THE CASE OF COLONEL NORTH.

Slowly but surely the record of crime at Washington is unrolling itself. It is as black, but with letters more distinct than the charred pyramids which come from the mud and clays of Pompeii.

IMPEACHMENT.

We offer to our readers the speech of Mr. Spalding, republican, from Ohio, on the Ashley Resolutions for impeachment, to show how men not blinded by fanaticism see the political situation.

We give this, rather than the able speeches of Mr. Brooks, Mr. Wood Mr. Pruyn, or Mr. Chandler, on the democratic side, because it may have force on conservative minds.

Mr. Spalding to whom Mr. Ashley yielded five minutes of his time, said: "Mr. Speaker—I do not boast of possessing any extraordinary degree of courage, either moral or physical, but I thank my Creator that he has so constituted me that I can rise on the floor of this House and declare my convictions, although they are unpopular."

The undersigned availed themselves of the permit granted them to visit Colonel North, M. J. Jones and Levi Cohn. They found them in the "Carroll Prison," in close confinement. They learned that Messrs. North and Cohn had been confined together in one room and had not been permitted to leave it for a moment, during the four days they had been prisoners, for the purpose of answering the calls of nature.

They had been supplied with meagre and unwholesome food, and were obliged to eat it in the presence of the four attendants who were constantly breathing the foul atmosphere arising from the standing order. They had no vessel out of which to drink water, except the one furnished them for sanitation. They had but one chair, and had slept three of the nights of their confinement upon a sack of straw on the floor.

They had not been permitted to see a newspaper and were ignorant of the cause of their arrest. All communication between them and the outer world had been denied them. The undersigned complained to the acting superintendent, who seemed humanely disposed, but justified his course by the fact that the prisoners were not to be visited without special permit, and only in the presence of an officer of the prison.

Brief, however, was this indulgence, for we read that "though for a time the prison brutalities were somewhat modified, they were soon taken to a room on the second floor, where they were confined with thirteen others, and where allowed to purchase food fit to eat, at a high price, of a person supposed to have intimate relations with the head keeper of the prison. On the 23rd of November, for a purpose which will appear, they were taken thence and placed in solitary confinement to subsist on hard tack and light the vermin which infested the prison."

After a time, the trial, before a military court of which the reputable hero, Abner Doubleday—the detractor of General Meade—was President, and Holt, of course, prosecutor. During this trial an incident occurred, which but that it is positively stated and proved, we might hesitate to believe. Holt, we infer, finding the evidence against these gentlemen falling, seems to have devised a plan of most sinister ingenuity, using for his instrument an individual, Charles A. Dana, Assistant Secretary of War, who has, throughout, shown a singular facility for enterprises of the kind, and having for one of his objects to make poor Mr. Lincoln do some of the dirty work on the occasion. And very dirty it was. Mr. Cohn, one of the parties on trial, was taken to the White House, and in the presence of the President "pumped"—invited to turn State's evidence. The report from which we quote goes on to say:

To the desperate extremity to which the administration was driven, Mr. Cohn was sent for by the President, who

This was on the 6th of January, but not until the 19th it was approved by Stanton, or allowed to be made public, and then Colonel North alone was discharged, though, as we understand, the fact of his formal acquittal was not communicated to him.

Mr. Jones and the refractory Cohn were detained, and on the 30th, a friend a Member of Congress from Buffalo, writes to Colonel North:

WASHINGTON, January 30 1865. Colonel N. North.

MY DEAR SIR: I enclose you a certified copy of the order directing your release, saying you were acquitted. The others are convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life. So says the Secretary of War.

Very truly yours, JOHN GANSON. "So says the Secretary of War!" If Mr. Ganson tells the truth, Mr. Stanton tormented the distant families of these
