THE COLUMBIAN AND DEMOCRAT, BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA.

The Columbian. BLOOMSBURG, PA. FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 14, 1871.

The Amendments in Controversy. The persistency of the advocates the "new departure" in their constant attempts to cram their diabolical dogma down the throats of a confiding Democracy compels discussion of the subject, however unpalatable at this particular time. The course of these men, too, is in open defiance of the profession made in their own resolution : that they "deprecate" such discussion. The objection that we have to the principle of the amendments is-

ist. They surrender to the Federal government the power to regulate the elective franchise within the States, to determine the qualifications of the voters, to send the standing army into the States to control the elections, to supervise the elections and the returns thereof by federal officers appointed by offlee-holders from other States, who may have neither sympathy or regard for our people or knowledge of them, and whose wrong action cannot be punished or restrained by our laws. As the voting power is the political power of the State, all political power, which rightfully belongs to the States, is surrendered to the few persons who control the Federal Executive power at Washington. 21. The amendments surrender the principle that this is a government of ity as regards all candidates. A full white naonle, and they compelan equality of all, white, black, yellow, copper or any other shade, which will extend thus degrade the whole people by mongrelizing them. The foregoing is but the faint outline

While the choice amongst such can not of some of the grave and cogent reasons against the principle involved in the Amendments. Now the question arises, WERE THEY ADOPTED? We say NO. The Constitution plainly requires that express their opinions at the delegate to make any amendment the proposition must be adopted by a vote of "twothirds of both Houses." In this case only the vote of two-thirds of a fragmentary and revolutionary rump Congress was obtained-not as many votes as two-thirds of Congress. This rump majority was obtained by excluding ten whole States from representation altogether, and by ousting members of both branches who had been duly elected and admitting men to the same scats who had been rejected by the people of their districts, and in some instances by overwheiming majorities. The amendments were, therefore, proposed in a tlers, has already been endorsed by the manner that was contrary to law, in Democratic National Convention, and defiance of the principles of the govern- we hope to see every Congressional ment and violative of the plain declarations of the Constitution, and are consequently frandulent, void, and without ond is opposition to the present mode legal or decent existence. Such fiendish force and fraud was never before attempted to be palmed upon a free people, and never can be while the people are regardful of just rights and have courage to maintai them. In the face of the fact, too, that the Constitution of Pennsylvania provides that the elective franchise of that State shall be confined to "WHITE FREEMEN" and that it shall not be altered except by the votes of the people, a majority of them. the Legislature of that State in palpa ble disregard of their oaths, "ratified" the amendments and thus pretended to alter the Constitution of this State without the consent of the people.

For these reasons the amendments have no legal effect, and are only submitted to under protest rather than come in collision with the United States' army, calmly awaiting their rectification by the people at the polls. The way to get rid of them is to elect a majority to Congress that will declare them void. If that should not be sufficient to get rid of them, appeal to the Supreme Court, and if that body deeides in a partizan spirit adopt the suggestion of JEFFERSON in a similar case has been no instance of a party faithand add a sufficient number of Judges fully carrying out its own platform, and to the Court to secure a proper decision.

Another mode of ridding the country of the fraud would be to call a National Convention by law, to be composed of is therefore obvious. In plain truth, delegates elected by the people, for the express purpose of deciding upon the validity of these amendments if necessary or to make others. The people have power over this whole subject, for from them all power emanates. The people have a right to aller or abolish their form of government whenever they please, or anything appertaining to it.

There is our platform-and there we will stand. We repeat we have no desire to discuss the subject at this time, that body he ought to be retained, even but we and those who believe with us in spite of declination. Until the election is over we are willing to say "out, damned spot," if its advocates will let it rest until then. But we cannot stand by and tamely permit the Democratic party to be com mitted to the "new departure" without a firm and unyielding protest.

> MATTERS in the Republican camp are not improving. On the contrary, they seem to be going from bad to worse. The wrangles of the New York branch, or branches, of the party have become quite shocking-so ruinous, in fact, that the Tribune was moved the other day to "tell Republicans, real and nominal, that the business in hand is not the construction of a party to secure the re-nomination of the President, but the preservation of the party for the election of a President yet to be nomi## nated."

THE Democratic party is for a gov ernment for the people, and by the people, in which power goes through accredited representatives, who, responsible to the people for a proper discharge of the trust, are chosen to refleet public sentiment and enact laws in accordance therewith. The Radical party would organize a strong central govern ment, that should wield a kingly power and send down its mandates to control the masses consolidated into one grand scheme, with States existing only

THE Democracy of Northumberland county have nominated for Assembly Mr. A. J. Gallagher, of Shamokin. Mr. Gallagher was not long ago the business
