Charles, sitting with his slate on a four, and will be better for him.

If brought into the stable very warm let him cool a little before the blanket is put on, for if put on immediately it will add to the heat. If not very warm, blanket him at once. As soon as cool, clean and rub him down—rub his legs well. Do not let him stand over night without being cleaned and well-rubbed. Do not forget to feed.

In teaching a young horse to drive well, do not hurry to see how fast he can trot. Keep each pace clear and distinct from the other—that is, in walking, make him walk, and do not allow him to trot. While trotting, be equally careful that he keeps steady at his pace, and do not allow him to slack into a walk. The reins, while driving, should be kept snug; and when pushed to the top of his speed, keep him well in hand, that he may learn to bear well upon the bit, so that when going at a high rate of speed, he can be held at his paces, but do not allow him to pull too hard, for it is not only unpleasant, but makes it often difficult to manage him."

The Dyspeptic Farmer.

It is a curious fact that our dyspeptic farmers, hard-working, early rising, big dinner-eating, though they be, take better care of their horses than they do of themselves. As the horses come, steam ing with work, you will always hear: "John, let them cool off before you

But the farmer who insists on this have to pay all that and much more, to ORANGEVILLE FOUNDRY, treatment of his horses will sit down to a kind lady?" the dinner table hot and fatigued and commence at once to satisfy his cravings of an unnatural appetite. And after din-ner he bolts off to the field, fretful and uneasy, under the impression that his employes are taking undue advantage of him of a fifteen minutes' rest he al-

This man cannot understand why his neighbor, who cares for his stomach as much as he does for his horses, and who eats at the proper time and in the proper manner, and insists on every man having a rest of half an hour after eating, is so free from sickness, is ales so much more than bimself. We have some farmers of the dyspeptic type in every neighborhood.—When at work they move like whirlwinds; take scarcely time to breathe, eat like a hungry man at a railroad house, and when off duty are stiff-jointed, limping about like spavined horses, morose, and as uncomfortable as our most confirmed "Oh! if my Charlie grows up to be a city dyspectics .- Ex.

How Much ?- How much better is your farm than it was one year ago? How much lovelier have you made your home by the planting of trees and shrubs? How much better is your stock of horses, sheep, and cattle? How much of error have you discovered in your mode of treatment of the different crops you have grown? How much have you learned from your neighbors, from your agricultural paper, from your experience in relation to your farm options? How much have you done ald your wife and daughter in their household duties by furnishing them with improved household utensils, and the better location and arrangement of wells, cisterns, walks, wood piles, cell-ars and dairy rooms? How much of kindness and charity have you shown towards the needy and the helpless? How much better husband, father and brother are you than you were one year ago? Now is the time to reflect upon all these things.

Conceaning Horses.—To prevent balls of snow on horses' feet—Let the hoof and fetlock be well cleaned, and then rub with soft soap previous to their going out in snowy weather. This will effectually prevent balls of snow from collecting on the foot, which will sometimes cause the animal to fall, and if not, make his progress doubly toilsome. For gails on horses' backs or necks—

one of the most effective remedies known is an application of white lead moistened with milk. When milk is not at hand common white lead will answer. If applied in the early stages of the injury the cure is certain.

To test a horse's eyes, look at the eye carefully, when the horse is in rather a dark stable. Note the shape and size of the pupil, carry this carefully in your mind while you turn the horse about to a strong light. If the pupil contracts and appears much smaller than in the first instance, you may infer that the horse has a good strong eye; but if the pupil remains nearly of the same size in both cases, his eyes are weak, and you had better have nothing to do with

An excellent liniment for wounds, sprain, bruises and swellings may be made as follows: A pint of good vinegar, a pint of soft soap, a handful of salt, and a tablespoonful of saltpetre. Mix thor-oughly and bottle for use. This is very efficacious, and is cheaply and easily prepared .- Western Stock Journal.

OLD Cows.—How long is it profitable to keep a cow? I consider a cow in her prime (all things considered) from five to ten years old. Some cows hold out and horses; and are really as young to all intents and purposes at twelve years, as others are at nine or ten. Never keep a cow through the winter after she gets to going down hill, or kill a super-ior cow on account of her age, if her teeth are good, and she is all right, without any signs of deterioration. Cows should be milked regularly, and

The Smack In School,

The following incident in a district school is told by Mr. William Pitt Palmer, of New York, President of the Manhattan Insurance Company, in a poetical address before "The Literary Society," in Stock bridge, Massachusetts, his native home.

A district school not far away,
'Mid Berkshire hills, one winter's day,
Was humming with its wonted noise Some few upon their task intent, But more on furtive mischief bent, The while the master's downward look Was fastened on a copy-book; When suddenly, behind his back, Rose sharp and clear a rousing SMACK! As 'twere a battery of biles As 'twere a battery or omas
Let off in one tremendous kiss!

"What's that?" the startled master cries;

"That, thir," a little imp replies,

"Wath William Willith, if you pleathe—
I saw him kith Thuthannah Peathe!"

With irown to make a statue thrill,
The master thundered "Hither, Will!"
Like wretch o'ertaken in his track,

With stolen chattels on his back, With stolen chattels on his back, Will hung his head in fear and shame, And to the awful presence came-A great green bashful simpleton, The butt of all good-natured fun-With smile suppressed, and birch upral The threatener failured—"I'm amazed That you, my biggest pupil, should Be guilty of an act so rude! Before the whole set school to boot-What evil genius put you to't?"
"Twas she, herself, sir," sobbed the lad.
"I didn't mean to be so bad— "I didn't mean to be so bad— But when Susannah shook her curls And whispered I was 'traid of girls, And dursn't kiss a baby's doll, I couldn't stand it, sir, at all, But up and kissed her on the spot!

I thought she kind o' wished me to!" A little boy named Knight, who re-cently entered the mission school of New London, was told by the teachers that he must be a good boy, and when he died he would go to heaven. The little boy was well pleased with the prospect, and promised to be the best kind of a boy. The next Sunday he appeared in his place, looking sorrowful; and the teacher asked him if he had been a good boy. "Yes," he replied. I've tried to be good; but it's no use. The boys say I can't go to heaven if I am ever so good." "Why do the boys say that?" asked the teacher. "They say," replied the boy, with the utmost simplicity, "there'll be no Knight there."

A few days ago a gentleman whose probesels had been lost was invited out to tea. "My dear," said the good lady of the house to her little daughter, "I want you to be very particular, and to make no remarks about Mr. Jenkins' nose." Gathered around the table, everything was going well; the child peeped about, looking rather puzzled, and at last startled the table: "Ma, why did you tell me to say nothing about Mr. Jenkins' nose; he hasn't got any?"

THE Utica Herald tells the following tory: "Two maiden sisters, Polly and Sally Reed, aged 85 and 83, who lived alone in scanty circumstances in Brook-field, Madison County, were found by a neighbor on the morning of the 12th inst., Polly dead on the floor, and Sally lying on the bed in a helpless condition The latter died on Saturday.
