To preserve meadows in their productive ness, it is better to harrow them every second autumn, apply top-dressing, and roll them. All stiff clays are benefited by fall and winter plowings; but should never be plowed while they are wet. If at such plowings, the furrow be materially deepened, lime, marl or ashes should be applied. Young stock should be moderately fed with grain in winter, and receive generous supplies of provender, it being essential to keep them in fair condition, in order that the formation of muscles and bones may be encouraged and continuously carried on. THE POLAR BEAR'S CUNNING .- According to the Esquimaux, the seal constructs its below, here the young seal passes its infancy, and when the returning heat of summer has destroyed its igloo or dwelling, the young seal is old enough to take care of itself; but this mode of lodging its young beneath ice is well known to the bear, who, with his keen scent, soon detects the whereabouts of the seal's nursery, and in order to gain entrance makes a spring and comes down heavily on the top of the igloo, crushes it in, and immediately seizes the young seal with its paw. Here it might be supposed the hungry bear devours its prey; but no, it is far too wary to do so; it knows full well that where a baby is, there must of necessity be a mother, and that she will be in search of her darling; therefore the bear scrapes the snow away from the young seal by the flippers, allows it to flounder about, and when the mothers approaches, the bear alyly draws the young seal toward it until the one is within reach, when he seizes her with the other paw, and thus capture

Our farmers must learn to practice econ omy by saving, not wasting, the coarser kinds of farm produce which have to a great extent been considered of little or no value. More root crops should be grown, and the straw stack utilized instead of being left to not down for manure, as is still done over a large extent of country. Let the steam boiler be set up and be more extensively used for preparing food for stock, and better results will surely follow, especially in the older States, where all kinds of farm produce command good prices. A Brood mare, heavy in foal owned or Long Island, broke her hind leg, and instead of destroying her as is the almost universal custom, a veterinary surgeon placed her in slings, set the leg, and in six weeks the mare was turned out all right and none the worse for the accident. Many valuable horses that are killed because they have the misfortune to break a limb, might be saved by following this humane and sensible example.

THE CATHEORAL AT AIR LA-CHAPELLE.

When the splendid Cathedral of Aix-la Chapelle was not more than half finished, al he funds that could be raised for its building were exhausted, and those who had it in harge knew not how to obtain more money. One day as the senate was considering this matter, and its members could not agree upon any course of action, there appeared to be great danger that the work would be abandoned. At this juncture of the affair a stranger was aunounced who said he had an important proposal to make to the full senate. His appearance was a singular combination of the repulsive and the agrecable, His costume was bizarre in the extreme, and there was an indescribable expression in his face of mingled calculation and mockery. But his address was faultless, and so courtly and pleasing was he in his speech that it was impossible to listen to him without a certain kind of pleasure. He told the senate that he quite understood their difficulties; that he appreciated their sorrow at the prospect of being obliged to abandon the glorious work they had undertaken, and he also are grown, must either have lime and every knew that so honest men as they could not proceed without more money. Wherefore he came to offer them the full amount that or those minerals must be artificially sup- they desired, and was ready at any time to give it to them in solid gold, if they would agree to his terms. The senators regarded stituents common to plants, as its basis. him with astonishment, and wondered what Lands which have been long in cultivation, could be the end of this strange affair. Did he know of what he spoke, and if so, who

From this surprise the mayor first recovertion. All wet land should be drained, and ed, and began to question the stranger conespecially such land as has a heavy clay sub-cerning himself, and what assurance he could soil. All grain crops should be harvested before the grain is thoroughly ripe. Clover as well as the other grasses intended for hay, should be mowed when in bloom. Sandy be; that the money should not be a loan, land can be most effectually improved by the but an actual gift for all time; that it should addition of clay. When such lands require liming or marling, the lime or marl is most left of their receiving it. But for all this he eficially applied when made into compost made two conditions: one, that the Cathewith clay. In slacking lime salt brine is dral should be finished; another, that on the day of its dedication the first entering it should belong to him, "skin and hair, body and mixing it with cut hay or straw, opeto the farthest part of the hall, for they well knew with whom they talked. The mayor indignantly commanded him to go away, and not to flatter himself that they, men of dignity, were so foolish as to fall into the 1876. same trap that with another device caught mother Eve, and had since her day, by means manure, lime and labor away. Shallow of changing the bait, seduced so many of her plowing operates to impoverish the soil. By descendants. But in spite of this, he only moved the nearer to them and courteously demanded the cause of their strange conduct He reasoned with them if it were not better for one to be given for all; and reminded them how little kings and governments hesitated to sacrifice thousands in war to obtain some good for those remaining.

gain was made. Then the Devil, after recommending himself to their kind consider ation, vanished by of the chimney with pealof satanic laughter. It was not long before many well filled sacks descended the same chimney, and thus scretly reached the councious of the money, but examination proved it to be of genuine metal and exact weight, Then they agreed that the whole matter should remain a secret among themselves, and went on to finish the Cathedral. Bu some of them whispered it to their wives and some to other men, and so it happened that soon their secret was everybody's secret. When all was ready and the day of dedication had arrived the door was opened but none would enter; and though the bell tolled to call them, and all heartily desired to see the splendid templa, yet not one advanced to go in. The mayor and senators knew not how to proceed, when suddenly a little priest appeared who had a plan by which he hoped to cheat Satan out of his soul and his gold, and for once made him an instrument of good. The contract had indeed been that Full complement of tools and implements of the first entering should be his, but it had not been staked what it should be, whether man or beast. By this oversight he hoped that the Devil might be outwitted. It hap-pened the day previous that a wolf had been abode beneath the surface of the ice in such let out the wolf must run into the church taken, and now the trap was so placed that if a manner that it can enter it from the water Then it was opened, and Satan, who watched for his prey, chased the devoted wolf with lightning speed; but when he found how he had been cheated his anger was terrific He broke the wolf's neck, he spat fire and howled terribly, he bayed the cathedral door with such force as to split it, and vanished in smoke, leaving the cathedral filled with the odor of brimstsne. On the door an image of a wolf in brass is yet shown, and fir-cone, which represents a lost soul. The crevice also remains a lasting memorial of the little priest who was so wise as to outwit the Devil.

> THE TRAVELERS AND THE HATCHET. Two men were travelling along the same oad, when one of them picking up a hatchet cries, "See what I have found!" "Do iot say I," say says the other, "But we have ound." After a while, up came the men who had lost the hatchet, and charged the nan who had it with the theft. "Alas," says he to his companion, "we are undone! "Do not say we," replies the other, "but ! am undone; for he that will not allow his friend to share the prize, must not expect | Shawls im to share the danger."

THE FARMER AND THE LION .- A Lior entered one day into a farm-yard, and the and many other Woolen Goods to Farmer, wishing to catch him shut the gate. close there out, When the Lion found that he could not get out, he began at once to attack the sheep, and then betook himself to the oxen. So the Farmer afraid for himself, now opened the gate, and the Lion made off as fast as he could. His wife, who had observed it all, when she saw her husband in great trouble at the loss of his cattle, cried out-"You are rightly served; for what could have made you so mad as to wish to detail a creature, whom, if you saw at a distance, you would wish further off." Better scare a thief than snare him

THE CRAB AND HER MOTHER.-Said as old Crab to a young one, "Why do you walk so crooked, child? walk straight!" "Mother," said the young Crab, "show me the way, will you? and when I see you taking a straight course, I will try and follow." Example is better that precept.

If Vegetine will reflece pain, cleans, pairly and cure such discusses, is eases of Scribials, where, apparently, the whole by years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a suffering such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid, it can be truly called the dreat flood Purifier. The great source of discusse originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not not directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagmant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, tregular alled or from any other cause, the Vegetine will renew the blood carry off the puttle humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetabekingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than minoral medicines. Vegetine is composed of roots, barks and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and is not least the terms of a fant. Do you need it? Do not healtale to try it. You will never regret it.

DEAR SIR—This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" is my family for several years, and I think that, for Secretia or Cankerous Humors, or Rheumatic Affections, it cannot be excelled, and, as a blood purifier and spring medicine, it is the best thing I have ever used; and I have used almost everything. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.

Yours respectfully.
