Deaf of the Teeth in Horses. The teeth of horses, like those of human beings, are subject to decay...

A Ride in a Soap-bubble. It was one of the rainiest, dullest days in the whole year. You could only see out as far as the two stone gate-posts in front of the house where Benny lived...

Bearded Wheat Straw Dangerous to Stock. A correspondent writes: It has been discovered that when stock has had free access to bearded wheat straw, that the beards have worked around the lips and gums, causing swelling, ulceration and loosening of the teeth...

Benny took it out of the case very carefully and held it in his hand. It had a nice stem, tipped with beautiful yellow amber, and such a funny bowl. It wasn't a plain round bowl, like a common clay pipe. O, no! The bowl of this wonderful pipe was made in the shape of a little coach, with tiny windows and a door on each side...

WEEDS.—Now is the time to fight the weeds. Every weed takes up room that should be occupied by something else. Every weed draws sustenance that belongs to the growing crops. Take advantage of all dry, hot days, keep the hoes among the weed crops, thoroughly stirring the soil, to kill weeds. With hoes implements, hoeing by hand may be nearly dispensed with after a stand is established...

Then he began to blow bubbles. What lovely bubbles they were! Benny never had so little trouble in making them roll on the blanket. They lasted a long time, too, and were so big. Full of colors, too, like a rainbow; red, green, blue, and orange, chased each other round and round the transparent globes, like clouds in the sky.

LOOK TO YOUR HORSES' FEET.—Few men who handle horses give proper attention to their feet and legs. Especially is this the case on farms. Much time is spent of a morning rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair on the sides and legs, but it is seldom the feet are examined and properly cared for. The feet of a horse need quite as much attention as the body. They need more, in fact, for in one respect they are almost the entire horse.

At first it was damp and rainy, sailing through the little windows of the little coach, and saw the round earth far below them, looking as if it were wrapped in a gray mantle. When they were fairly in the air, Benny asked his little companion who she was.

SURFACE MANURING.—Dr. Voelcker says that on clay soils manure may be spread on the surface of plowed ground, and lie even six months without losing any appreciable quantity of fertilizing value. At the same time he advocates the plowing in of long, coarse manure for its mechanical effect on heavy soils, but when no alternative is left, he says it is better to spread manure on the soil rather than leave it in heaps.

As soon as he wished this, the little coach, with the great balloon-bubble swaying above it, began to sink softly back to earth again. Down it floated and floated until it touched the house-tops. The fog and mist had cleared away, and the soft, moonlight shone down into the streets and alleys of the city.
