

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, FRIDAY, NOV. 15, 1887.

If the elections don't indicate anything about the radicals, why does P. John look grim and refuse to rejoice?

The communication from our Laporte correspondent came too late for this week's issue, but will appear in our next.

Prof. Price of this County, exhibited his skill in wire-walking, to a large and interested crowd of spectators, on Thursday, at White Hall.

Lost.—In Smokestown, on last Monday night, a lady's black stalla shawl. The finder will confer a favor on the owner by leaving it at the COLUMBIAN office.

In P. John in favor of Negro Suffrage now? Surely that was the unkindest cut of all. To be thus slaughtered in the house of one's friends, is awful.

There were many ladies at the gathering at White Hall, and their bright and happy faces gladdened the hearts of the noble men whose labors had resulted in the great victory they were met together to celebrate.

We are informed that Iron Ore has been discovered on lands of William Shaffer, better known perhaps as the Sloan farm. The opening is near the Rock Creek from the river, and valuable Rock Ore has certainly been found in large quantities, but the existence of soft ore is not so certain.

On Wednesday, the boys of our town were much gratified by an incident snow storm. It did not last long, however, but gave us notice to prepare for winter, to get in our coal, close up our cellars, and make the usual preparations for a winter's siege.

The Democrats of Center township have concluded to have a Pole Raising at the Half Way House on Saturday next, in commemoration of our recent victories in which they inviolably will attend. After the Pole is raised speeches will be delivered by persons invited for that purpose.

While our town boasts of many excellent mechanics, there are few who possess more enterprise and mechanical genius than our friend Louis Bernhard. We are led to these remarks by an examination of a "Regulator" in his shop, which is noted for the accuracy of its time, and which he constructed himself. His shop abounds in evidences of his skill, and the many singular instruments around him show plainly that he can fix, mend, or construct anything in the way of a timepiece that is mendable.

Fire in Orangeville.—On Friday night last at about 11 o'clock, fire was discovered in an out-building belonging to Jacob Good, and used as a wash-house, which but for the timely arrival of assistance, and a goodly supply of water, would have resulted in the destruction of his tavern, together with other valuable buildings. The building was saved with its inside burnt out, and the damage to that, with the loss of property usually found in such a house, may be $100. It is not certain how the fire originated, but there was baking done that day.

Our townsman William G. Hurley, Esq., has returned from his western tour, very much improved in health, and looking twenty years younger. He returned with him singular curiosity in the shape of a petrified tooth of some mammoth of ancient times. It has six incisive points, and measures about ten inches in circumference. It was found by a laborer named Patrick Kerney, on Mr. Hurley's farm, who was digging a ditch through a rivulet called Duke's Run, in Union Township, Hancock county, Ohio. Patrick found two others, which he disposed of before Mr. Hurley's arrival. From a hasty inspection we think it is a tooth of the mastodon.

Fire at the Institute.—On last Thursday evening at about 8 o'clock our citizens were startled by the cry of fire! We ran with the crowd in the direction of the alarm, and we reached the Institute grounds, and there informed that some mischievous boys had raised a false alarm. Curses, followed by other valuable buildings. The building was saved with its inside burnt out, and the damage to that, with the loss of property usually found in such a house, may be $100. It is not certain how the fire originated, but there was baking done that day.

A PROMINENT merchant in Light Street, of Radical proclivities takes special pains to inform us of his hostility to this sheet. It will be well enough for our patrons in that neighborhood to remember the fact.

The Home Journal is an excellent paper, and we would be glad to receive it, but cannot agree to publish a prospectus over half a column long, with editorial notices from time to time for the sake of an exchange. The advertisement, according to our rates, would be worth $10.00, whereas the subscription price is only $5.00. It would be much cheaper for us to subscribe, than to advertise at those rates.

We think our friend Val Wintersteen, of Pine township, as a hunter is entitled to the belt. He informs us that recently he shot a buck which he carried off with him, and which weighed 167 pounds! Not content with that he killed a rattlesnake measuring five feet in length, and which had thirteen rattles. He has agreed to deposit the rattles at this office and the man who goes one better is to take the championship.

ROBERTLY.—A man from Catawissa, Columbia county, on a visit to this city, had occasion to go across the river on Friday night last, and on his way back was knocked down by a very severe blow from a billy in the hands of some unknown person. An ugly wound was inflicted in the back of his head, and he was knocked prostrate and senseless into the creek. The robber took a pocket-book containing fifteen or twenty dollars in money, and a note for $1,000.—Lig. coming Standard.

Last week we published the prospectus of the Daily Seranton Republican, which has recently come into existence. It is Radical in politics, but has the merits of giving us the dispatches of the Associated Press eight hours earlier than we can otherwise get them. In other words, we get the cream of the news at 9 o'clock in the morning—almost as soon as they do in Philadelphia and New York. It was especially welcome during the past two weeks as it gave early and full returns of the late election. D. A. Beckley of this city is agent.

Fire.—The large fire dwelling house of W. W. Pinno, Esq., in Mahoning township, just outside of our Borough lines, was consumed by fire on last Wednesday night. The fire was discovered about two o'clock in the morning, but before the engines could be got to the place the whole building was in flames. A part of the furniture was destroyed, the building was entirely destroyed. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

One of Mr. Pinno's workmen was sleeping in the building at the time of the fire, being the only occupant. The building was insured in the sum of $5,000.—Danville Intelligence.

ON-ROAST AT WHITE HALL.—Yesterday, from 1,500 to 2,000 Democrats of Montour and adjoining counties, attended a Democratic Ox-roast at White Hall, in this county, got up under the supervision of the landlord of the White Hall Hotel. The meeting was organized by the appointment of Hon. David B. Montgomery, President, and John Moyer, Edgar Hans, Peter Wagner, James Brannon, and Andrew Snyder, Sr., Vice Presidents, and Wm. C. Johnson, Secretary. After which the steamer had been withdrawn, on account of the blockade of the river by the Peruvians, with whom Ecuador was at war. For various reasons I prefer describing the downward trip.

I reached Bogota from Quito in company with Mr. Villacuz, the French engineer, and Dr. Wagner, a German naturalist. The natives refused to risk themselves or their canoes at Guayaquil, fearing that they and their property would be seized by the Government.

LADIES BEWARE.—Ladies who travel in the cars should be careful how they accept the proffered attentions of strange men, no matter how agreeable they appear. One prudent and respectable lady will allow a stranger to escort her to a hotel or elsewhere. The cases in which ladies have fallen into serious trouble in consequence of their imprudence in this particular are numerous. An Elmira paper states that a married lady from Philadelphia was most fully treated and even robbed in that place on Saturday evening last. She resisted the politeness of a gentleman in the cars till she could resist no longer, and then permitted him to show her to a hotel. There she took a glass of wine, which contained a drug, and the next day she knew she was wandering on the streets, robbed of her watch and money, and probably of her honor. The villain escaped and is now probably looking for another victim in the shape of a silly, vain female who will accept his invitation on some train of cars.

THE SCHOOL.—On Friday evening of last week the Institute, under the charge of Prof. Carver, held an exhibition for the purpose of raising money, to be expended as previously announced. The exercises consisted of declamations, vocal and instrumental music, dramatic scenes, dialogues, etc. The whole school comprising more than two hundred students took part in the exhibition, which was highly entertaining, and we are very glad to say largely attended.

There were decided evidences of improvement in all respects, and we could name several as prominent examples; but where all are doing so well in improvement and advancement, it would be invidious to select any for special commendation. During the evening there was a great desire in the audience to cheer some classes but Prof. Carver desired that no demonstration of the kind should be made, and the wish was commendably respected.

The last scene, a pantomime, was very amusing. We cannot pretend to remember all the characters represented; but we remember "Queen Bess," "Mrs. Parlington and Ike," "John Bull," an "Irishman," a "Yankee," a "Spanish Don and Lady," "Little Red Riding Hood," "Swiss," "Shepherd," "Flower Girl," "Night," "Widow," "The Columbian," and other newspapers of the town, "A Brigand," a "Brigadier General," and many other characters.

We thought it exceeding bad taste however to exhibit at such a time and place, a character bearing aloft a large wooden cross, more especially as his appearance was greeted with a laugh.

At the end of the exhibition, the Rev. Mr. Sheip, as chairman of a committee on penmanship, made report, awarding prizes to the best writers.

THE KALIDISOPE.

A map of boy life—its fluctuations and its vast concerns.

NO. XLV.

GUAYAQUIL. This is the name given to one of the principal provinces or States of Ecuador, and it extends from the Pacific Ocean back to the Andes, containing about 15,000 square miles. Guayaquil City, its capital, is the principal port in the Republic. Its inhabitants number about 22,000 souls. It is built in rather a straggling manner along the river and contains very few buildings of architectural beauty or merit. In fact so frequent are the bombardments, revolutions, fires and earthquakes, that its growth has been much retarded, although it is the leading City in all respects, save population. The buildings are either of adobe (a species of brick baked in the sun) or bamboo cane, built in the same style as those in Panama. The climate is terribly hot and as it rains steadily six months in the year, there is not much inducement for a foreigner to sojourn in that region.

During the rainy season—which they call winter, although it is the hottest time of the whole year—the lowlands from the base of the Andes to the Ocean are flooded from three to ten feet deep, and the cattle are driven to the higher lands until the waters subside.—The inhabitants along the "bottoms" build their huts on piles eight or ten feet high, and communicate with each other by means of canoes. At this time the whole land is infested with vermin and reptiles, generated or brought into activity by the heat and rains, and the very air is impregnated with malaria. Indeed, so rapid is the decomposition of vegetable and animal matter, that pestilence would soon depopulate the land if nature had not provided a remedy in the shape of innumerable gnatzooes, or buzzards, which "occupy the land," and gratuitously, yet efficiently perform the duty of scavengers, so that a mass of garbage, a dead horse, or a murdered man are soon stripped of all offensive qualities. In fact, so highly appreciated are their services, that they are protected by local laws, and its an offence punishable by fine and imprisonment to kill them.

These buzzards, however, are aided by the chain-gang, or criminals, who march through the streets with iron balls attached to their feet, and chains to their wrist, armed with brooms and coffee sacks with which they sweep up the dirt and deposit it in the river. They are guarded by the soldiers of the Republic—negroes of course—dressed in flaming red, with an occasional rent in their trousers,—with bare feet,—and who indolently lean upon their muskets, or prowl about with their hands, or their feet, showing how vigilantly they perform their duty.

Notwithstanding the intense heat we enjoyed ourselves thoroughly, visiting the principal places of interest, learning the customs, manners and language of the people, and gormandizing upon strange dishes, and such fruits as the pineapple, cherimoya, banana, plantain, yuca, and alligator pear.

On our journey towards Quito, we crossed the Guayaquil river as far as Bogota in a little steamer called the Bolivar, which at the time was owned and controlled by Captain, —, an American. On my return, however, the steamer had been withdrawn, on account of the blockade of the river by the Peruvians, with whom Ecuador was at war. For various reasons I prefer describing the downward trip.
