

Farmer's Department.

Remedy For the Borer. Mr. Editor, I desire to say something about the apple-tree borer, an enemy from which we have greatly suffered in our attempts to secure healthy trees and good crops.

I planted an apple orchard eighteen years ago, and the trees thrived very well for five or six years, when they began to droop and look sickly. Upon examining them I found the borer in great numbers, having done considerable damage, and some of them appeared to be past recovery.

I have been using this remedy for three years, and it has well repaid me for the labor required; and I think I can commend it confidently to my brother farmers who will first carefully remove the borer, and properly apply it, say twice a year afterwards.

It will be seven years this spring since I planted thirty-six apple trees, and at once applied the urine copiously, and there is not, to my knowledge, a single borer in the whole of them; beside they have grown and look remarkably well.

Believing this, Mr. Editor, to be a remedy, when properly used, I think it my duty to communicate it to my brother farmers through your interesting columns.

Grinding Tools.

More than half of all the wear and tear, breakage, and bother of dull tools, comes from a lack of proper knowledge and practice in grinding. All steel, however highly refined is composed of individual fibres laid lengthwise in the bar, held firmly together by cohesion, and in almost all farm implements of the cutting kind, the steel portion which forms the edge, is from a section of a bar laid in and welded to the iron longitudinally so that it is the side of the bundle of fibres, hammered and ground down, that forms the edge.

Horn Distemper.

The New York Times, in reply to an inquiry as to the cause of the horn distemper or hollow horn, imputes it to hard usage, to a lack of proper food, drink and shelter, in consequence of which the cattle come out in the spring lean and dispirited and with little recuperative force.

Mules vs. Horses.

Which is the most profitable to raise, the horse or the mule? Is thus answered: 1st. An average lot of two year old mules will sell for as much as an average lot of three-year-old colts, and perhaps more.

Mending Broken Vessels—Cement.

To half a pint of milk put in a sufficient quantity of vinegar in order to curdle it; separate the curd from the whey, and mix the whey with the whites of four eggs, beating the whole well together; when mixed, add a little quick-lime through a sieve until it acquires the consistency of a paste.

A CERTAIN Method of Keeping Eggs from Spoiling. Eat them while they're fresh.

RECENTLY at Barnesville, Ohio, a gentleman fell dead while leading a prayer-meeting.

For the Young Folks.

The Fisherman and his Wife.

There was once a fisherman who lived with his wife in a pigstye, close by the sea-side. The fisherman used to go out all day long fishing; and one day, as he sat on the sea-shore with his rod, looking at the sparkling waves and watching his line, all on a sudden his float was dragged away deep into the water; and in drawing it up he pulled out a great fish. But the fish said, "Pray let me live! I am not a real fish; I am an enchanted prince: put me in the water again, and let me go!"

When the fisherman went home to his wife in the pigstye, he told her how he had caught a great fish, and how it had told him it was an enchanted prince and how, on hearing it speak, he had let it go again. "Did not you ask it for anything?" said the wife. "No," said the man; "what should I ask for?"

Then the fish came swimming to him, and said, "Well what is her will? what does your wife want?" "Ah!" said the fisherman, "she says that when I had caught you, I ought to have asked you for something before I let you go; she does not like living any longer in the pigstye, and wants a snug little cottage."

Then the fish came swimming to him, and said, "Well what is her will? what does your wife want?" "Ah!" said the fisherman, "she says that when I had caught you, I ought to have asked you for something before I let you go; she does not like living any longer in the pigstye, and wants a snug little cottage."

"Well, what does she want now?" said the fish. "Ah!" said the man dolefully, "my wife wants to live in a stone castle."

The next morning when Dame Isabella awoke it was broad daylight, and she joggled the fisherman with her elbow, and said, "Get up, husband, and bestir yourself, for we must be king of all the land."

"Well, what does she want now?" said the fish. "Ah!" said the man dolefully, "my wife wants to live in a stone castle."

"Well, what does she want now?" said the fish. "Ah!" said the man dolefully, "my wife wants to live in a stone castle."

THE KEYSTONE CLOVER SEED STRIPPER. PATENTED OCTOBER 2, 1866. This simple, though effective machine is admitted by all scientific observers to be the most direct method for gathering clover seed yet discovered.

A mere glance at it is sufficient to convince the most obtuse mind of its practical utility. It strips the clover head from the stalk leaving the straw standing upon the ground. It is easily drawn by one horse, and requires but one man or boy to work it.

It is compact, simple in structure, and not liable to get out of order, and can be cheaply got up. The great advantage in this machine is, we have the seed gathered in the chaff, ready for the clover mill or huller, besides saving the great length of time and labor of mowing, handling and threshing it from the straw. It will also pay every farmer to gather his seed with this machine, and to purchase it from the inventor, who is located in the old way of gathering it.

Extraordinary inducements offered to energetic men who will purchase State or county Rights. For particulars address WHEATMAN & REINOLD, CENTRALIA, Columbia County, Pa. [Jan 27.]

THE AMERICAN HAY KNIFE AND FORK.—We the undersigned citizens of Columbia County witnessed the trial of hay knives on Monday, Mr. Fursell, in Henkleck Township, on Monday, May 7, 1866, between the American Hay Knife and Fork manufactured by SLIPPER, WADSWORTH & CO. of Lewisburg, Pa., and the Russell's Patent Hay Knife. The American Fork either mowed hay in or draught than the Russell's in three. We are satisfied it will take as much hay into the mow as two Russell's can draw. We also saw it cutting hay, and think it cannot be beat as a hay knife, and cheerfully recommend it as the best hay fork and knife we have ever seen.
