The Conlumbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1868

|  |  |  |  | I 10. |  |  | PRICE five centes. |
| :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: | :---: |
| Re d | athlee miectoht |  |  |  |  | his arms as I fell, for I swooned away, When I woke Charlie was hending over me. | "He has been dreaming, I suppose,"  I had to say. But was it a dream?  Autumn came. Will's furlough was |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  | ways on the point of poing out, and she required to bo guardell from 3 ill rule shocke with the tenderost care. So be when she exelaimed at my pallor, 1 | "Yes! it is not gone yet. But don't be frigbtened, Lu."  1 was braver tow for 1 was not alone. | to last till Christmas,and we had deter mined to retain the house till December, nd keep our Thanksgiving there. Patty regarded this plan with favor |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  was tiren. |  | back kitchen and do our baking in it. |
|  |  |  |  |  | "J'm sum you are, dever, and no wonder. But now we are here in this fine | prosion, the nightmare which we hadboth felt wa- gone. Charlic spoke firat. "The co-temant has made us a pretty |  |
|   breas, Chemicalas, ac. | W. |  |  |  | old eountry-plawn you ouglit to begin to jelt 4 p . You munt insist on the twins lolng move-sweh great, ret-cheoked |  |  |
|  | s |  |  |  |  | secmed ghastly enough.  "Did you hear anything before 1  came $\quad$." I askel | "O, therenplenty of dead wood ly-ing around, that hat better be out of ing around, that had better be out ofthe way,", Patty said, nnd clung to her plan so persistently that 1 told her to |
| 1 |  |  |  |  | R | Refore Charit could spak there was |  |
| Chocks, watchesade y |  |  |  |  |  |  | plan so persistently that 1 told her to do as she liked. |
| masmagay | , |  |  |  |  | and then a heavy fall  We both sprang to the door. The bright Ight of the kerosene lamp was th $\qquad$ | and with a long-handled hoe and a superannuated broom he was set to clean the over. |
|  | 1189x+m |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | tlung over the entry and staircase. But | ing going on for ten minutes or more, then Will came to the door naying:  Lu, can you bear a little more and |
| moots axd shoms. |  |  |  |  |  | fie or munk commenexd farther |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| (1) |  |  |  |  |  |  | "Lu, can you bear  "I don't think anything would start-  le me much now," I replied, halfguesw. |
| Vkr | M |  |  |  |  |  | ing at his mosaning.  'Come, then, and nee what we've |
| D) |  |  |  |  |  | (tamen |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | which had been the seene of our tir, my hand upon Charlices arm and im- | strange phonomena.  There, lying upon a heap of ashea I |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| niam | Lhent street miectory. |  |  |  |  | Moren him to top. For there weere | Eaw some pile, disjointed bones,-human bones-smalland delisate-exhumed at last from their long resting-place. |
|  | P |  |  |  |  | heve that to walls beidec ns thoki, |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| H |  |  |  | y iron alour. It hatnd and diselos- |  |  |  |
| $4{ }^{\text {a }}$ |  |  |  | to a durk cay. | $\begin{aligned} & \text { the } \\ & \text { kro } \end{aligned}$ | then the iron door was slipped into its grooves with a clang. | determined to have the cooking done by the stove. I had to put up with some sharp innuendoes, but 1 did not |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | the door of the room. It was quite empty, off course. A palo moonightshoneinat the unshuttered window and |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  | mind them.  Ater this discovery the midnight |
|  |  | ss |  |  |  |  |  |
|  | JEBELTOM - DLECTO |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| M |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  | d cruel murder, whose details |
| hothis had samons. |  |  |  |  |  |  | may as well be spared  The law never laid hands on the murderer; though he won |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | struck two. Charlie sat with me half an hour, but there was no further dikturbance. | his grave attended by dark suspicions. And now, after the lapse of half a century, the ashes of the victim tentified to |
| 4atame |  | M. |  |  | quite helplesaly.  "O, never mind, Lu. I think it will | "I guess the entertainment is over for to-night," said Charlie, "You goto bed |  |
| Fexavem manirimix mix |  | Llash h. abbott |  | $\begin{aligned} & 1 \text { dare } \\ & \text { ot } \mathrm{got} \\ & \text { n you } \end{aligned}$ |  | I.u, and I'll finish the nigh in mammass sitting-room. This arrangement wa* H whilo foll anleop I |  |
|  |  |  |  | ible 1 mayn't," |  | This arrangement was a ter a while 1 fell asleep. 1 th |  |
| 1 |  | C. |  |  |  | in my first map, when Patty's volee at my bedside awoke me.  "O Miss Lu, who do you think is |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | there nut be beeide youreert in your |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  | Smuggee in a maner that madio it the |
|  |  |  |  |  | "Only Charlie, not a word to Patty. Remember. And mother must not be frightened elther. So don't forget that | 1 dressed hastily, ran down and there was our darlling old will, alive and well. All $: y$ long hearts-sicknesn wa | Joint ock property or tureo of the con- |
| ambemants axd checres. |  | $\mathrm{R}^{\text {obart f.clar }}$ |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | well. All is $y$ long heart-sickneen was over.  Home on a furlough! Ah: themean- |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | ing compressed into those words. O,but  it should bea holiday! And it was.  We were all as merry as birds. Wi |  |
| dravasay |  |  |  |  | to sleep  I am afraid to my dieappointment, I |  | was clear that he ceuld tpult nat mueh |
|  |  |  |   *i was always a stublorn difleliever  in ghosily appomatice until I wont to | सt pon my word it Charlis, veliemently  Wo loaked at each other in th sort of onfused surprize.  "You look ns if you had seen a ghost,  Lucilla," cried charlie, at loogth.  I shivererl. I felt an unacountable,  suddendeyrission.  "Conne! ' iet's go hway !" I sajl hast- | was utterly undisturbed, and rose in the morning ready to laugh at my whimsies of yoterday. |  |  |
| c. |  |  |  |  | whim-ies of yeaterday.  Six weeks passed uway asquietly as is |  |  |
| J. |  |  |  |  |  |  | cacy, hit on the exact thing. Two |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | to our contlidence. Of course Will was incredulout, and when wehnd scornful- | we was tosed for. This preliminary settled, the trio sat down |
|  |  |  |  |  | mpiteor my cares, phasis up, as mam- masaid, Mamma was letter too. Charhe hat netllad down ti, reading law |  | and the pipe was lit, the holder of it taking in his lips one of the straws as |
|  |  |  |  |  | with the sllage mulre. Hugh was wriling a novel from which we all con- | fleld-nervec, fancies, fears, thlusionshe stubbornly deelared himself uncon | of this straw thesecond man trok in his mouth, us well as a tip of the third straw, at the farther extromity of |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | vinad.  "Well, you will see," I retorted.  And that night he did |  |
|  |  | $\mathrm{A}^{\text {coti }}$ |  |  |  |  | truw, at the furt which sat the third man. Then the reat began. The man with the pipe |
|  |  |  |  |  | Anios the stiuts evrains having |  | ank umile, und then carefully blew |
|  | W, yinat |  |  |  | white muslin that slmuld adorn, the parlor. I was in my own room. It was past elesen owlock tat | programme.  Onily 1 had taken the procaution to | it through the straw into the mouth of hessecond man, who, after taking toll of it, passed it on through the straw |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | that nt the first call he was beefite me. With him near, I was not much ufraid, and of course a soldier who thas freed | , pasiod it on through the straw to  third man, who, in consideration of at virtue the tobaceo might have d, was permitted to swallow $1 t-u$ caution rendered neceesary lest the riden should get $t 1$ seent of the prohibindulgence |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| J |  |  |  |  | contentedly, But suddenly the room fusving that perfect stillnese which is so fouticeableat nifht I wemed to becomo | There is a great deal in use. Even he supernatural becomes divested of |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  | indulgence,"  N Kismine. - The first oildity that  nes into my way is a remark by |
| miscrilinxots. |  |  |  |  |  | These singular manifestations werefrequenty repeated. We became in ameasure hathituated to them. All the | es into my way is a remark by e one that kisses are like creation, ause they are made of nothing, and |
|  |  |  | downe |  | my forchead. But presently Charlie's "They cun't hurt ux aniyhow, The |  | use they are made of nothing, and are very good-a very sensible rerk, by the way-and the next is $m$ |
|  |  |  |  |  |  | older members of the family heard the sounds, also, except mamma, and mosi |  |
| 1. Mathrix |  |  |  |  | teeth tiftht determined net to erram, | betokening the presence in my room, and fall atcep sgain. Will declared | rk, by the way-and the next ix inition of a "bues."  Thus: Buss, to kisw; rebus, to kies |
|  |  |  |  | , |  |  | 解; plurioas, to kias without regard sex: syllabus, to kisy the wrong |
|  | hacier | S. Ccolans, |  |  |  | and fall atleep again. Will deelared It was a gentle ghost that haunted nenot the ones ne was pernuaded wion | person; ombibus, tokin* all the per- sons in tho room; verous, to kiss in the |
| 1.. |  |  |  |  | an elorest my sule  1 mostered courago presently to | ot the one, he war persuaded, who made the racket in the old kitchen One night there waw a pectilarly |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| Repmer |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
| W, |  |  |  | lag betwern the Fotomac and Rict |  |  |  |
|  | me |  |  | 1 hud plenty of thiugs to worry abo |  |  |  |
|  |  |  | rove | lowe the twins wer Ia rewet and whether Hew |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  | to los siazacd. |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  and volvety asa gentleman's lawn, un- | always encountering frightful perits by |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  | closed. There was a low, insiguificant porch over the front door, curiouly di-- | ficld and flocel And whon these al falled I could ahway= be-mizorableabout will. |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  | proportioned to the beight of the lailding. A girl sat in a chair it front of a |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  | veret buy wit smpe nem | ar's bell without suppecting aletter containing had news. 1 ran up hastily, |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  | thenfores, and my complexion wasn't biny ruddier when 1 ,frempted myself |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  | or. |  |  |  |  |  |
| 20 |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |

