Miscellaneous.

A GIRL OF COMMON SENSE.

Some girls are loved for beauty's sake,
And others for their brains;
And some for artful ways that make
Slaves of their many swains,
But let her be as bright as day,
She can have no pretence
To woo a coleen unless she be
A girl of common sense.

She may delude the passing hour,
And make thy bliss complete;
And show love's deep and subtle power
In whispers warm and sweet.
She may have face and form divine,
And dress at great expense;
But outward graces cannot make
A girl of common sense.

Her voice may warble like a bird,
In songs that please the ear,
And never breathe an angry word,
A murmur or a sneer.
Admirers may implore her smile,
And say, "O, she's immense!"
But are they sure that she will prove
A girl of common sense?

Deception may be strange to her,
She may be bright and pure;
A lofty will may guard her life,
And every strong allure,
Such girls may live, but where? Alas!
Though meaning no offense—
I think it's pretty hard to find
A girl of common sense.

Ben. Spinner's Composition.

The reason why that the Fourth of July is so short is because they signed the Declaration of Independence all in one day. If they only had went slow, and been three or four days about it, then we would have had a long pull at the fireworks, and plenty of time to make things lively most all the week.

When your mother sends you to the grocery, with a basket, for two dozen eggs, in a hurry, and you get into a soft game of marbles on the way, and win a good many, and don't come home for two hours, that's forgetfulness. But your mother don't forget you when you come back.

There is a boy who lives in the Fourth Ward has got feet so egregious big that he can't play hop-scotch, but then no hair-pin can throw him in a fair rassel, and a hard wind could never blow him over in a storm.

When you slide down on the long banister of the front hall stairs, and go on down to the bottom so fast that it burns you clear through your trousers, that's friction.

Some Saturday when you are in the kitchen, and the hired girl has just shined up the knives, when she turns her back you mustn't dip them one at a time in the vinegar jug, because if you do the chemistry will turn 'em black, and then you will have to go careless down to the back fence to get out of the way of some hot water or something.

When you see a boy with a splendid new overcoat as fits him, and is real tailor-made, and you haven't got any overcoat yourself, and it's a awful cold day, and you want his'n, that's envy. But you can't help it when you ain't a Christian.

Your father would never spend $12 for a big dictionary for you in a hundred years, but if you was to win one in a hard spelling-match, he would make you study it nights till you nearly went crazy. That's always the way.

When your mother is frying doughnuts and your hungry, it don't make any difference how her hair is combed, or if it is combed at all or not; just only tell her that you think she looks so han'some with her hair done up in that way, and she will feed you on hot doughnuts till you swell up like a toad.

When a sack of peanuts gets busted on a dray and spilt out on the street, and your pockets don't hold many, because they're nearly full of other things, then a daily newspaper would be a good thing to have, and would be useful.

Why is the world like your father? This is a hard conundram, which you might just as well give up. Because the world is round always, like a ball; but your father is 'round only of a Saturday afternoon early, just when you don't want him, and when the circus in the stable has only just commenced.

GIVE YOUR CHILD A PAPER.—A child beginning to read becomes delighted with a newspaper, because he reads of names and things which are familiar, and he will progress accordingly. A newspaper in one year is worth a quarter's schooling to a child. Every father must consider that information is connected with advancement. The mother of a family, being one of its heads, and having a more immediate charge of children, should herself be instructed. A mind occupied becomes fortified against the ills of life, and is braced for emergency. Children amused by reading or study are, of course, more considerate and more easily governed.

"As to being conflicted with the gout," said Mrs. Partington, "high living don't bring it on. It is incoherent in some families, and is handed down from father to son. Mr. Hammer, poor soul, who has been so long ill with it, disinherited it from his wife's grandmother."

When a Pennsylvania farmer sold his farm to an oil company he went to town the day he got his cash, and bought his wife 200 dozen clothes pins and twenty-five clothes lines. He said he'd had growling and jawing enough about that house.

A father fearing an earthquake in the region of his house sent his two boys to a distant friend's until the peril should be over. A few weeks after the father received this letter from his friend: "Please take your boys home and send down the earthquake."

Some western paper says that General Burnside and his whiskers will soon be brought out as a candidate for the Presidency.

If a man is going to leave the world and retire into solitude, he must take a large stock of virtues with him, for these are the only things he can enjoy there.

"Any letters for Mike Howe?" asked an individual of a clerk at a Post-Office window. "No letters for anybody's cow."

Human knowledge is the parent of doubt. True love and high morality are always the same.

Hasty people drink the water of existence scalding hot!

If you would not have affliction visit you twice, listen at once to what it teaches.

Water is the best drink. Exercise and pure air the best medicines.

Suspicion is a counterfeit of truth as well as falsehood.

Happiness is not the share of the learned, but of the good.

There are reproaches which give praise, and praise which reproaches.

Love is a weapon that will conquer men when all else fails.

A great mind will be easy in prosperity, and quiet in adversity.

One cannot always be a hero, but one may always be a man.

Lay by a good store of patience, but put it where you can find it.

Small cheer and great welcome make a merry feast, after all.

He who has good health is a rich man, and rarely knows it.

Rules for Diet.

It is somewhat amusing to observe how, from time to time, certain articles of food are vaunted as being of great importance in a dietetic point of view. At one time it is fish, then oatmeal, then tomatoes, white milk, cream, cheese, rye bread, etc., all have their advocates. One of my friends assures me that no man can be healthy who does not eat plentifully of salt; another thinks the fat of meat exceedingly strengthening, and still another insists upon it that no man can maintain health for any lengthened period without stimulants of some kind. Now, I maintain that no argument has yet been put forth in regard to the necessity for certain kinds of food that cannot be disproved by facts.—Most Americans and Englishmen believe that animal food is absolutely necessary for men taking strong muscular exercise; yet the hardy, athletic peasantry of the northern parts of Europe scarcely ever see it. The Russian soldier's rations consist of black bread, oil and salt, and very little else; yet he will bear fatigue and privations that would kill an English soldier. The Chilian miners, who undergo tremendous exertion, live exclusively on beans, mashed corn and figs. The Kroumen of the African coast, a splendid race of men physically, live on rice, yams and a little fish. Yet we are told that one cause of the deterioration of the eastern nations is a rice diet. Dr. Hall says, a high authority, thinks that a highly carbonized diet, such as fat meats, sweet pastry, milk, etc., produces a heavy [illegible] condition of body and mind. It may [illegible] many cases, but certainly not in all. The writer is acquainted with a remarkably thin brisk talkative old lady, who eats nothing but the fat of meat, pudding and bread from one year's end to another. She sleeps very little, and is seldom unwell. Fish, says Agassiz and Dr. Lamdert, builds up the brain, but no one, I think, ever heard that people living on the coast are smarter than those who don't see fish ten times a year. "Drink ale and you'll think ale, said an English teacher of eminence; yet some of our greatest scholars have been large consumers of beverage. The German peasants and many of them are remarkable specimens of physical strength, live at home on potato soup, potatoes, curdled milk and rye bread with occasionally a little bacon. The Irish peasant gets little beyond potatoes and milk, and though he certainly does not seem to love labor (few people do), yet he is not wanting in muscle. We are told wonderful stories of the physical power of the Greek and Turkish porters, who will carry I don't know how many pounds at a load, and who live on bread, grapes, dates, etc., rarely touching animal food. It is quite possible, however, that these last were exceptional cases, and that their great muscular power is inherited.

Turning to the lower animals, we also find that scarcely any of our nations in regard to food, hold good. Corn meal is poor food for horses, says the Englishman; it does not contain enough of the muscle making substances. Yet our city cars and omnibus horses which certainly do much hard work, seem to thrive on it. Mr. L. W. Miller of Stockton, New York, winters his cows on corn meal, and finds that they do well on it, both as regards milk and flesh. The horses, and even cows, on certain portions of our eastern coast, and in Iceland, are sometimes fed on dried fish. Drover's dogs in Great Britain get fed on bread soaked in beer, yet by nature they are carnivorous.

Now all these facts seem to show that no absolute rule can be laid down in regard to diet. Liebig's belief that the quantity of nitrogen passed from the system indicated the waste of muscular tissue is exploded. Nitrogenous food plays a less important part in the animal economy than was formerly supposed. A certain quantity of it there must be, but go beyond a certain point, and it will be found, as those who tried Bantingism discovered, that most serious complications will result therefrom—Bright's disease of the kidneys among others. The inference, then, that I deduce from all this that the old adage—"What is one man's meat is another man's poison," is pretty nearly true. One person thrives on rye bread; another must have roast beef. The high-bred horse wants his oats and fine hay; the welsh pony, the mule and the donkey get fat on thistles.

The difference in vital powers and nutritive system of different individuals will alone account for the fact that one man must have certain articles of diet to maintain health and strength, while another can do without them. Hence no rule of diet can be laid down except this: Try by experiment what best suits you, and adhere to that.

Let me say a word in conclusion, in regard to the manner in which the value of certain articles of diet is frequently estimated. Many ignorant persons are apt to think that if a certain kind of food keeps off the feeling of faintness or hunger for a long time, it must, therefore, be very nourishing. This, of course, is quite wrong, and would involve the acceptance of the absurd theory that a tough beefsteak is more nourishing than a tender one.—Country Gentleman.

Don't forget to say "good morning!" Say it to your parents, your brothers and sisters, your schoolmates, your teachers, and say it cheerfully and with a smile—it will do you good. There's a kind of inspiration in every "good morning," heartily and smilingly spoke, that helps to make hope fresher and work lighter. It seems really to make the morning good, and to be a prophecy of a good day to come after it. And if this be true of the "good morning," it is also of all kind, heartsome greetings; they cheer the discouraged, rest the tired ones, and somehow make the wheels of life run more smoothly. Be liberal with them then, and let no more mornings pass, however dark and gloomy it may be, that you do not at least help to brighten by your smiles and cheerful words.

HOW TO GROW RICH.—The only way by which capital can increase is by saving. If a man gets but what he saves that constitutes you spend as much as you make you will never be richer than you are. It is not what his wealth. You must learn the first rule in the Arithmetic, Addition. Every business man, in each year of his life, should make some addition to his capital, however slight. If your increase is but little, and the next year you will get more, for you will have the profit on the sum you save. The man who goes on spending all he makes and expects by some lucky hit to be raised to wealth, will be disappointed, and most likely sink to poverty.

But stick to business, stick to one business; economise, marry some good intelligent, poor girl, who will help you save; don't be discouraged by anything, be civil to everybody, and you can't help prospering; it is not in the nature of things for you to fail.

An inebriate stranger precipitated himself down stairs, and on striking the landing reproachfully apostrophized himself with: "If you'd been a wantin' to come down stairs, why in thunder didn't you say so, you wooden-headed old fool, an' I'd a come with you an' showed you the way.

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medical Properties are

ALTERATIVE, TONIC, SOLVENT AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so thoroughly concentrated that it will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of scrofula, scrofulous humor, tumor, cancer, cancerous humor, erysipelas, salt rheum, syphilitic diseases, canker, tabitness at the stomach, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. Sciatica, inflammatory and chronic rheumatism, neuralgia, gout and spinal complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For ulcers and eruptive diseases of the skin, pustules, pimples, blotches, boils, tetter, scaldhead and ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For pains in the back, kidney complaints, dropsy, female weakness, leucorrhœa, arise from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and general debility, VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon secretive organs, allays inflammation, cures ulceration and regulates the bowels.

For catarrh, dyspepsia, habitual costiveness, palpitation of the heart, headache, piles, nervousness and general prostration of the nervous system, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the VEGETINE. It purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures effected by VEGETINE have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

Are not the many testimonials given for the different complaints satisfactory any reasonable person suffering from any disease mentioned above, that they can be cured? Read the testimonials given, and no one can doubt. In many of these cases the persons say that their pain and suffering cannot be expressed, as in cases of scrofula, where, apparently, the whole body was one mass of corruption. If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It wars in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is perfectly safe to give to an infant. Do you need it? Do not hesitate to try it. You will never regret it.

WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT

VEGETINE

FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

The great benefit I have received from the use of VEGETINE induces me to give my testimony in its favor. I believe it to be not only of great value for restoring the health, but a preventive of disease peculiar to the spring and summer seasons.
I would not be without it for ten times its cost.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

PALMAM QUI MERUIT FERAT

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

UNEQUALED UNAPPROACHED

THREE HIGHEST MEDALS AND DIPLOMA OF HONOR AT VIENNA, 1873; PARIS, 1867.

ONLY American Organs ever awarded any medal of excellence as to command a wide sale there.

ALWAYS awarded highest premiums at Industrial Expositions, in American where in Europe. Out of hundreds there have not been six in all where any other organs have been preferred.

BEST Declared by Eminent Musicians, in both hemispheres, to be surpassed. See TESTIMONIAL CIRCULAR, with opinions of more than One Thousand (sent free).

INSIST on having a Mason & Hamlin. Do not take any other. Dealers get Liberal Commissions for selling inferior organs, and for this reason often try very hard to sell something else.

NEW STYLES with most important improvements every month. New Solo and Combination Stops. Superb Etagere and other Cases of new designs.

PIANO-HARP CABINET ORGAN An exquisite combination of these instruments.

EASY PAYMENTS. Organs sold for cash; or for monthly or quarterly payments; or rented until rent pays for the organ.

CATALOGUES and Circulars, with full particulars, free. Address MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, BOSTON; 25 Union Square, NEW YORK; or 80 & 82 Adams St., CHICAGO.
