Poetical. "Accept the Situation." If disappointment drops your steps It's hard to help regretting, But small philosophy it shows To go for ever winning. If you don't like that man you can do To make or win or lose, Come, just without too much concern, "Accept the situation."

Miscellaneous. Interesting Facts for Business Men. S. S. Packard, noted as a skillful penman, writes to the New York Mail concerning a "signature expert," the occasion being the late Taylor-Will Case, which turned in a great measure on the genuineness of the testator's signature. More than twenty years ago, in Cincinnati, I copied the Declaration of Independence, appending for fac similes of the signers' names. Mr. Thomas Stevens, at the same time editor of the Cincinnati Atlas, took occasion, in a pleasant way, to doubt my assertion that I had copied the signatures with a pen. To convince him, I asked him to sign his name on a sheet of paper, which he did. I immediately wrote ten copies of his signature above and below the original and handed him the paper to select his own. After a careful examination he selected one as his own. He was wrong. He tried again and again, with the same result, and finally, by mere guess work, he hit the right one. And it was a remarkable fact that after he had really discovered his own, he could see the most astonishing absurdities in all the others.

Identify a body of writing, such as a page, or even a dozen lines, but to decide as to the genuineness of a single word or signature is more than I would like to do, if either life or happiness depended upon it.

The Power of Expression. There are, perhaps, few things that, in proportion to their importance, receive so little systematic cultivation as the power of expression. Speech is the chief means of communication with our fellow men, the channel through which thought flows from mind to mind, the instrument of all business, education and action. Our power and influence in the world depend not more on what we have within us than on our ability to bring it out. Intellect and affection must find expression, if they are either to thrive in themselves or to benefit the world. It is too much taken for granted that this matter will regulate itself—that all we have to do is to guard well our minds and hearts, and that our conversation being their natural outflow, will take its coloring from their character, without effort on our part. This partly true; the fountain must be pure if it is to send forth pure streams. But, to give distinct and forcible utterance to our thoughts and feelings, is an art not gained without patient care and cultivation. Ever one who has tried to announce the best that is in him—the deepest thoughts, the highest aspirations, the warmest affections—has been conscious that his words fell short at least of his meaning, if not indeed, greatly misrepresenting it. This is not owing to the poverty of the language, as some may think. Words and ideas grow side by side, and there are always means of adequate expression at hand, if we can find and arrange them. But to do this requires a previous training, that the schools alone cannot give, and that only personal attention and constant habit can produce.

The Democratic Candidate for Governor of Ohio. George W. M'Cook, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, whose nomination was ratified by the convention of Thursday, with such enthusiasm and unanimity, was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, in 1812. His parents soon afterward moved to Ohio, and he was educated at Franklin College, in this State. After graduating, he studied law at Steubenville with Tappan & Stanton. He was admitted to the bar in 1841, and soon afterward became the law partner of Edwin M. Stanton. His activity, energy and ability in the practice of his profession quickly attained for him eminent rank. In 1846, on the breaking out of the Mexican war, M'Cook organized a company of volunteers to defend the honor of his country beyond the Rio Grande. He was subsequently made Lieutenant Colonel of the Third Ohio volunteers, and acquired distinction and well-merited honors by his skill as a commanding officer no less than by his gallantry as a soldier in the field of battle. After his return from Mexico, Col. M'Cook was made reporter for the Supreme Court; and neither before or since has not been filled with greater ability and merit.
