The Way to Blanket Horses.

But few people, comparatively understand how to blanket a horse to protect him from and begged him to afford him some place contracting cold. We frequently see the where he might hide himself. The man blanket folded double, and laid across the showed him his own but, and the Fox creeprump and a part of the animal's back, leav- ing in, hid himselfin a corner. The Hunter ing those parts of the body that need pro-tection entirely exposed to cold storms and whether he had seen the Fox, "No," said he,

The same thing holds in the protection of horses The blanket should cover the neck, withers and shoulders, and be brought around the breast, and be buttoned or buckled as closely as a man buttons his overcoat. Let the lungs of a horse be protected with a heavy blanket, and he will seldom contract cold, even if the hindmost parts of his body are not covered.

We refer more particularly to blanketing horses that have become unusually warm by violent exertion or hard driving, and exposing them to a current of cold air while standing still.

Many of our best teamsters protect the breasts of their horses by a piece of heavy cloth about two feet square, hanging down from the lower end of the collar. This is an excellent practice in cold weather, as the most important part of the animal is shielded from cold wind, especially when traveling toward a strong current. The forward end of the horse blanket should be made to fit as closely around the breast of a horse as our garments fit our bodies.

Most horses contract a violent cold almost as soon as a man, if not blanketed while they stand still, after having been exercised so violently as to produce profuse perspiration. So long as a horse is kept in motion there is little danger of his suffering any inconvenience from cold winds. But allow him to stand a few moments while loading or unloading, without a heavy blanket to protect his shoulders and lungs, and he will take cold sooner than some men.

Winter Care of Caws.

us stop and consider the value of a good cow during the winter, and if we appreciate good, rich milk in winter, as we ought, we will soon come to the conclusion that she is of great value. The cow should be well supplied with slop from the kitchen, mixed in with meal or bran, and have plenty of good hay to eat and a good dry bed to lie on,both for the convenience of the milker and for the comfort of the cow. Do not keep a cow in a cold stable; see that she is comfortable. And, besides this, one thing more is very essential, and that is to card the animal at At length when the Beasts seemed to prevail, least once a day during the winter. By so doing they will be kept free from lice. If any are so unfortunate as to have their cat-tle infested with them, a good receipt is tle infested with them, a good receipt is: Take corrosive sublimate, two drachms rub down in two ounces of spirits of wine, and add a pint of water. This is strong enough to kill the vermin, but cannot possibly injure the beast.

THE GARDENS OF MOROCCO.—The groves of rose trees and the flower farms of Morocco are said, by a recent traveler, to exceed while the soil is exceedingly fertile. To the mate appears to be especially suited, the dates of Talifat having been famous even from Roman times. The orange plantations are of great extent in various parts of the country, while olives and almonds are also staples exported in large quantities. Seeing that this firtile lard, within five day's steam of London, produces so much vegetable wealth under the most barbarous cultivation it appears very strange that commercial enterprise does not, in such a climate, seek the profitable employment for its ever abundant capital in its application to develop such vast resources.

A few days since, as Henry and Edward Ball, of Forks township, (boys aged 15 and 13 years,) were going into the woods to cut wood, a large deer ran up to them and showed fight. The boys were frightened at this strange freak on the part of the deer, and cut his throat. The deer was a large one, boys of their age, when so many hunters have had the "deer fever"and returned without a "buck, -Sullivan Democrat, FACTS FOR FARMERS.—A series of exper iments, instituted to test the average loss in weight by drying, shows that corn loses onefifth, and wheat one-fourteenth by the process. From this statement it appears that farmers will make more by selling unshelled corn in the fall at 75 cents than the following summer at $1 a bushel; and that wheat at $1.32 in December is equal to $1.50 for the same wheat in June following. This estimate is made on the basis of interest at 7 per cent, and takes no account of loss from vermin. The facts are noteworthy.

THREE GOOD RULES FOR FARMERS.-1 In gathering corn, take such ears only as are finest and from the most prolific stalks. 2. Never take from a stalk having but one ear, if thirty stalks can be found with two or more good-sized ears. Generally but one of them is fit for seed, and that is usually the second from the ground. But if the lowest is the best, take that. 3. Always take ears that are filled out to the end, and that beyond the husk, if such can be found. When you come to plant, before shelling break every ear, and see if the pith of the cob is dried up; for if it is not, the corn is

Corn-fed hens do not lay in the winter, for the simple reason that there is no albumen material in the corn. When wheat is given to them, there is enough fat in it to supply all that is needed for the yolk, and albume enough to make the white, and lime enough to furnish the shell; it does not seem difficult to understand why corn-fed hens should not might have done, I am determintd now not Lay as they do not, and why wheat fed hens to spure you; for there is no death too bad

THE VAIN JACKDAW-A Jackdaw, as vain and conceited as Jackdaw c uld be, icked up the feathers which some Peacock had shed, stuck them amongst his own, and lespising his old companions, introduced himself with the greatest assurance unto a flock of those beautiful birds. They in stantly detecting the intruder, strip; ed him of his borrowed plumes, and falling upon him with their beaks, sent him about his business. The unlucky Jackdaw, sorely pun ished and deeply sorrowing, betook himsel to his former companions, and would have locked with them again as if nothing had appened. But they, recollecting what airs he had given himself drummed him out of their society, while one of those whom he had so lately despised, read him this lecture. 'Had you been contented with what nature made you:-you would have escaped the chastisement of your betters and also the contempt of your equals."

THE KITE AND THE PIGEONS .- Some pigeons had long lived in fear of a Kite, but by being always on the alert, and keeping near their dove-cote, they had contrived hitherto to escape the attack of the enemy. Finding his sallies unsuccessful, the Kite betook himself to craft: "Why," said he, do you prefer this life of anxiety when, if you would only make me your king, I would secure you from every attack that would be made upon you?" THE BIRDS, BEASTS, AND BAT .- Once upon a time there was a fierce war waged between the Birds and Beasts. For a long while the issue of the battle was uncertain and the Bat, taking advantage of his ambig-uous nature, kept aloof and remained neutral. the bat joined their forces and appeared active in the fight; but a rally being made by the winning party. A peace being speedily concluded, the Bat's conduct was condemned alike by both parties, and being acknowledge by neither, and so excluded from the terms of the truce, he was obliged to skulk off as best he could, and has ever since lived in holes and corners, never daring to show his face except in the duskiness of twilight

But the Plane-tree answered them,"Ungrateful creatures! at the very moment you are enjoying benefit from me, you rail at me as being good for nothing." Ingratitude is as blind as it is base.

THE WOLVES AND THE SHEEP-Once or s time, the Wolves sent an embassy to the Sheep, to desire that there might be peace between them for the time to come. "Why," called for their dog, a pup 8 months old, to said they, "should we be for ever waging "take him." The dog was equal to the task this deadly strife? TO H. R. STEVENS, ESG.

WILL CLEANSE SCROFULA FROM THE SYSTEM. HONEST OPINION.

Mr. H. R. STEVENS:—
DEAR SIR.—This is to show that my son was taken sick in January, 1864, with Scrofula, which came out in large sores and theers on his leg and hip. His leg was swelled more than twice its natural size. He had several doctors of high standing in their profession—two from Boston and three from Charlestown—without getting a bit better. He was obliged to lie wherever he was placed, for he had no use of his limbs whatever. When we had given up all hopes of his living we were told to try Vegetine, the great blood remedy; and he had taken it but a short time before we could see a great change. The sores run so bad that we had to change the cloths four of five times a day. Still, he was getting better; for he could move his limbs and help himself a little. He was soon able to sit up in bed, and, by constant use of Vegetine, it has cured him. He has a lame leg, which he will probably have for life; but we all hencetly believe, if we had used Vegetine before we had bothered with those doctors; it would have saved the use of his leg, and restored it to natural health. I hope all those troubled with Scrofula will read this testimony of me and my son, who is now well and able to speak for himself.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimu-lated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the forma-tion of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.
