FARMER'S COLUMN.

Dig Around the Trees. This advice needs to be repeated daily. Every farmer knows that a hill of corn or potatoes will not amount to much unless cultivated, and yet there are many who will neglect to give the same care to a tree, which is worth a hundred hills of either of the former. In rich that of the loom and anvil; and the And so she was set free from the un solls, trees may grow rapidly without capital will come, if it is called for. lucky flax-spinning. cultivation, and no amount of grass or weeds will retard them ; but there are els of wheat where you now get fifteen, other things besides growth to be look- and eighty bushels of corn where you ed after. If the weeds and grass are allowed to grow up around the stems of apple, peach, or quince trees, the bark will become soft near their base by being shaded, and thereby be in a suitable condition for the reception of the eggs, which will eventually become peach or apple borers. Take any dozen young apple-trees in sections where the apple-tree borer is abundant, and allow increase of the crops. a portion to be choked with weeds, and the remainder well cultivated, and then watch the result. From our own experience, we believe that the chances are nine to one in favor of those cultivated being exempt from this pest. The same is true in regard to many other trees which are llable to the attacks of various species of insects. Young evergreens should never have their lower branches shaded with weeds and grass, and the soil as far as the low. er branches extend should be stirred at least once in two or three weeks during the entire summer, or else apply some kind of mulching that will effectually keep down the weeds. When the trees become large and strong, these precautions will not be necessary. Every blade of grass or small weed that is allowed to grow about the stems of young trees will rob the soil of moisture, and this fact alone ought to be sufficient to make every one practice thorough and careful culture.-Hearth and Home.

How to Use Hen-Manure.

Thinning Out Fruit.

The over abundant bloom and prospect of fruit this year will make many hearts rejoice, but will lead many to neglect their trees. At no time will they need greater attention and care than now. If allowed to overbear this year, the chances are that the tree will suffer an injury and overstrain, that will last for years ahead. The opportunity is favorable now to save them by frequent thinning. Go through the orchard, thin out one-half of all the fruit; or say one-third at first and the balance afterward. The tree, thus relieved of an immense number of small specimens, demanding sustenance, will now concentrate it all upon the remaining fruit, causing it to attain an unusual size, flayor and handsome appearance. Such fruit will always sell handsomely and readily, while a vast mass of mediocre fruit often is passed by without a purchaser. To many it seems paradoxical to cut off one-half of a fruit crop in order to realize a greater profit; but it has been proved so often to our own satisfaction that we practice it now as constantly as we cultivate the ground. Now is the time, in June and July, to carry out this plan; and every week the good orchardist will visit his trees and clip off the superfluous or inferior fell on the ground, which was spun in

The human stomach is to the human system what that clastic place of metal is to a chronometer. It influences the setion of the other organs, and 570,090 590,000 controls, to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried fit-ther: for as the weakness or other imperfections of the main spring is indicated on the face of the 1,000,000 11 mepiece, so also is the weakness or other dis-order of the stomach betrayed by the face of the in whid. The complexion is sallow or faded, the eyes are deficient in insure and intelligence, and here is a worn, anxious expression in the whole there is a worn, an xious expression in the whole countenance which tells as plainly as written words could do, that the great nourishing organ whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end Hos-tetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to be the thing needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be renized by a new one but the 5 watch may be replaced by a new one, but th a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous veg-etable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates.
