THE EXCHANGE HOTEL.

One of the most popular institutions of our town is the Exchange Hotel, kept by "mine host," Major W. B. Koons. It is first-class and in its workings perfect in every detail. As a criterian the landations pronounced upon it by the traveling public, as well as the public in general, is sufficient. The gentlemanly clerk, Mr. A. E. Miller, is always alert and active, with an eye single to the comfort of the guests of this famed caravansery.

SAD TERMINATION OF A FAMILY FEUD. On last Sabbath Samuel Bogart, of Robrs burg, was brought to Bloomsburg, by Constable High Ferman, and lodged in jail to await a hearing for the killing of his father-in-law, Abram Kline, a hotel keeper, also of the same place. The particulars of this impleasant affair are, as near as we can learn, as follows: For a long time there has been bad blood existing between Bogart and Kline, and on September 7th, after some bitter words, Bogart ordered Kline out of his store. He went, but returned again, when Bogart attacked him with a pitch-fork, in flicting a wound near the left eye, which, it is said, was partially healed at the time of hi death. In this connection we have two stories one that it was the wound from the fork, and another that it was from injuries sustained by the fall. On last Saturday evening, however Kline died, after lingering nineteen days. Bo gart will have a hearing on Monday, October 4th. We forbear giving any of the numerou rumors in regard to the affair as the hearing will no doubt develope the truth.

NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING. At a meeting of the Trustees of the Normal School, held at the office of the Secretary, on Monday evening last, on a report from the President of the Board, that he had received drafts for all the lesurance money on the build ing, Mr. Barkley offered the following:

IMPORTANT OPINION ON LICENCES.

TON OF JUDGE ELWELL ON THE SUBJECT OF DIS-

Before proceeding to hear and decide upon both applicants and citizens generally should be informed as to the views held by the court upon he subject of the extent to which the court may exercise a discretion upon the subject of granting or refusing licenses. It is the more necesary that our views be announced because some Judges have held that the discretion committed o them is wholly arbitrary, while others hold ing to their respective merits. that the act of 1875 takes from the courts all liserction and requires them to grant all licenses typlied for wichout regard to the public neces

In order to ascertain both the power and the uty of the courts in the matter of granting and chising licenses it is necessary to consider sev ral acts of Assembly relating to the subject Briefly stated, the legislation upon this branch of the excise laws is as follows:

The act of 11th March, 1834, (pamph. p. 117) to grant licenses according to the regulations rn which shall not be necessary to accommo- other causes. late the public and entertain strangers and traveller

In 1856 a law was passed specially providing a mode of procedure to obtain a license. By it he courts were required to fix a time, by rule standing order, at which applications for licenses shall be heard, at which time all persons applying or making objections to applications right be heard, by evidence, petition, remon rance or counsel The Nonesuch and Rough and Ready bas

The act of 20th April, 1858, requires the Court hear evidence other than that presented by he applicant, and to grant or refuse the license accordance with the evidence,

In 1859 another act was passed providing for full hearing of the applicant, and of those who night remonstrate and declaring it lawful for the Court to refuse the license when in its opin on the hotel or tayern in question was not no sary for the accommodation of the public and he cotertainment of strangers and travellers By a provise to this act the exercise of discretion as to the necessity of inns and taverns i confined to that given by the act of March,

Again, on the 22d March, 1867, the Courts by adopted: re authorized to hear petitions and remon trances and to refuse the license whenever in he opinion of the Court it is not necessary fo the accommodation of the public and the en ertainment of strangers and travellers,

The act of 1872, known as the Local Optic law, did not repeal any previous law; it merel aspended the operation of the license law, for the time being, in the counties which voted "no icense." When that law was repealed by the first section of the act of 12th April, 1875, the ormer laws were again called into active operaion in the no license counties, and were then he rule throughout the State, unless they wer epealed by other portions of this act. In delivering the opinion of the Supren ourt in Schlaudecker vs. Marshall 22. P. F. mith 203 Agnew J. after stating the severa cts of Assembly on the subject of license says 'No subject has been productive of more differ nce of opinion and practice than this in the lifferent judicial districts in the State. Som adges holding it to be obligatory on the cour grant every license where the applicant ha ought himself within the provisions of the iw as to the terms of his application, and other olding that they are not bound to grant any liof each case as it is presented to the Court, and not a general opinion upon the propriety or imropriety of granting licenses."

He cites the several acts of assembly from 1854 down to 1872 and from them deducts the melusion that "it is the duty of the court to ar and determine each case on its evidence nd facts; to ascertain the fitness of the appli ant and the necessity of the house for the pub e necommodation." To be a rightful judgmen t must be exercised in the particular case an upon the facts and circumstances before the ourt after they have been heard and duly con

It is noticeable that the new law, except i egard to the amount of the license fee and th nount and condition of the bonds required of pplicants, makes no mention of a single requi ite necessary to the obtaining of a license. As o the citizenship of the applicant—the filing and publication and contents of the petitionhe certificate of character, and the action to be taken by the Court upon petition, remonstranes and evidence presented, and also in regard to transfers and revocations of licences, it is sient. Unless, therefore, the former laws upon these subjects remain in force, there is nothing personal influence in its behalf, guide the practice of the Court, or govern it cisions upon license questions. It is a well settled rule, that a statute can be repealed only by express provision of a subse ment law or by necessary implication; and this an only be when there is such repugnancy be tween the new law and the old that they can no tand together. "Wherever," says Black, C. J. 'two acts can be made to stand together it is the luty of the judge to give both of them full efeet : even when they are seemingly repugnant, bey neest, if possible, have such a construction that one may not repeal the other, unless the atter one contains negative words, or the intenion to repeal is manifest by some intelligible orm of expression." Brown vs. County Comissioners 9 Harris 43. There are no words of repeal in the act of 875, except as to the Local Option law. The atural, if not necessary inference therefore is, that the Legislature intended it to be auxiliary o, and in aid of the purpose of the old law. Instend of evincing any intention to limit or diminish the powers and discretion of the Court based upon evidence, as conferred by former laws, it expressly re-enacts in the same words so Adjourned. much of the act of 1856 as requires "the Courts to fix by rule or standing order a time at which to applications for license may be heard by evidained by the acts of 1858 and 1867. It is made thereby to extend, not only to the fitness of the applicant, but the Court is required to refuse the license if in its opinion the necessities of the public and the entertainment of strangers or travellers do not require a public house to be kept at the point designated. If the Legislature had intended that the character of objections to a license, should not be as broad and compreensive as before allowed, it surely would in ome way have, at feast intimated such intenention by appropriate words. In the absence of a clearly expressed or implied intention to abrogate the laws which have for forty years othorized the Courts to hear and pass upon that no such intention existed,

It does not, in my judgment follow, that any restriction or limitation of the powers or duties of the Court was intended by the increase of the body in it. The writer of this has now no license fee.

On the contrary it is manifest that the Legislature intended, by continuing the powers and duties of the Courts as heretofore, by increasing the license fee and the amount of bonds, and by adding heavier penaltics for violations of the law, and also by imposing further civil liabilities, "to restrain and regulate the sale of liquors." In the case cited, the present Chief Justice holds this language, "Whether any or all licenses should be granted is a legislative not a law of the land, not to repeal it."

The law of the land has determined that li-

PROHIBITION COUNTY CONVENTION.

Pursuant to a call issued by J. M. Harman, and others, a number of the voters of Colum bia County convened in the Opera House for the purpose of effecting a county organization of the Prohibition party.

The convention was called to order by J. M. Harman, member of the State Central ommittee, at 2 P. M. Prayer was offered by Rev. Stnart Mitchell. The convention was then organized by electing P. R. Baldy, President and L. B. Kline, Secretary.

On motion, a Committee of three consist ing of N. P. John, J. A. Roberts and G. W. Correll, was appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the convention. The Secretary read a communication from Rev. N. S. Buckingham, correcting a statement made in the last issue of the Republican as to his position in regard to this Convention.

The Committee on resolutions presented the following report, which was unanimous-

WHEREAS, While we recognize all the acredited moral agencies for the reformation of the inebriate, and the general education of society on the question of temperance, and make use of all the means known to an enlightened philanthropy, we at the same me recognize the fact that the licensed traffic in liquors sustains the relation of an efficient cause to drunkenness and all its direful concomitants. That the dram shop is the chief counteracting force of all temperance efforts, that it both creates the evil demand and furnishes the vile supply by inviting and fostering the drinking usages of society, that it is in fact the stronghold of intemperance, and behind which the enemy is invulnerable to all ordinary modes of attack,

WHEREAS, this stronghold can only b eached by the force of ballots, and all other political parties are hopelessly unwilling to adopt an adequate policy on this question. therefore Resolved, 1st. That we heartily approv and hereby endorse the platform and principles of the Prohibition party adopted at cases whatsoever. Clearly neither opinion is Harrisburg, June 6th, 1875, and that we acright; the discretion which the courts exercise being a sound discretion upon the circumstances paign ROBERT AUDLEY BROWNE for Goverhald by us, at prices extremely low for ernor, and ELLIAH F. PENNYPACKER for State Treasurer, and that we will use all onorable means to secure their election.

2d. That the repeal of the Local Option Law by the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania was a wicked disregard of the will of a majority of the people in 41 counties of the State, and of a respectable minority in the remaining 26 counties, and that both the great political parties of the State are equally culpable because either party could have prevented this violation of the rights and consciences of the people.

3d. That we have lost all confidence in hese great political parties so far as sympathy with the temperance cause is concerned, 4th. That we deny the insinuation and charges made by our enemies, that in this novement we are designedly or ignorantly working in the interest of either of those political parties. 5th. That prompted by convictions of du ty to our fellow men, our country and God, we declare our purpose to vote the Temperance Prohibition ticket, and will use our county committee, consisting of well tried temperance men. P. R. Baldy was elected chairman of the county committee with power to add to the Neal & Bro. ommittee one voter from each ward and ownship in the county.
