Miscellaneous.

Napoleon's Treatment of His Generals. He was born a king, if to command the obedience of men be the whole art of kingship, which may perhaps be doubted. He of Frederick the Great; that is, he demanded nothing but success from his lieutenants, and was careless of the means they took to obtain it. Only failure he would never forgive. It was a favorite saying of his that he never judged men but by results. It was to no purpose that Massour gave excellent reasons for his defeat by Wellington: Napoleon wanted victories, and not explanations. There is a foolish story, to which so eminent a man as Southey could give eredence, to the effect that Admiral Villeneuve was assassinated by order of the Emperor after his disgrace at Trafalgar. There can be no serious doubt that the unfortunat commander committed suicide in sheer terror at the idea of an interview with the stern master whose plans he had caused to miscar-

It is fair to add that those of his captains who were successful had no need to complain that their services were insufficiently appreciated. Even Massens had acquired an income of $100,000 while his star was in the ascendent. Soult had $60,000 a year; Ney nearly $150,000; Davoust $180,000; while Bertier, Prince of Neuchatel, erjoyed a princely revenue of some $270,000. "They will no tonger fight," Napoleon once exclaimed in a moment of dejection, referring to his generals. "I have made them too

It may be suspected that it was rather from motives of policy than of gratitude that Napoleon thus created the fortunes of his marshals in a day. . He was anxious to establish as a suport to his throne a powerful aristocracy which in splendor and (to do him justice) in the brilliancy of its achievements should rival the old nobility of France. He forgot, however, that though monarchy and democracy can exist and have existed without proscription, an aristocracy to be venerable must absoutely bear the seal of antiquity. In none of his projects had Cromwell failed more hopelessly than in his attempt to reconstruct the House of Lords in England, Napoleon, it is true, did not propose to confer legislative functions on his nobles as such nevertheless he intended them to be a privileged blass, and this alone was a more courageous than wise idea on the morrow of 1789, -The Galaxy for October.

The Cathedral of N-tre Dame.

The church of our lady is not only one of the finest and oldest ecclesiustical edifices in corks. Paris, but the most beautiful in all France. It stands on the island of the city, in the Seine, in the most ancient quarter of the metropolis. The first stone was laid in 1163, and it took three centuries to build it. After having suffered from the ravages of time and violence, it was completely restored about 1845. The west front, with its two ponderous square towers, and its immense rose window over the central portal, which should be seen when glowing in the rays of the declining sun, is indescribably grand and striking. The style of architecture is pure Gothic. It is built in the form of a latin cross, and is 415 feet in length by 150 in breadth. In the west front there are three entrances, through richly sculptured ogive arches, Over these porticoes are twenty-eight colossal stat-Kings of Judah, popularly supposed to be French kings. Above the huge rose window, and extending across the entire front, is the gallery of columns. The towers are 204 feet high. In the south tower hangs the famous bell of Notre Dame, weighing 32,000 pounds. The lover of romance should endeavor to obtain his first view of Notre Dame from one of the many bridges that span the Scine as the full moon climbs the eastern sky, silvering at first the outlines of the massive pile, then gradually developing in a broader effulgence those marvelous de tails of buttress, pinnacle, canopied niche, and rose window, that relieves its heavy grandeur. Not even the full moon will reveal all of its quaint anatomy, but dark shadows from the numerous projections will still involve this monstrous work in a shroud of medieval mystery.

For Womankind.

"It is better to love a man you can never marry than to marry a man you never love. This is a short text for a long sermon," says some wise man or woman. We do not proon it. This weather is discouraging to long sermons, even were they worthy to be endured at any season. A few words on the text are sufficient. A loveless marriage is much worse for a woman in every way than for a man. In the first place woman has the credit, whether she deserves it or not, of being much more refined, of possessing much more delicacy and sensibility than the "stronger sex." Being thus higher, her degradation, when it comes, is much more terrible and thorough. Few things can conduce to this result in a greater degree than the constant and intimate relation of married life with a man she does not love. We have heard refined young women speak with disgust of the conversation of a class of their married lady acquaintances, and in many cases have traced this disagreeable trait back to its cause-a well-known loveless wedded life. Then again, perhaps the woman who marries for support, for a ome, an "establishment," or because she has never loved any one and fears that the present will be her last chance [dreadful hought), afterwards meets some one whom she can and does love. The result is easily foreseen, either a life spent in the terrible effort to subdue an unhappy passion, or the divorce court. After all, the good old Quaker custom is best, due deliberation and reflection before "entering the married state." Marrying in haste to repent at leisure, is very fashionable now-a-days, but it is a fashion which can be profitable or pleasant only to the lawyers, and not to them if they have any pity for the unhappy victims of antenuptial foolishness and post-nuptial misery.

How Judges Differ -Judge Trunkey, of Venango, one of the ablest judges in the State, has decided that to entitle a citizen to vote at an election his tax must have been paid at least one month prior thereto, and a payment for him by another must either have been authorized or ratified within the the same limit of time. This is directly in case delivered shortly after last year's elec- fairly. tion, in which it was held that the ratification related back to the time of performance and adopted the act as of that date. This is un important matter, for it is now dangerous to have taxes paid by others, unless by express authority and within the thirty days. It is therefore illegal for committees to pay the taxes of a list of delinquents, withou their personal request, simply to secure their votes. No dating back the ratification, any more than dating back the receipts, will be

Keep Ammonia in the House.

No housekeeper should be without a bottle of spirits of ammonia, for besides its Parifles the Bleed, Benovates and Invigorates nedical value, it is invaluable for house hold purposes. It is nearly as useful as soap, and its cheapness brings it within reach of seems in general to have acted on the plan all. Put a teaspoonful of ammonia to a quart of warm soap-suds, dip in a flannel doth, and wipe off the dust and fly-specks, and see for yourself how much labor it will save. No scrabbing will be needful. It will cleanse and brighten silver wonderfully; to a pint of suds mix a tenspoonful of spirits, dip in your silver spoons, forks, etc., rub with a brush and polish with chamois skin.

For washing mirrors and windows it is very desirable; put a few drops of ammonia a a piece of paper and it will readily take off every spot or finger mark on the glass. It will take out grease spots from every fabrie; put on the ammonia nearly clear, lay plotting paper over the place and place a hot flat iron on it for a few moments. A few drops in water will clean Inces and whiten them as well, also muslins. Then it s a most refreshing agent at the tollet table; a few drops in a basin of water will make a better bath than pure water, and if the skin is oily, it will remove all glossiness and disagreeable odors. Added to a foot bath it utirely absorbs all noxious smell, so often crising from the feet in warm weather, and artisely absorbs all noxious smell, so often arising from the feet in warm weather, and nothing is better for cleaning the hair from dandruff and dust.

For cleaning hair brushes it is equally good. Put a tablespoonful of ammonia into one pint of water, and shake the brushes through the water. When they look white rinse them in water and put them in the sunshine, or in a warm place to dry. The dirtiest brushes will come out of this bath white and clean. For medical purposes it is unrivaled. For the headache it is a desirable stimulant, a frequent inhaling of its pungent odors will often entirely remove catarrhal coids. There is no better remedy for heartburn and dyspepsia, and the aromatic spirits of ammonia is especially prepared for these troubles. Ten drops of it in a wine-glass are often a great relief. The spirits of ammonia can be taken in the same way, but it is not as palatable.

In addition to all these uses, the effect of way, but it is not as palatable.

In addition to all these uses, the effect of ammonia on vegetation is beneficial. If you desire roses, geraniums, fuchsias, etc., to become more flourishing, you can try it upon them by adding five or six drops to every pint of warm water you give them, but don't repeat the dose oftener than five or six days, lest you stimulate too highly. So be sure and keep a large bottle of it in the house, and have a glass stopper for it, as it is very evanescent and also injurious to What is it to be a Christian.

It will be a great help if at starting you have a right idea of what it really is to be a Christian. Do not look at it first as something that is going to make you happy Think, rather, that you are aiming to be the best and noblest kind of a man and woman You are going to be faithful, and brave, and unselfish and lovable. You are going to think more of other people's happiness than of your own. You are to live like a child of God, taking him for your father, trusting him for everything, seeking through his help live like Jesus Christ lived. Never forget that to be a Christian is to be like Christ.

Perhaps to some of you the words "to be like Christ," have a kind of beautiful sound but not a very clear meaning. Let us start at the begining, then, with something so simple that all can understand it. The first thing be faithful to everything that we know is right. That means a great deal. It means omething different at every hour. In school ime it means studying one's lessons faith fully; at play-time, it means being generous and gentle and fair; when we are at home, it is to be watchful for the comfort and happiness of every one in the house; when we are tempted to any kind of evil, by other people, by our own thoughts, it is saying no things that make up a Christian life.

A little boy wanted to borrow his aunt's dog Opposed to all Corrupt Rings in for a moment, and asked her to let him have a piece of string, so he could lead him, What are you going to do with him?" said the good lady. The boy hesitated a moment, and then said, "Well, you see, a boy round the corner bet me his dog was a larger dog than yours." "Well," said the aunt, pose to tire any one with a long sermon up- suppose it turns out that his dog is the larger one?" "Then," said the nephew, "you'll

> A lazy girl, who liked to live in comfort and do nothing, asked her fairy godmother to give her a good genius to do everything for her. On the instant the fairy called ten dwarfs, who dressed and washed the little girl. All was done so nicely that she was happy, except for the thought that they would go away. "To prevent that," said the godmother, "I will place them permanently n your ten pretty little fingers." And they are there yet.

A youngster being required to write : composition upon some portion of the human body, and expounded it as follows: "A throat is convenient to have, especially to roosters and ministers. The former eats corn and crows with it; the latter preaches through his'n, and then ties it up. This is pretty much all I can think of about necks.'

"My dear," said a husband to his wife, o diserving new red-striped stockings on his only heir, "why have you made barber's poles out of our child's legs?" "Because he is a little shaver." was the neat reply.

A very tall and shabby looking man, after having a glass of liquor, asked the bartender if he could change $20 bill. The gentleman informed him that he could. "Well," said the tall one, "Pil go out and see if I can find one."

Look on the bright side of things, for none are so unhappy as those who are forever thinking how hard their lot is, and how much better off are others. Think of those who have less, and life will be joyous.

There is no more certain way to build up a place than by encouraging good merchants, good mechanics, good papers, good schools and good people to settle among you. And this can best be done by spending your conflict with Judge Pearson's opinion in the money at home where you are dealt with

There are people from whom we secretly shrink, whom we would personally avoid hough reason confesses that they are good people; there are others, with faults of temper, or the like, beside whom we live content, as if the air about them did us good.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the forma-tion of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.
