual breeze comes laden with good news from other countries as well as our own... The blessings of peace will increase commerce and make labor, the poor man's capital, more productive...

GENERAL PRESS DISPATCHES.

In accordance with the President's proclamation of the seventeenth instant, declaring null and void Maximilian's paper blockade of Matamoros and other Mexican ports...

The city, which was full of strange faces and all activity on Saturday, was quite dull on Monday, and the strangers have departed... The Committee to wait upon the President and present the resolutions of the Philadelphia Convention...

THE FALSTAFF OF THE NEW ORLEANS CONVENTION.

A SPECIAL correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, in the course of a long radical account of the New Orleans riot, said: "The boaster of the convention, the hero who would do and dare and die for his new-born love for negro suffrage, had not yet been found..."

Under the new law, "every person (other than one having paid the special tax as a commercial broker, or cattle broker, or wholesale dealer, or retail dealer, or peddler, whose occupation it is to buy or sell agricultural or farm products, and whose annual sales do not exceed ten thousand dollars) is to be regarded as a produce broker..."

The official proceedings of the Philadelphia Convention were completed on Monday, and signed by the President of that body, and a million copies are to be at once printed for general distribution...

The circular calling a convention of officers, soldiers and sailors to meet in mass convention in Chicago on the seventeenth of September proximo will be issued to-morrow...
