THE ERA OF RASCALITY.

Years ago, under Democratic auspices, the robbery of the Treasury by a Democrat of ever so small an amount, would have been a test for every Radical newspaper...

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 2, 1876. Special Correspondence.

Some one, Shakespeare, I think, said, "There's a divinity that shapes our ends."

With that line running through my mind I sat in the gallery of the House, and took a good view of the top and bottom ends of some of our Congressmen.

The bifurcated neck of numbers of them were visible on the seats when they were seated in that peculiar position which is held to be the American idea of comfort, and a lesson that could be learned from these feet.

Some of them, looking, conveying the idea that the owner was a man of wit, who, when "he put his foot down," meant business.

Others were narrow and small suggesting weakness, physical and perhaps mental, upon the part of the owner, and still others were of such enormous proportions that they gave one the thought that the owner must get fatigued by carrying them round.

But while the feet or minor ends were of various shapes, the caps were almost all alike. You could see well-shaped heads with their full crop of hair cut close and tinged by the passing hand of time, clear cut and well poised, showing power, will, ability to do and dare, and marks a man that leads where he may be thrown.

There is another, of a different style, but equally strong. Long from point to rear, with a projecting forehead, depressed at the sides, with the hair thin and disappearing. It shows brain power, nervousness, skill, and a body site before you. See the small head bent, sloping from every way to the point, and you wonder what that man's constituents sent him here for, and what he can do more than say "aye" or "no," as his party leaders dictate.

A close examination shows that this class, or others indicating the same characteristics, largely predominate, and a few days watching of the proceedings proves that the divinity "that shapes our ends" makes no mistakes in the slapping, for the ones with the good ends (heads) lead and the others follow.

Bennett, late prince royal, but now king of the New York Herald, is going to be married. This is no false rumor to be denied in time. He marries an American girl, born in Washington city, and now resident in New York. She is the second daughter of Dr. May, and captured the erratic Bennett at New York last summer. Bennett will advance the season this year for his "May" will come to him in February. Well, peace to his ashes, is the prayer of his lachlor friends.

"There was mourning in haste of the Netherland clan," and so there is here of all the clans. No young bride has been snatched from her destined spouse and hurried away by an ardent Lochmoran from out of the west, but there are many political movers seeking a bride, and her name is "nomination." Among the democratic movers some anger has been excited by Mr. Speaker Kerr's letter, expressing himself as favoring Governor Hendricks. This has been most outspoken by the friends of that ardent young lover of New York—Tilden. But a great many others, who do not "speak out in meeting," like Tilden's friends, think the Speaker should have held his peace, at least for the present. Here the followers of the grim Morton, like Senator Sherman's letter, denouncing Governor Hayes. They say it is an effort to spike Morton's guns. But all the friends of all the candidates are mounted and riding for the prize, while sensible men like you and me look on and laugh.

The woman suffragists have been here in full force, only some familiar faces were wanting, Susan B. Anthony and Anna Dickinson were not with them. It cannot be that they have grown lukewarm, for they are of those "who age does not tire nor custom stale." Those dear ducks want the privilege of voting accorded to the women of the District. As it is one not now given to the men, we all favor it here. Let Congress make them voters, by all means, and give us the experience of a woman's government on a little larger scale than the home circle. One thing is certain, there could be no better place than this to make the experiment, as all the governments by sea tried here have failed.

Investigations are the order of the day. Everybody and everything is being investigated. What will be developed by the Smelling Committees is yet an unknown quantity, but I have very little doubt that they will discover, if they persevere, that there are good oysters, a fair article of whiskey, excellent terrapin, and fine imported wines, to be had at certain places in this city. Some of the investigators may find a "big bonanza" in the shape of a roll of greenbacks, (checks are not taken and memorandum books allowed).

It is mournful to view the lobby. The patriotic and high-souled men who congregated here at every Session of Congress, each one having a Senator and two or three Representatives for sale, are at a discount—like others, their occupations gone; for the men who have schemes have generally discovered that they have been purchasing goods that could not be delivered. It rends one's heart, and causes great tears of pity to flow from the eyes of sympathetic to see the men who followed the announcement that they would not have a lobby for the Texas and Pacific bill. The veterans had congregated, expecting fat pickings from him, when, like a thunder clap in a cloudless sky, came the announcement that there would be no lobby. It is to be hoped that this winter will give us the last of the disreputable "third house," particularly as there is a bill now before the Senate, to provide a bar which shall issue licenses to persons to practice before the committees. This law requires that the applicant shall have no other means of livelihood than the highest court of the State in which he resides, and publishes any attempt to approach members upon the subject of a bill.

Our "foreign relations" continue to be in a confused condition. The truth is that it would require more acumen than the ordinary mortal possesses to arrive at any conclusions upon the conditions of affairs in Europe. One day we hear that Andrus's note has been accepted by all the great powers, and that Turkey acquiesces. Then this is denied. All we do know is that fighting is going on in Spain and in Turkey, and that all Europe is as usual armed, and each one of great powers is watching an opportunity to "annex" a little territory. Wars and revolutions are talked of in some of the Spanish American States, but that is no news.

SAXON.

Michael J. Doyle was found guilty of murder in the first degree at March Clunk on Tuesday. Kelly and Kerrigan will be tried at the next term of court. This case has attracted great attention, Doyle belonging to the Molly Maguires, at whose instigation the murder of John P. Jones, a mine boss, was supposed to have been committed. The verdict is generally approved.

Hands of the People's Money

Victor E. Piolet, late a Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, is at Harrisburg...

He is expected to enrich a chosen few prominent among whom is Victor E. Piolet, who asks the people of the State at this time of paralyzed industries, and general business depression, to submit to additional taxation for the benefit of this purely private enterprise.

Every citizen of the State who attends the Centennial and puts up at the Gray Encampment will be expected to pay for what he gets. Then let Mr. Piolet and his friends furnish the money to erect the buildings and run the establishment.

With the same priority might the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Knight Templars, Good Templars, American Mechanics' Red Men, Sons and Daughters of Temperance, or any organization, or individual, demand the same amount of money for the same purpose. Can there be a doubt that if this appropriation is made somebody will be $50,000 better off and no citizen of the State benefited in the least.

The idea that this is only a loan, is richness indeed. Who for one moment supposes that if the State Treasury were to back into the State Treasury one cent, should the appropriation be obtained. If Mr. Piolet and his friends will give the proper security the money may be obtained from private sources at any moment. The splendid mansion and stock farm at Wysox alone, would be good for the sum of money asked for. We shall anxiously await the action of the democratic "reform" House of Representatives on this attempt to fish $50,000 from the already prospected people of the State.—Money Laundry.

Food for Republicans.

Senator West of Louisiana, is the latest of the administration pets to come under fire. L. A. Wiltz of the Louisiana Legislature charges him with having paid $25,000 to secure his election, and what is worse he apparently proves it by showing a list of the members whom he bought, with the sum paid for each. This isn't the first time a certified friend of the legislators of that State has found his way into the newspaper and the public eye. It is not surprising, therefore, that West, most proud of his constituents at the low price of $500 a head. There were four to whom, according to this list, he had to pay $1,000 or $1,500, and two particularly high toned fellows whom it cost an 'outlaw of $5,000 each to secure for him. But the latter two represented rings, and are supposed to have divided with others. This makes one more of its members which the Senate of the United States needs to investigate. The worst of it is that if West were to be expelled there is no telling when poor Louisiana would succeed in getting an honest man into the seat. There are two or three Senators elected from that State now hanging around the door of the Capitol.—Times.

YOUNG MAN OF COLOR, Jan. 29th 1876.

MESSRS EDITORS OF COLUMBIAN AND DEMOCRAT—Gents:

Your historian is in error in saying that Bethuel Vincent had been married a short time before he was taken prisoner. He should have said Daniel Vincent. Bethuel Vincent was not married until he returned from captivity; he married Martha H. Bond, and Daniel Vincent married Angelina Heath of New Jersey.

I make this correction through the suggestion of my wife who is a grand daughter of Daniel Vincent.

It is important that the historical account be as correct as possible. And being a reader of your paper and interested in reclaiming the Early History of Pennsylvania from oblivion in this our Centennial Year of our National Existence I have thought proper to make these suggestions.

Truly Yours,

A. I. QUIGLEY.

Six Horse Thieves Hanged.

Atchison, Kan., Jan. 31.—A commercial traveler of this city, has just come in from Solomon valley. He says that six horse thieves were hanged there a few days ago by a vigilance committee. Among those lynched were Hutchinson, Cox and Connaughty, three desperadoes of the frontier. The thieves were surrounded in their cabin at night, just after returning from a trip to Nebraska, where they had been to dispose of stolen stock. They were tried by a lynches' court, found guilty and executed at once.

WILKESBARRE, Pa. Jan. 27.—Verdict of not guilty was rendered this morning in the case of Dr. Trimmer, prothonotary, and his clerk, M. E. Gaughan, charged with forging and altering election returns last November.
