

THE COLUMBIAN, BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA.

The Columbian.

FRIDAY, AUG. 11, 1866.

CONNELLY BELAS has sold his farm in Orange to Charles Lee for the sum of $10,000.

C. W. SWYDER has sold his hardware store at this place to Messrs. Runyan & Warden, possession to be given Sept. 1st.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column, for Agents to sell the Standard and Official Lives of Seymour and Blair. It is a work much in demand and will meet with a ready sale.

DIVISION OF BRIDGEPORT TOWNSHIP.—We see with this question has not died out as was supposed. The Commissioners, E. G. Ricketts, Walter Scott, and W. B. Koops meet for that purpose on the 27th at the house of Geo. K. Hess.

THE ORANGEVILLE NORMAL SCHOOL.—It will be seen by a notice in our columns, it is to be re-opened on the 21th. We should be pleased to see Prof. Walker succeed—there is no more beautiful for such a school anywhere, and it is greatly needed for the surrounding Country.

WHAT would property be worth in this community, if all the offices were filled by ignorant negroes? Who would live in such a place, if he could avoid it, and yet that is exactly the condition of things the Radicals will force upon the Southern States, if Grant is elected.

A GOOD EGG-SAMPLE.—On the 10th of this month, a fish belonging to Mrs. Paul Gilbert, of Fishing Creek Township, laid an egg which, measured eight inches around in one direction, and seven inches in the other. Our informant, Mr. Eli Robbins, says he measured the egg. If any man has a hen that can beat that without "bustin'" we want to buy her. At last accounts the hen was doing well.

WHEN the laborer receives a dollar he receives but seventy cents; when the bondholder receives a dollar he receives a dollar and forty cents; the former paid in greenbacks, the latter in gold. Such inequality between the currency of the poor man and that of the rich, the Grant party are striving to continue. The Democratic party declares in favor of our currency for all.

THE ORANGEVILLE DEMOCRATIC CLUB, is fully organized, and has for its officers: President, Col. Hiram B. Kline. Vice President, James B. Harman. Treasurer, John Keller. Secretary, William H. Snyder.

It will meet every Wednesday evening at the School House, and all Democratic and Conservative citizens, are requested to become members.

RADICAL CONVENTION.—We are informed that the Radicals held a Convention in the garret of Hartman's building. P. John wanted a full ticket nominated, in order that he might make a "speech" in the night. No one seems, would volunteer as a victim, and no ticket was formed. The Convention was not full, and the most of the Delegates were self-selected. As usual, P. John wrote the Resolutions, but the Committee bringable to read them, Palemon performed that duty. Several speeches were made.

THE SOLDIER'S ORPHAN SCHOOL, does not come back to Orangeville, as was reported, after all, being the secrets of the Radical party that they do not certainly know why it was taken away, nor why the report that it was to be restored, turns out to have been false.

We have our own opinion on the subject. Radical thirst for plunder is so great, that finding the annual handling of $25,000, of the peoples money was worth looking after, they very naturally coveted Prof. Walker's chance the public crib, and hence a desperate quarrel, and the result. Columbia county Radicals are of no account at Harrisburg, in fact anywhere, except to vote, and for this privilege they will with great satisfaction seek the hind tit.

POLITICAL DISCUSSIONS.—Captain Brockway of the Co. "M. H. A." and Captain M. Whitmore have arranged for a series of joint discussions on the political issues of the day in this County. Their engagements, as fixed at present, are as follows: Jerseytown, Monday Evening, August 21th; Mainville, Tuesday Evening, August 29th; Berwick, Tuesday Evening, September 1st. Other engagements will be made later in the campaign. Members of all creeds are expected to attend, as this will give only an view of both parties for reasons. The preparation of rumors, lights, and the preservation of order, is left to the joint action of the Vigilance Committees.

TAKE NOTICE.—We wish the voters of Columbia county to remember the fact, that our share of the public debt at present is the enormous sum of $1,311,180; and the interest alone amounts to $230,570.91; or over a quarter of a million dollars yearly to perpetuate Radical rule. The valuation of property in this County is about $1,610,500, so that the debt created by this figure is almost equal in value to the assessed value of all the property in the county! This does not include the amounts paid out in bounties, etc. Putting our population at 25,000, it would make each man, woman and child over $172.901. Remember that the household pays not one cent of this tax, and that the debt is hourly increasing. Tax-payers! your only remedy is to hurl from power the Radicals who tax and rob you.

RADICALS, in Orange township, are not numerous, but with honorable exceptions, of course, they are of the most malignant type. We were shown a few days ago, an anonymous letter, received by a Democrat in Orangeville, containing a rebuke of the usually silly slang, dignified into so called charge, against the Democratic party. These letters, for it is not the first one, are entirely respectful, and the real object of the author is not therefore apparent. He is greatly mistaken, if he hopes to find a Democrat, equally ignorant with himself, to discuss his nonsensical questions. We advise him to quit reading such disfigured papers as the Press and the Republican, and he will soon find the letter of it.

THE KALEIDOSCOPE.

A Map of busy life.—The thread of his "concerns."

NO. LXV.

GRAND CHARGE OF THE SECOND CORPS. DURING the night and day it rained considerably, but this proved to our advantage, as under the cover of the storm and darkness Hancock united his scattered Divisions, and prepared to make that magnificent assault which not only made his name famous to all time, but which resulted in the first grand tactical victory gained by our arms during the campaign. We moved silently to the left, and ere morning dawned the Second Corps was massed in the locality occupied by Gott's Division two days before, our guns taking their original position at what was called the "Brown" house. Hancock had his head quarters in our Battery, and in our front formed his entire Corps for a charge. To the left was the Ny River, the Mat, Ty, Po, because the Ny forming the Mattaponi, and Ny forming and physically. For about a mile from our battery the ground inclined heavily downwards. At the bottom of the slope was a deep ditch which the ground secured to the enemy's works, about 300 yards further on, but which were hid from our position by a corner of woods. The troops were formed nearly as follows: Gibbon's Division on the left, Barlow's in the center, and Birney's on the right. Barlow was the first Division, had the hardest work to do, and he was only because the works in his front were the strongest, but because he had so much open space to cross. In appearance he is a hardy, less youth, but in action has a heart and courage of a Murat. At the beginning of the war he abandoned the profession of law in New York City and entered the army as a private, and by sheer merit attained his position as a division commander.

The field works in his front were the strongest I ever saw. They were at least six feet high, regularly traversed, and wide enough for two men to ride over them abreast. They held forty pieces of artillery, and were guarded in front by an abatis fifty feet wide, the jagged points of which in themselves formed a serious obstacle. His Division was formed by throwing out a heavy skirmish line, then three lines of battle, the balance of his command being formed in close column, and so arranged as to protect and support the flank. His Division, now reduced to a Brigade, and General Sigel, formed the reserve. I have been a minute because the charge was the grandest ever known, both in regard to numbers and results. Besides, it was made by the flower of our army against Lee's finest Corps—Stonewall Jackson's.

It was just getting light, though a heavy fog rested over the earth, when the low command "Forward!" was given. The men passed quietly over three-fourths of the distance ere the rebel pickets fired and fell back. Our fellows then charged at the run, and gained the works before their men were really awake. They had only time to fire a few rounds of canister. Unfortunate at the sight of the prisoners and captured guns, the supporting columns could not restrain themselves, and gave vent to their joy by the most noisy yells imaginable, thus alarming the enemy's reserve, and warning them of our advance. Had it been otherwise nothing of any account would have been left of Lee's army, as our centre was pierced and in a few moments more we would have been in their rear. But they were now aroused, and hastily drawing troops from other points, endeavored to retake their works. The Mississippi Brigade regained a portion of the line in front of Birney's Division, and this point offered the hardest fighting of the day. Our men only retreated about 30 yards, and though unprotected, fought unflinchingly throughout the entire day. So steady was our fire they could not show their heads to take steadily, nor could they retreat, as our shells were the open back were were them. Where our line joined touch at the breast-works, the men could neither advance, nor retreat, and would fire over the parapet, muzzle to muzzle. This continued and terrific roar of musketry was kept up through the night in order to prevent the enemy from carrying off some artillery which lay between the two lines. To show its intensity I may state that oak trees eighteen inches in thickness, were cut down by it, and that the bodies of men and horses lying between the two lines were so rattled as to present sharp masses cut finer than hash!

Our men were almost wild with joy over their successes, so unexpected and so signal. The enemy's guns were quickly turned upon them, and aided much in repelling their assaults. The zealous infantry became impromptu artillerists, and despite the Manual, rammed into the guns canister, solid shot, shell, and in fact anything that would enter the muzzles. Sometimes two or three loads would be fired at once, and if a couple of men got knocked over by the recoil, it was for the remainder. Unused to the operation of revolving screws, and other devices of artillerists, they discharged the cannon by means of hot coals, or by pouring powder into the vent, and then discharging their muskets into it; and for range and elevation—what did they care? "was none—fun—they wanted. I afterwards learned they produced much consternation in the enemy's wagon train, parked a mile and a half to the rear. As Hancock's Head Quarters were in our Battery, we saw and heard all that was going on. A moment after the charge, we beheld a crowd of men coming confusedly to the rear. I could scarcely believe the Corps had broken especially as there had been but little fighting; but the gray uniforms soon dispelled the fear. They came by in thousands, and we became alarmed lest they should escape the weak guard sent with them. Among the prisoners were Gen. Stuart and his staff.—The General in his haughty bearing appearing more like a captor than a prisoner. Hancock, who had known him in the regular army, stepped up to him and extending his hand, said good-naturedly "How are you, Stuart?" "General, Sir," was the caustic answer, "at the same time the extended hand was thrust forward, and he was thundered with himself, to discuss his nonsensical questions. We advise him to quit reading such disfigured papers as the Press and the Republican, and he will soon find the letter of it."
