CONSUMPTION, ITS CURE AND ITS PREVENTIVE, BY J. H. SCHENCK, M. D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure. Those near and dear to family and friends are sleeping the dreamless slumber into which, had they calmly adopted

DR. JOSEPH H. SCHENCK'S SIMPLE TREATMENT, THEATMENT, and availed themselves of his wonderful efficacious medicines, they would not have fallen.
Dr. Schenck has in his own case preserved that wherever sufficient viliality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthni vigor.
In this state meant there is notifing presumptious. To the faith of the invalid is made no representation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicine is as simple as it is infailing. He philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuming, quires no argument. It is self-assaching, convicting.

The Seawood Tonic and Mandrake Pills 'rethrifiest two weapons with which the citaded of the maindy is assailed. The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of the country in the fair and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose thair patients, if their times are hadly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quire and the house they must not sit down quire and a season they must not sit down quire. The house they must not sit down quire and season they must not sit down quire. The house they must not sit down quire and season season they must not season and season as a season they must not season and season and season the season and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenner's personnistatement to the Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words:
