RIDAY MORNING, MARCH 24, 1871

About Public Measures and Men. We regard it as an evil of the first magnitude that in this country the public men, and the newspapers which discuss public concerns, seldom judge measures by their intrinsic merit or demerit, but denounce whatever is pro-posed by the opposite party. It is un-dignified, unmanly, ungenerous, degra-ding, contemptible and slavish, yet it is almost a universal custom. Political opponents share the fate of measures, and the greatest and purest Statesmen are denounced in the same vulgar terms that are applied to the most corrupt and basest of demagogues. It need not be argued that this is all wrong, for every body knows that. Yet it is in vain to appeal to our public men or to the newspapers to stop the abuse. Hightoned and able papers at Washington, Philadelphia and New York could correct it without much difficulty-a few able men in Congress might do the same thing, but not so perfectly-but there seems to be none that are not controlled by sheer rancor and passion. Even the once grave and dignified U.S. Senate, seems to be composed almost if not altogether of men who are governed by no higher motive of action than opposition to the rival party, or by personal spleen, or local advantage without regard to general propriety.

The evil complained of could not exist as to the Congress and high officers of government, if the people would pay proper regard to the elections and elecnone but able and fit men-or at least insist on those qualifications being regarded by those who manipulate nominations. Nor would the city newspapers (who lead because of their position) ndulge the error if the people did not best patronize those that are guilty of the very wrong complained of. The fault, then, lies with the people, and must be corrected (if ever) from that stand-point,

Public men will reform whenever they see that puble approbation will follow. They are all sensitive to that very point, and for the most part would rather court popularity by correct action, if that will gain it, than any other. But they look to the newspapers as the barometers of public opinion, and therefore that is the place where reformation is most practical. We hope to see the country press commence the reform and add to their own weight and importance by refusing for the future to follow in the wake of the city dailies and by forming their own opinions and pursuing the course of action that propriety may dictate. As preliminary they must always judge measures and men, after thoughtful examination, solely by their merits, and express opinions only in accordance with such judgment.

It will be a sort of millenum when measures and public men are discussed toon their merits and mere cavilling be set aside as un worthy and discreditable, when personal abuse and unwarrantee denunciation shall cease, and when editors and politicians respect themselves too much to be made vulgar and shameless political pettifoggers-charlatans and tools, panderers to error or demagogues. Whether this millenium s to occur or not is for the future to determine. The newspapers can accom-plish it if they will. The U.S. Senators would accomplish it if they were really great men.

Congressional. The Radical caucuses of the Senate and House each resolved that there should be no legislature at this session except some more stringent laws against the decent people of the South generally. House, treason appeared in their camp! thus:

It sppcars that Speaker BLAINE prepared a Mr. PETERS of Maine, postponing action on the condition of the South until next December, and providing that in the meantime a committee be appointed to investigate the condition of affairs in that section. The Democrats of course accepted, and when the resolution was offered by Mr. PETERS it secured the unanimous vote of the Democrats and about twenty Republicans, and was earled.

It is said the extreme Radicals on this committee will follow BUTLER's example and refuse to serve. The resolution is a complete defeat of the Radi. cals and is as much as to say that the Senate committee on that subject is imcompetent, or that the whole thing is a humbug! But for a full understanding of the subject, see BUTLER's manifesto. Two important facts are established : ist that the extreme Radicals headed by SUMNER in the Senate, are in a minority in that body ; and, 2d, that there

BENJ, F. BUTLER. The Platform of Radical Imperialism. The legislation of the party in power during the last five years, afford a fair index to the views and purposes of the men who mould its polley and control

New Ham

The unexpected result of the New Hampshire election and the overwhelm ing Democratic victory there, has frightened the Radicals terribly and they seem to see in it the hand writing upon the wall. SUMNER and his friends have the impudence to attempt to break the force of the victory by declaring that his disgrace by the Senate was the cause of it ! Preposterous impudence, truly ! Why such effect? The New Hamp shire Senators both sustained SUMNER and both opposed San Domingo-both were on the stump and using all their influence. Would it sustain SUMNER to defeat them, his friends? Would any man vote to defeat SUMNER candidates in order to prove friendship for him ? If so, it would be on the principle of interpreting Irish dreams, by contraries.

But why set up this absurd theory when the Radical party has been on the decline for years? They succeeded at the last Presidential election only by tno great military popularity and supposed non-partisan character of Gen. GHANT, and by the gross blundering of the Democratic National Convention. Ever since that time their downward course has been more rapid than ever. Every step they have taken since to recover strength has disgusted people more. Their tyranny, their oppression, their corruption, their extrava gance, their incompetency, their debasement of the ballot, their contempt for the true principles of the government, their mockery of instice and the rights of the people-these are the millstones around their necks that are dragging tion to effect this. It is the only hope them down to perdition. All the elections that have occurred since 1869 to a greater or less extent illustrate this fact. The Democratic scrength in the present Congress is more than double what it was in the last, and these heavy gains were made before SUMNER's disgrace.

The overwhelming result of the elec-tion in the first Senstorial district of this State was a powerful indication of the storm that is approaching, and the result in New Hampshire was only unlooked for because it is a yankee State. But it has before been demonstrated that good may come out of Nazareth and it is not impossible for good to come out of yankee land, especially when their pockets rather than their patriotism are concerned. But if a Democratic victory in the yankee States means a triumph for SUMNER, then Heaven save the Democracy ! But it is not so. It is Radicalism, of which SUMNER is the chief priest, that has fallen in New Hampshire, and the result there is but the foreshadowing of what is to occur everywhere. Radicalism is doomed.
