JUDGE BLACK'S LETTER.

The following is the text of the letter f Judge J. S. Black, in answer to one addressed him by Mr. W. H. Welsh, of the Baltimore Gazette: To William H. Welsh, Esq., Editor of the Baltimore Gazettee: MY DEAR SIR :- I promised the gen leman who delivered your letter that I would answer it fully and as I could consistently with other engagements. I am fulfilling that promise. If I take more time and space than might be expected, you will please to remember that I and a great many other Demo crats are in a position which requires something more than a mere definition. We cannot avoid misconstruction with-case before us in favor of the best. Even if we find no good in either of them, we must take that one who shall appear to be least bad,

It is undeniable that the leading measures of this Administration are not only unconstitutional, but anti-constitutional, showing not merely a contemptuous indifference to constitutional obligations, but a settled hostility to those rights of the States, and those liberties of the people, which the organic law was made to secure. The President's appointment of officers and his general exercise of public authority, under the influence of men who paid large sums of money, are scandalous outrages, and the effort to defend them has combined with other like causes to extinguish among his subordinates all respect for those rules of morality which used to be held sacred. When we consider what these men have done in the North, and add to it the large-handed robberies perpetrated in the South by the retainers of the President, with his direct aid and assistance, we are compelled to acknowledge that no other government now in the world is administered so entirely for personal and partisan purposes, or in such complete disregard for the rights and interests of the general public. This demoralization is not confined to the Executive branch; the tide of corruption rolls in upon the Legislative, and in some places it has risen high enough to touch the feet of the Judiciary. Even the rank and file of the President's party have become debauched, let us hope not alogether, but certainly in fearful degree Acts, which in former times a hardened criminal would hesitate to whisper it the ear of his accomplice, can now be openly advocated by a political leader, not only with safety, but with a tolerable chance of being sustained by a sort of public opinion. The love of liberty and justice which used to pervade the whole community now "reneges all temper," and yield without resistance to the unprincipled demagogues who would enthrone fraud.

Make the hoar leprosy adored; place thieves, And give them title, knee and approbation, Vith Senators on the bench."

If General Grant had been equal in mind and heart to the exigencies of the times, he could have easily made himself a great public benefactor. He might have purified official and political morals by simply setting the example in his own person of a clean-Teas, Coffees, Sugars,

The friends of religious freedom owe him an old debt of gratitude for the zeal and ability with which he resisted the church-burners when banded in the secret lodges of the Know-Nothing order. It is but reasonable to believe that his opposition saved the country from the great danger it was once in of being subjugated by that infamous organization.

He has often been accused of complicity in cheats of one kind or another, but in every case he has triumphantly refuted the charges. For this, and for other reasons I conclude that his personal Integrity is without a stain.

He has many times spoken of the Democratic party and its most honored members in harsh and abusive terms. These are faults of manner, and of temper, which, when mended, are always pardoned. We will not permit our judgment to be disturbed by considerations so trifling as this.

The thought that a victory will not give us every thing at once may diminish in some degree "the rapture of the strife." but it will not impair the efficiency of their support, for they are impelled to their utmost exertions by a profound conviction that nothing but his election will save the country from a long period of misgovernment and perhaps the total destruction of our free institutions. DELIGHTING IN MERCY.-It is related that during the first few days of the reign of Queen Victoria, then a girl between nineteen and twenty years of age, some sentences of a court martial were presented for her signature. One was for desertion. A soldier was condemned to be shot, and his death warrant was presented to the Queen for her signature. She read it, paused, and looked up to the officer who had laid it of the richness of the soil in that vicinbefore her, and said; "Have you noth- ity. He said there wasn't any place ing to say in behalf of this man?"- on the earth where things grew as they "Nothing — he has deserted three do there. He said his wife never made times," said the officer. "Think again, bread. She always made little biscuits my lord," was her reply. A preposterous story is circulating to the effect that sportsmen in New Jersey mistake mosquetoes for snipe. error impossible.

A Detroit gentleman one hundred and five years old has lately been troub-led with a failing in his eye-sight, and his doctor thinks it's the result of smoking to excess for the last ninety years Mr. Theodore Tilton says in his pa-"Save me from a God who damns."

An acquaintance replies:
"We should like to do it, my boy, but the thing is impossible. A Kentucky paper says that a mem-ber of the Legislature of that State sent up the following to the Clerk: "Leeve is asked to bring in A Bill to altar the time for the Legislature to meet. Re-furred to the comity on Religen."

Sometimes a proposition gains a point by being put into rhyme, and the Positivist finds his origin very happily traced in these lines: There was an apc, in the days that were earlier Centuries passed and his hair became curiler;} Centuries more gave a thumb to his wrist— Then he was a man and a Positivist.

In France an inventor of boots with which to walk on the water made a public experiment, when, says the ac-count, the boots indeed floated, but the inventor, with his head under water, seemed to be carrying on a conversation with the fishes, which would have probably ended with his suffocation if a boat bad not picked him up.

Jones and his wife were always quar-reling about their comparative talents for keeping a fire. She insisted that just so surely as he attempted to re-ar-range the sticks with the tongs he put the fire out. One night the put the fire out. One night the Jones sprang for his fire bucket, eager to rush to the conflagration. "Mr. Jones," cried his wife, as he reached the door, "take the tongs!"

At a funeral lately, there stood in the house of the defunct an old-fashioned clock, which, when it finished the announcement of the meridian hour, was made to play a tune. The officiating minister was in the midst of his sermon when, noon having arrived, the clock commenced striking twelve. In a very desire to sleep alone. Belshazzar ansolemn tone he impressed on his hear-ers the inevitable flight of time; but the exhortation was evidently ineffec-tive, as the clock instantly followed with the cheery old notes of "Take your

The city editor of a Western paper, whose son is a clerk in the Post-office, has not seen the latter for a long period of time, owing to the fact that the fa-ther returned to bed ere theson returned home, and in the morning the father always left before the son got out of hed. One morning the lady of the house managed to get the father and son together at the breakfast table, and by way of joke remarked: "Son, let me introduce you to your father." "How do you do, father," said the hopeful; "I don't remember ever having met you before, but I have heard ma speak

An Irishman being recently on trid for some offence, pleaded "not guilly" and the jury being in the box, the family went to bed in the house.—
The next morning he found himself and family up 60 feet in the air, with a lot of Indians down cellar waiting to cut their hair off, and the Indians did scalp the whole of 'em."

"Stranger," said I, "you don't mean to tell me that those trees grew sixty feet in one night."

and the jury being in the box, the State Solicitor proceeded to call Mr. Furkisson as a witness. With the nimest innocence, Patrick turned his face to the Court, and said, "Do I under to the Court, and said, "Do I under the Stranger," said I, "you don't mean to tell me that those trees grew sixty feet in one night." as your honor's suckling baby, but just on account of saving Mr. Furkisson's

"Are you sure it wasn't sixty-one feet?" I asked meekly.

"Sir," said he, "I never prevaricate, especially on one foot."

"So they took and scalped them all, did they?" said I,

"They did," said he.

"How in the name of Mary who had the little land did they get up to 'em;" I asked.

Says he. "Respected sir, those Indians each one sawed off a tree; then each Indian sat on a stump, and those stumps grew the Indians up to the house and then they scalped the famsequent Parliaments acknowledged the wrong, reversed the attainders, and made what reparation they could. Our fathers determined no such thing should ever be done here, and so they put their solemn interdilet into plain words, and made it a part of the fundamental law that neither Congress nor any State Legislature should ever pass a bill of attainder.

The reconstruction act of 1867 was a Bill of Attainder more deliberately cruse.

The lady then recalled the circumstance of having eaten blackberries with cream the evening following the operation, and supposed that one of the seeds had found a lodgment in the soft wound, where it had germinated and developed. If that don't beat Grant or any other man nothing will.

A quiet little family circle in Utah consists of thirty-two wives and sixty-eight children, and when they all gathers around the hearth on winter evening, having previously paid her sevenings the effect is said to be indescribably cozy.

A MAN out west said he moved so many times during one year that whenever a covered wagon stopped at the gate chickens would fall on their backs and hold up their feet in order to be tited and thrown in.
