Grant tries to show that he had no other alternato show that he had no other alterna-tive left him, and in so doing, gets out of temper and talks about his reputa-tion "as a soldier and a man," (which, by the way, is far from being as great as he has been led to believe). The tone of his letters is simply insolent, and ex-hibits a degree of insurbordination which calls loudly for some interposi-tion on the part of the President, his su-posite effect. The documents were re-

GEN. JOHN BEATTY, the Republican candidate for Congress in the VIIIth District of Ohio (to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Hamilton), was on Monday elected by over one thousand majority. Last November Gov. Hayes had only 246 majority in the district. The result is especially gratifying and auspicious from the fact that the Democracy threw their whole power, with Andrew Johnson at their head, into this first election in 1868; that they did their utmost to get one fact to sustain their noisy clamor about Congress being repudiated by the people. Here was a test case; it was Congress rersus Johnson; a Congressman was to be chosen; the district was to say the least very close, and needed but the change of two votes in a handred from last October to give them the coveted victory.—Millonian.

We are willing to take the election above named as a test case.
