

THE COLUMBIAN AND DEMOCRAT, BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA.

The Columbian.

Bloomsburg, Friday, July 8, 1870.

We announce this week the name of our new candidate for Sheriff.

It would return thanks to George Scott, for a copy, in two volumes, of Bates' History of Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Up New York Evening Post with the news that if letter message is reduced to one cent, there will be two sent to where one is sent now.

ACCIDENTS.—On Monday last, the evening excursion train on the L. & W., ran over a large bull near Plymouth, and the evening train ran over it.

HANDS.—We return our hearty thanks to Mr. Henry Kropf of this town, for a lot of remarkably fine pens, pens &c. They were duly and fully related.

WATER BALL.—An interesting game of ball took place at Columbia on the 1st, between two nine, commanded respectively by Abbott and Shaw.

The score stood, Abbott's side 12,

M. B. & S. F. ASSOCIATION.—At last stated meeting, Saturday July 1st, up to date of twelve hundred dollars was paid into the Association, of the money was sold at a premium of $77.00 per share, and the remainder at $65.00 premium.

CENSUS.—We understand that population of Bloomsburg ascertained by the Deputy Marshal is 3,900, which much smaller than we had anticipated.

The census of 1860 gave 2,698, thus an increase of less than 700 in years, or about 25 per cent. per volume.

MILITARY.—The weather has been agreeable and uncertain of late, as indicated by the following extracts:

"Within a few days it has been extremely hot, then cool enough for overcoats and now it is hot again, meteorological table for this year be a curiosity."

take pleasure in announcing that Normal School at this place has selected Mr. J. W. Niles, Esq., member of Instrumental class, who has taught in Brooklyn, N. Y., for several years, and we know that he comes there with a first-class reputation as a musician.

A meeting was held in Snyder's Hall on Thursday evening, July 7th, for the purpose of raising a Company of Light Artillery.

SIGNATURES.—We hear with regret that Fred. Ludwig and Bates have each accepted positions in the Normal School. It will be difficult to fill the vacancies and more difficult to find gentlemen as highly qualified as they were. We hope we shall lose their skill and experience as state or public teachers.

LA LOGE OF OHIO FELLOWS.—We are informed by the D. G. M. on Tuesday morning, that the Lodge in the usual form. This is the ninth Lodge in the country, following officers were installed:—Wilson M. Eves; V. G.—John Seeley; William Burgess; Asst.—Wm. H. Hayman; Treasurer; Leon Ladd.

DEATH.—Mr. Daniel Vanderlin of Mount Pleasant township, died Saturday night last after a brief illness, having taken to his bed on the Tuesday preceding. He had been ill for some time, and unfortunately ever since himself on the bed. He was warmly loved by friends and family, and there is a general regret over his sudden death.

VALUATION.—We learn that A. P. Parker, Treasurer of the Co. Robin Wood, of Lancaster, and formerly of the First National Bank of this place is a defaulter to a large amount, and has absconded. The bills of the Company are placed at $10,000 to $125,000. Assets not known, but we understand that it is very likely they may pay seventy-five per cent. of their indebtedness. No information has been received as to the whereabouts of Fowler.

death of Mrs. Daniel A. Beckley occurred on Wednesday afternoon last, both shocked and grieved people in our town. Mrs. Beckley died in her usual quiet manner, and in the evening before a Mitre service was taken ill. She was sitting by a window in her house, reading. A violent pain in the chest was the immediate precursor of death. So fearfully did an event has cast a gloom over the entire community.

EDITABLE.—Our readers may remember an article in our columns some time ago concerning the theft of a sum from Louis Bernhard's store in place, the water being taken at the time of the robbery.

THE FOURTH.—The 9th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE FIFTH.—The 10th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE SIXTH.—The 11th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE SEVENTH.—The 12th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE EIGHTH.—The 13th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE NINTH.—The 14th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TENTH.—The 15th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE ELEVENTH.—The 16th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWELFTH.—The 17th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTEEN.—The 18th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE FOURTEEN.—The 19th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE FIFTEEN.—The 20th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE SIXTEEN.—The 21st anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE SEVENTEEN.—The 22nd anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE EIGHTEEN.—The 23rd anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE NINETEEN.—The 24th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY.—The 25th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-ONE.—The 26th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-TWO.—The 27th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-THREE.—The 28th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-FOUR.—The 29th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-FIVE.—The 30th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-SIX.—The 31st anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-SEVEN.—The 1st anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-EIGHT.—The 2nd anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE TWENTY-NINE.—The 3rd anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY.—The 4th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-ONE.—The 5th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-TWO.—The 6th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-THREE.—The 7th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-FOUR.—The 8th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-FIVE.—The 9th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-SIX.—The 10th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-SEVEN.—The 11th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-EIGHT.—The 12th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-NINE.—The 13th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-TWO.—The 14th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-THREE.—The 15th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-FOUR.—The 16th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-FIVE.—The 17th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-SIX.—The 18th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had to be given, but the grand change is a most disagreeable one, as business men instead of regarding their letters at 8 o'clock in the morning until nearly noon, throwing all their care to the moon. We hope that the change is not to be of long duration.

THE THIRTY-SEVEN.—The 19th anniversary of the Nation's birth-day was quite generally observed throughout the country, but not with the enthusiasm or to the extent of former years. There was to be sure, much powder burned, many patriotic speeches made and dinners had