

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, FRIDAY, SEP. 15, 1899.

BAD-P. John says Democrats are ignorant!

PUNNY-The attempt of our Radical neighbor, to create the impression that President Johnson is opposed to the restoration of the Southern States to the Union.

THE Pamphlet Laws for 1897 have been received by the Prothonotary. There are fewer of them, than for some years last past, but they are worse, what there are of them.

THE Right Reverend Bishop Stevens will preach and administer the rite of confirmation, in Saint Paul's Church in Bloomsburg, on Tuesday evening, October 16th.

BE SURE to hand this number of THE COLUMBIAN to your Republican neighbor, not too far gone in negroism, and the result may be that he will read it, and be convinced of the error of his way.

We devote the outside of our paper this week to a lengthy and able speech of Hon. George H. Pendleton. From this time until after the election, our space will be mainly used for purified matter, and those who do not enjoy that class of reading, must be patient for a few weeks.

We are under obligations to our friend J. W. Edgar for the fine grapes sent us this week. They are the largest we ever saw. After an all night's position, we have been weighing over a ton apiece. We have seen it considered a somewhat difficult matter, but Mr. Harman is uniformly successful.

ON Tuesday evening last, the Democracy of Mt. Pleasant assembled at Jones' School House, and organized by electing John Moran, President; William Thomas and Jackson L. Moran, Vice Presidents; Wm. E. Johnson, Secretary. After organization, the meeting was addressed by Class W. Miller, Esq., and Col. Freese. Our assurances are that Mt. Pleasant will do her whole duty, poll her whole vote, and roll up a splendid Democratic majority.

IT is our painful duty this week, to record the death of a stranger in our town. Mr. A. J. M. Stricker, a native of Ohio, who was transacting business as an agent here, died on the night of the 24th inst. The deceased was an honest, upright and enterprising young man, gifted with superior talents, and was loved and respected by all who knew him. The body has been forwarded to the home of his father, in Ohio, for interment. Peace be unto him.

ARE YOU ASSESSED? Let every Democrat see the assessment lists, and if your names do not appear, apply to the Assessor at once and have it attended to, or some of you will be cheated out of your votes. Do not pride yourself upon the idea that, because you have been a voter and paid taxes for a number of years, your name is properly registered, but go and see for yourself. (Friday the 22nd instant) is the last day this important duty can be attended to before the election.

THE TICKET-THE VOTE.-There will be but two tickets to be voted this Fall. One of them labelled outside "Judiciary" will contain the name George Sharswood. The other one labelled outside "County" and contain the names Thomas Chalfant, Mordecai Millard, Jacob Yoho, Thomas J. Welliver, David Yeager and Jacob Hartley.

By arrangements with the other Democratic Editors in the County, the COLUMBIAN supplies Montour, Madison, Henlock, Greenwood, Pine, Jackson, Sugarloaf, Mt. Pleasant and Scott. The Tickets are ready for delivery.

EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLARS is no small sum to be unexpectedly called upon to pay, and yet that is just the total Radical offer at Harrisburg has got Columbia County into. The regular annual assessments were made according to the valuation of the assessors, but it is now for the first time stated that the Auditor General, State Treasurer, and Secretary of the Commonwealth, without notice, as the law requires, sometime early in 1898 increased the valuation to such an extent as to add $8,000 to our State tax over and above the assessments already made for 1898-97. This action of the state officers was kept quiet last year for fear it would defeat the election of Governor Steyer.

THE campaign was opened in this County on last Friday night at Light Street. Many were present from the surrounding country. The meeting was unusually hard-fought while continuing about dusk and continued until after one o'clock. The meeting was organized by the appointment of Wm. White as President; Chas. Lee and W. M. Ent as Vice Presidents, and Jacob Brock-willer as Secretary. Captain Brock-willer was then introduced to the audience, and for an hour and a quarter discussed the issues of the day, reviewing principally the inconsistencies of the Republican party in reconstruction, and their mismanagement of national affairs.

ACCORDING to the published programme, on last Saturday evening a Democratic meeting was held at the Academy in Millville. Although there had been but one day's notice, the room was crowded, showing plainly that the voters of Millville are in favor of the issues of the day. The meeting was organized by the election of Capt. S. B. M. Yantz as President, Samuel Greese, Esq., and Jacob Gook, as Vice-Presidents; and A. Schweppelcher and Alfred Hess, as Secretaries. The President of the meeting, after a few preliminary remarks, then introduced to the audience, C. W. Miller, Esq., of Bloomsburg, who, for three quarters of an hour, ably and fully discussed the principles which at present lay at the foundation of the Democratic and Republican parties. He was followed by Captain Brock-willer, who, though ill at the time from a recent attack of ague and fever, yet in a speech of half an hour, exposed the corruption of the Radical party, its disunion policy, and the evils it had wrought upon the country. The meeting adjourned with cheers for the ticket and speakers, and a special tipper for our next Sheriff, Mordecai Millard, who happened to be present.

VERY INTELLIGENT-All Radicals, and especially P. John and his followers.

THE Philadelphia Age, the leading Democratic paper in the State, like the COLUMBIAN puts the Ticket at the head of its Advertising Column.

AN Informal meeting of the Pan American Council was held last week at Lambeth Palace. Bishop Hopkins, Bishop Odenheimer and others from America were present.

SENATOR BUCKALEW made a speech at Williamsport last Monday evening. He expects to be actively engaged during the campaign in different parts of the State, if his health continues favorable.

THE Republican says the National Bank of Bloomsburg, paid last year "Twenty thousand and eighty-three dollars and fifty-seven cents" tax. What does P. John mean "by such deliberate lying?"

P. JOHN is mad, and I am glad, and very glad. What was it did displease him? The Johnson grip Assessorship. And a little "Nig" to toast him.

MR. PETER S. HARMAN, founder for Mr. Joseph Sharpless, is now engaged in casting for Iron Dye. Furnace, pipes weighing over a ton apiece. We have seen it considered a somewhat difficult matter, but Mr. Harman is uniformly successful.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.-A very serious accident happened to Mr. Little and Mr. Miller on their way to Pine to address a Democratic Meeting. Just this side of Millville the horse ran away with them, broke the buggy to pieces, considerably injured Mr. Little, and very badly sprained Mr. Miller's ankle. Of course the Meeting was not reached. We are exceedingly sorry that our Democratic friends in Pine were disappointed. We trust they will give a good account of their selves on the day of the election, notwithstanding.

THE Living Age is regular in its visits to our office-always welcome, always entertaining, especially got up, cheap and fresh. Little and Gay, Boston.

PETERSON'S NATIONAL MAGAZINE is on our table. The literary standard of the issue and sketches is fully up to that of its competitors, and the list of contributors will compare favorably with any of them. The illustrations are equal to any of its predecessors, and many of the ladies say it is far better. As a Lady's Magazine it has no superiors.

GODDESS LADY'S BOOK for this month is a number of more than average merit. Besides the handsome steel front-piece, "A Passing Load," the fashion plates, and a wood cut representing "A Credit to her Mother," we have the tinted picture of "The Farmer's Daughter" as an extra attraction. The literary material is also well-selected, and includes a liberal instalment of Marion Harland's continued story, "The Safe Side."

THE GALAXY, for October, contains "On Fortune-Hunting," by W. H. Whitmore; "Paris and the Parisians," by Eugene Benson; "John," by Bertina S. Scramton; "The Poor Whites of the South," by E. B. Scamron; "Mexican Armies and Generals," by A. Conquest Clark; "In the Enemy's Lines," by James Franklin Fisher; "American Jobbery," by George Bligh; "The Law," by Lawrence Y. Mott; "The American," by "Waiting for the Verdict," by Mrs. R. H. Davis; and "Nebulae," by the Editor. The price of The Galaxy is $2.50 a year; two copies for $6. Address W. C. & F. P. Church, No. 79 Park Row, New York.

EVERY SATURDAY. This popular Weekly presents its readers just those portions of European current literature which every intelligent American wishes and needs to see. Omitting the heavier papers, discussions of topics of local interest, it gathers from all sources the readable and instructive articles which express the best current thought of England and the Continent, and with the utmost promptness places them before American readers. Any good story, any popular sketch or essay, any interesting semi-scientific paper, any striking poem, or literary intelligence appearing in a European periodical, is sure to reappear speedily in the pages of Every Saturday. It is published by Ticknor and Fields, Boston.

LOCAL NOTICES. HON IN THE BLOOD.-When the blood is well supplied with its iron element, we feel vigorous and full of animation. It is an insufficiency of this vital element that makes us feel weak and low spirited; all such, by taking the Peruvian Syrup, (a protoxide of iron) can supply this deficiency, and will be wonderfully invigorated.

REMEMBER has had its day. Eureka Oil is rapidly displacing it, as it should do. The new illuminant is perfectly safe, and fifty per cent cheaper. It is certainly the light for the times. C. H. Morris, of Light Street, is Agent for this county. See advertisement.

A general investigation of the influence of the public is respectfully asked in behalf of this recent improvement, laden with results of such great significance to all persons in every City, Village and Farm-House of our country. It is readily seen by all, of course, that the First to embark in this enterprise, will reap the harvest, and receive its prominent advantages.

Let anyone take the trouble to inquire, and they will ascertain that the engravings now being given away by the Washington Library Company of Philadelphia, to those who purchase one or more shares of stock in the new Riverside Institute, are worth more at retail by fifty per cent, than what is paid for the stock. Besides this, every share of stock will be accompanied by a present at the great distribution.

THE KALIDOSCOPE.

It is a mirror of busy times. Its fluctuations are the vast concerns.

SCIENCE OF PHILOLOGY. We have already seen, that it is by the derivation of this word, by going back to the Greek from which it is compounded, that we are able to determine its exact meaning; but when they spell the name of their system by their own rules, who could pronounce, with any approximation to certainty, its derivation and signification? No one, I am sure, upon meeting with philology, no matter how well acquainted with the Greek, would take it to be an old friend from classic ground-he would pass it by as some outside barbarian. So would it be with thousands of other words, none of which need be pointed out, but which will readily occur to every man of reading and education. Who with such a system of spelling could trace a word, no matter from what language derived, back to its family, and hunt up its relations, scattered over the entire vocabulary? The task would be utterly impossible, and in addition to this, the strength, beauty and flexibility of the English language would be gone. We would be lost in an ocean of words, whose origin we knew not, and could not trace, whose meaning would be capricious and uncertain. Now we can take an English word, and return it to its family in Asia, perhaps, containing one word, and find its cousins who widely sever scattered, because they will bear clearly upon their face, the family resemblance.

How would the dramas of Shakespeare, the Paradise Lost of Milton, the Rambler of Dr. Johnson, or the Spectator of Addison look, dressed up after this modern faux pas fashion? The familiar faces of these dear old English classics would appear strange and unnatural. Even while reading them thus mangled, it could be done, we could scarcely persuade ourselves that they were the same. The quaint-spelling, the peculiar idiom, the now obsolete word would lose its charm, and all the beauties of the old writers would be obscured. Philology should be a study no longer we should speak and write in phonographic light, but in a real darkness. Now it frequently happens, that one word is the "open sesame," by which the literary treasures of half a world are unlocked to our view, unfolding to us the mystery of forgotten customs, explaining the position of the words and sketches in fully up to that of its competitors, and the list of contributors will compare favorably with any of them. The illustrations are equal to any of its predecessors, and many of the ladies say it is far better. As a Lady's Magazine it has no superiors.

For these, among other considerations, in our judgment, the system of phonography should be discarded. Its advantages are not easily perceived, while the objections to it are manifold and glaring. While it may be acknowledged that there is considerable irregularity in the orthography and pronunciation of our language; still, less time and attention are required to master these difficulties, than those which would inevitably result from an entire change of the system. Nor could the objections we have urged be casual and incidental; they would be permanent and insuperable. We have never been able to see the advantages that would result, either to children or adults, and loving as we do, the beautiful Anglo-Saxon, idiot, by its phonographic, believing that in its present garb it can be mastered, and when thus perverted, it could not be, with any possibility; we should most earnestly deprecate Byron's Child Harold, or Thomson's Seasons being ever done up phonographically.

But even in spelling, this modern system obtains no advantage over the present popular mode. For instance, "question" is spelled, in the British Proprietor, questyoun-millions, million-severy, every-dollars, dollars. It is useless to multiply words upon this point, and we leave it, trusting that enough has been said to make our views plain and satisfactory.

To what has gone before, might very properly add a few words upon the subject of grammar, but although it is very closely connected with the one under discussion, is indeed a part of it-we will not enter upon it at this time. It is enumerated among the seven sciences, a knowledge of which goes to make up a liberal education-the other six being Logic, Rhetoric, Arithmetic, Geometry, Algebra, and Astronomy. The division of the English language into ten parts of speech, is somewhat arbitrary, and the number might be lessened with advantage. The Articuli could be incorporated with the Alphabet, and the particula should be treated with, and as a mood of the verb. Whatever increases the facilities for acquiring a knowledge of this abstruse and profound science deserves our attention; for a man can neither speak nor write elegantly, or fluently, without a thorough knowledge of the principles and construction of the language; nor can he powerfully and eloquently, without a clear and deep acquaintance with its derivation and signification.

This can be obtained, only by close philological study-this is the secret of the grand and massive prose of Johnson, and of the sweet and delicate touches, in the elegant papers of Addison. We must understand the philology, the construction and the origin of the language, before we are able to make our books readable, no matter how excellent may be the matter with which they may be filled.
