This route is also traveled by a stage line, which carries the mail and passengers from Chey- enne to Red Cloud and Spotted Tail Agen- cies. The fare to Red Cloud is $15, and the distance from there to the Black Hills is about fifty miles. THE FUTURE IN STORE FOR THAT REGION. General W. F. Reynolds, who made a topo- graphical survey of this region in 1850-56, says: "The whole region of the Black Hills is unquestionably, at no distant date, to af- ford homes for a thriving population. The mountains will furnish sufficient supply of pine lumber for ordinary uses, and although timber is very scarce in the region as a whole (from Fort Pierre to the Powder River,) yet the Black Hills will fully supply this great deficiency in the districts immediately ad- joining." His route from the Missouri River, led him to the Forks of the Big Cheyenne, and then he skirted the Northeast and South sides of the hills. He describes them in his journal as a succession of mountain ranges with beautiful valleys between, the soil of which is rich and fertil, and covered with a heavy growth of grass. Groves of ash, oak, ohm and other varieties of timber are mon- toned as being met with, fringing the clear, beautiful streams of water, purling down from the hills into the Belle Fourche. Be- tween the farks of Cheyenne very decided evidences of the existence of gold were found; but prospecting was discouraged by him on account of danger from the Indians, and for fear of making the expeditions a failure. My dislocated wrist has now became so stiff that I write slowly and with pain, and therefore write as little as I can. Yet it is due to mutual friendship to ask once in a while how you do. The papers tell as that General Stark is off at the age of nine- ty-three, still lives, at about the same age, cheerful, slender as a grasshopper, and so much with- out memory that he scarcely recognizes his own household. An intimate friend of his called on him not long since. It was diffi- cult to make him understand or recollect who he was, and sitting one hour he told him the same story four times over. When all our faculties have left or are leaving us one by one, sight, hearing, memory, every avenue of pleasing sensation is closed, and —, debility and	 gion, could do so with any accuracy. We propose, therefore, first to tell our readers WHERD THE BLACK HILLS ARE. They lie in Wyoming and Dakotah, batween the 454 and 45th degrees of latitude, and occupy an area of about 100 miles in length, Northerly and Southerly, and about sixty miles in breadth. The base is about 2,500 to 3,000 fost above the sen level, and the highest peaks do not exceed 7,000 fost The Eastern boundary line of Wyoming, 104th parallel of longitude, runs about midway through the farks of the Eig Cheyenne River, which is the most important stream in that region, and which pours itself into the Missouri, some 60 miles above Fort Pierre. HOW THE BLACK HILLS HAVE BEEN HITHERED REACHED, From either Fort Sully or Fort Pierre, in a dne west direction to the Wyoming line, which runs through the centre of the hills nearly, is a distance of 220 miles on an airline. Formerly there was a road from Fort Bierre, Ke Wich was a bout for the bier of the start. 	search for gold was at all times discouraged," he says, "yet 'still it is often difficult to restrain the disposition to 'prospect,' and there were moments when it was feared that some of the party would defy all restraint." "These descriptions, and discoveries, be it remembered, of the Black Hills were made sixteen or seventeen years ago, by reliable army officers, whose only object was to mike truthful reports of the country, and were made under many disadvantages.
