Poetical.

THREE AND ONE.
They stray and meet the sunny weather,
Two maids and a youth, 'neath shade of blue,
And each of the three, as they walk together,
To the poetry of their own hearts are true.
Yet the maidens love each other dearly,
And both love the youth, if he only knew;
But he loves one with a sweet fervent ardor,
And the other he loves as he loves me.

Desperate Fight with a Bear.

The head waters of the Delaware river are about thirty miles north-west of Delhi, in a wild and unfrequented portion of the Catskill mountains in Schoharie county, New York. There are a few settlements in the region, but about a year ago a man named Butler put up a cabin on one of the mountains overlooking the stream, having a mountain to peel bark and cut railroad ties. His wife and two children, one a girl about sixteen and the other an infant, occupy the cabin with him. Butler goes into the woods sometimes several miles away from his home and often does not return for three days.
