

The Columbian. BLOOMSBURG, PA. Friday August 25, 1871.

Volunteer Candidates-Radical Conspiracy. Ever since the defeat of some of the Democratic nominees last fall, in Columbia county, by a union of volunteer candidates with the leading Radicals of the county, it has been said that the combination was not merely a temporary arrangement but was to be permanent...

Party Nominations. That party is always most successful, and in fact most deserving public confidence, which is most careful in making its nominations and adheres to them with greatest unanimity. It is clear to every body that no party, no society, no combination of individuals to accomplish particular ends, can long remain powerful unless complete unity of main purpose is maintained.

Our Nominees. The Democratic nominations of Columbia county are highly complimented by all the newspapers surrounding us. Even by some of the more candid of the Radical press. The nomination of Capt. BUCKWAY for Representative is particularly acceptable to the Democracy throughout the State, and is also received by the workmen's organizations with great satisfaction.

The Republican organ last week, in a round-about way, culminated Mr. SHAFER, the Democratic nominee for Commissioner, alleging that some delegate (not named) had said to some candidate (not named) that Mr. SHAFER had paid $10 to each of the several delegates to vote for him; and this week it repeats the calumny by saying that certain delegates were worth but $10 apiece. There is not the slightest truth in this imputation and on behalf of Mr. SHAFER and the other nominees we deny in unqualified terms that any delegate of the late convention was induced to give his vote for them or either of them by corrupt means. We have made thorough inquiry upon this subject and brand the charge, whether made by Radical or booby, as a baseless fancy.

The Candidates for Soldiers and Workmen. The soldiers and the workmen of Pennsylvania cannot fail to make a common cause in the coming election of the two political parties at the coming State election in Pennsylvania. The Republican candidate for Auditor General is a man who never had any connection with or sympathy for the toiling masses. Going into the army as a country doctor he was soon elevated to the rank of Major and Medical Director, not on account of any superior fitness, but because he happened to be a relative of the Secretary of War, E. M. Stanton. He had an easy time serving his country, got his pay, but never saw powder or received a wound. He was nominated simply because the corrupt Treasury Ring wanted a willing tool in the Auditor General's office. Quay looked over the list of candidates and picked up Stanton's name. The order was issued to those who set up delegates in the different counties, and the nomination of Stanton for Auditor General was proclaimed in advance of the meeting of the Convention.

The National Labor Convention. This body is to be held in session at St. Louis. All the States were fully represented. They suggest their principles by distinctly setting forth the evils of which they most complain and the remedies therefor. In the main we agree with them, and their policy as announced is clearly that of the Democratic party, excepting that the 12th plank in the platform is only creating a cumbersome attachment and rendering it inefficient. The evils they enumerate are: First: Banking and money monopolies, by which, through ruinous rates of interest, the productions of human labor are absorbed in the hands of a few non-producers. This is the great central source of those wrongs, and through which all other monopolies exist and operate.

The Broken Pledges. The volunteer candidates are wishing about the county that we refuse to print for them. True—and why? Week after week for months before the delegate elections were held each and every one of them had his name published in the COLUMBIAN, and paid in advance to get it there, in a list headed by the following pledge, to wit: The following persons have been named as candidates for the Democratic Convention. All who are announced in this list are pledged to abide by the decision of the Democratic Convention. This pledge, voluntarily, and solemnly, from week to week given to the public over their own names, is as firmly binding upon the conscience and honor of the candidates and their friends as any obligation it is possible for a human being to assume. We are asked to assist in violating it, and of course we contemptuously refuse the proffered dishonor and spurn it as an insult.

The Democratic Standing Committee. A meeting of the Democratic Standing Committee was held at the Court House on Saturday last, in pursuance of a resolution of the county convention. A permanent organization was effected by the election of C. G. BARRETT, Esq., of Bloomsburg, as chairman, and R. J. MILLARD, Esq., of Scott township, as Secretary.

The Fine Delinquents are also attacked. One was instructed for EVERETT and voted for him. The other was not instructed for him, as only a fragment of those who elected him voted instructions for Treasurer, and those were a tie. As it is admitted by every one that the voters of the district were about equally divided between the candidates, it was fair and proper that each should receive one vote from the two delegates.
