It is cheering to know that there is a probability of having a new building erected on the site of the old Exchange Hotel, some time during the coming Spring. The ruins have long been a blemish to the fair appearance of the town and their disappearance will be halled with pleasure. Located as they were in the very centre of trade it was impossible to conceal them from the view of visitors to the town and doubtless gave them an unfavorable idea as comparatively worthless buildings are replaced by finer and more costly struc-tures the losses from fire increase rap-idly and the interests of our people de-mand greater protection.

WE presume it is searcely necessary to inform our young tady readers that this is leap year and that they are entitled to certain privileges. All we would say is this, if you have a beshful lover who von't propose, do it yourself; you have a perfect right to do so.

The following is the statute in the old Saxon code referring to Loap year:

Ir may not be generally known that ander the laws of this State, persons furnishing intoxicating liquors are liable for any damages which may result to the person drinking them, yet such is the case. The following is the clause pertinent to the subject: "Any person furnishing intoxicating drinks to make the result in the subject of any to any other person in violation of any existing law, or of the provisions of this act, shall be held civily responsi ble for any injury to person or property in consequence of such furnishing; and any one aggrieved may recover full damages against such person so furnish-ing, by action on the case, instituted in any court having jurisdiction of such form of action in this Commonwealth."

ON Saturday night last, at a little past nine o'clock, Mr. Louis Bernbard, the watchmaker, placed his stock of watches in a box, as is his custom, and went to the house of Mr. Lowenberg, on the opposite side of the street, having first carefully locked the door of his store and full the box of the street of the street of the street of the store of the street of the store of the street of the school and its faculty, the street of the school and its faculty.

The "Benton Mutual Saving Fund and Loan Association," organized at Benton, on Friday the 5th inst., by electing the following Directors: carefully locked the door of his store and tried the knob to assure himself that it was securely fastened. On his return, after an absence of half or three quarters of an hour, he found that the door had been unlocked and the box, containing some twenty-five or thirty watches, taken away. Fortunately the watches, with one or two exceptions, were not valuable ones. The loss amounts to between $200 and $300. No clue exists as to the thief. A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.—The perceptive faculty of women is usually keener than the same phrenological organ in men. Women know that beauty rather than genius is worshipped by the sternier sex. A man may talk of the latter to his lady love, but the keenness of the woman knows that he is thinking of the former. Women are fond of admiration; hence one of their longings is to be beautiful.
