BLOOMSBURG, PA. FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 3, 1871.

Democratic State Convention. We do not know why the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee does not designate the time for holding the Convention, nor do we know that it is very Important when it is held. In a Gubernatorial canvass we believe the Convention ought to be held very early. so as to give ample time for discussion of the issues involved, as well as the fitness and personal merits of the candidates. We do not know that this is important in the case of Auditor and Surveyor General, for in these instances peculiar fitness does not seem to be considered by the mass of voters. This is all wrong, especially as to Auditor General, but is nevertheless true. A man of large capacity, a hater of iniquity, industrious and firm as rock, is of immense advantage to the people in that position, and one of opposite character-istics will permit thousands to be stolen. Unfortunately, however, the great body of the people do not seem to appreciate the importance of the position.

But it is an element of strength that should not be under rated for a party to be able to say truly that its candidate possesses all the requisite qualifications. The names of men are suggested who know no more about the duties of the position than a child of six months knows about Algebra and who would care as little about discharging the duties of the position in a proper and efficient manner as a pig does about grammar, and on the Republican side a candidate who is notorious for his connection with legislative rings-a supporter of the nine million steal-is named prominently. If the people persist in voting for such creatures, how can the public interests be protected?

While there are few proper men now days who will permit their names to be presented amidst a struggle, and no worthy ones who will make a struggle for a nomination, it is yet possible for a Convention to nominate a candidate who will be fully endorsed by competent authority as eminently fit men to be elected. That point made, the victo-

If the people imagine that their sentiments or interests are to influence the decision of this question they will soon find out where they stand. The ferms of the bargain are arranged, the legislative cattle are sold, and it only remains to deliver the goods.

The Radicals have recently erected the District of Columbia into a territo.

This process of "skinning" is dabbled in by a ring of officials who infest the U. S. Courts, and who carry on their operations by means of "pals" supplied by them. Guilty or not guilty, when a victim is once arrested there is no hope for him except to go through the mill, The Jurors to these courts are selected by the Marshal at pleasure, not by drawing or other process of fairness, but naming whosoever he chooses. Of course they are mere tools to carry out the purposes of the officer who selects them. They are to do what the U.S. Attorney tells them to do, and no amount of proof of honest purpose or good character prevalls, if the defendant has not gone exactly according to law in the slightest and most inoffensive particular. The business of the Court seems to be to convict any one who dares to stand a trial, and therefore he who desires to escape must make the best arrangement he can with the "pals". Here the guilty are on a footing with the innocent. The accused is deliberately measured, his value ascertained, and his pocket book appraised. The result is he is squeezed and squeezed till it is morally impossible for him to yield another dime with the heaviest pressure that can be put upon him. The amount thus extracted is the sum he must pay for liberation, and the major part of that sum does not go into the Federal treasury. Is it possible for this shameful business to be carried on without the officers themselves being cognizant of all the facts? Of course the accused can only be discharged by the act of the officers of the Court. Why is it that the "pals" can always induce the officers to act and that without them they will not act? The Clinton Democrat thus pertinently puts this point:

Operators and the Railroad companies has become serious. Whatever settlement may be made, let it be hoped that it will be a permanent one. The interests of all the parties concerned, as well as of the public generally, demand this. Nothing can of course be done in mining until the Railroad companies carry coal to market at reasonable rates. The Miners, and others, are petitioning the Legislature to fix the maximum rate of tolls at such a figure as will enter the research their tracks and how to keep clear of the law. But that there is rottenness in the revenue ring—that they are a set

Lest they should have the temerity to do so, the case is always hung up for a season in Washington, or between the Court and Washington.

While the innocent are thus dogged and robbed, men guilty of infamous crimes are permitted by the same officers and persons to go scott free! Counwalk the streets of Lock Haven in daily view of the officer who arrested the segar maker for using the same box twice. The Republican State Convention has been postponed until May 17th. It would be better to let it fizzle out alto-

The Philadelphia Transcript gives a sufficient and satisfactory reason for the postponement of the meeting. It says: "The true cause was that certain gen-tiemen were afraid that the meeting of the Convention at present would result in the passage of a resolution in opposi-tion to the mammoth Railroad Bill, already prepared and about to be intro-duced in the Legislature."

European News. A treaty of peace has at length, been signed by the authorities of Prussia and France. The latter codes Alsace and a part of Lorraine, including the foftress of Metz, and pays an indemnity of five billiards of franks, which we believe amounts to about one thousand millions of dollars, an amount supposed to be sufficient to cover the Prussian expenses of the war. Three years are given in which to pay this immense sum, and Prussia will hold a considera-ble number of fortresses and territory until payment is secured.

The German army entered Paris on Wednesday, and will no doubt hold it until all points are made satisfactory. The triumphal entry of the Germans into Berlin is to be delayed two months, as the whole people of Germany will observe six weeks' mourning for the victims of the war.

The attempt of England and other "great powers" to interfere in the negotiations for peace was haughtily repuls ed by the Germans. The latter made their own terms and enforced them, The French complain bitterly of the hardness of the terms exacted, and by turns beg favor and sympathy and rave and threaten. They seem to be wholly oblivious to the exactions of Napoleon the great when he had Prussia under his military heels. The fact is, the Prussians are only getting back what the French have heretofore taken from them.
