THE MYSTERY.

RATTLE, clatter, rattle, rattle;
The train went thundering on, filling my ears with the din, and confounding my eyes as they wandered down the principal columns.

The President's View of the Situation.

WASHINGTON, February 2, 1868.

Your correspondent, had an interview with His Excellency to-night after the state dinner and found him not-stricken with fear or trembling, but smiling and radiant, in better humor and spirits than for many months.
