Butterwick's Weakness

Deagon Grimes called the other day upon Mrs. Patterwick to sak for a subscription to the missionary society. The following conversation took place: "Your husband is a pondent in Minnesota, was read by the Sec-Presbyterian, I believe, Mrs. Butterwick?" said the deacon.

"No," replied Mrs. B. "He belongs to everything else on earth but the church. That's night, Thursday night is his temperance odge, Friday he goes fooling along with the Knights of Pythias, and all day Sunday he is visiting the sick and the widows and orphans of dead members. If there were sixty days in a week I believe Butterwick would have some lodge to attend to every night.

"Mr. Grimes, that man actually knows ninety-four grips and over two hundred pass words. And he's awful mysterious about them. The other day I saw him swinging his arms about kinder oueer at breakfast, and forgot where I was! Mary Jane, you saw out if I ever repeat one of those pass-words. riosity. And he told me that sometimes he gets all these grips mixed, and he'll give a Mason an Odd Fellow's grip, and tell me not to be surprised if he is kidnapped and made away with before morning. And he'll kiss his children good-bye, and making his last little arrangements so's everything'll be straight when he's gone; and then the children and me'll cry, and he look solemn, and go to bed to rest before he meets his doom. But nothing ever came of it. They never touched

"You ought to just see the letters that come here direct to him. 'E. Butterwick,' and then a whole alphabet of letters strung after his name. He's a right worshipful grand master and a sir knight, and an eminent past grand sachem, and chief magnificent Rev. Druid priest, and a whole lot more breath away; and with all that he's no more stuck up than you are. Just as humble as a lamb. And he says he can reel out more stuff that they say at ceremonies than'd fill a small library; and he has about sixty sheep skin aprons, and all kinds of pictures on them, that he wears when he is on

"So he has no time to attend church and no money for heathens. He spent his last dollar Saturday paying up his last dues to the Knights of Pythias, and he says if he can't settle up with the Druids by Thursday they'll cut him off and chuck him out. I don't know what happens to a man when the Druids shut down on him, but Butterwick hints that it is much better than sudden death. Perhaps your'e a Druid? No? Well, you call and see Butterwick, and he'll explain it to you, and meantime those heathens will have to shuffle along the best way they can. Maybe, if you was to write to them how Butterwick was fixed they might consider that sufficient. Good morning. Remember me to Mrs. Grimes. Then the deacon withdrew and went around to visit a less mysterious family.

WHERE TO ADVERTISE.

A. T. Stewart says the best advertising mediums he has ever found "are the old established organs of the two political parties, at the several county scate throughout the Union." "These," he says "reach every family or the least account in their several counties, and are more carefully read than any other class of journals." If Mr. stewart's judgment is of value, there is no difficulty in deciding which paper it is for the interest of business men to advertise in The College and Descorar, upon which this paper is purtially founded, was established in 1886, and the College and Descorar, upon which this paper is purtially founded, was established in 1886, and the College and Descorar, upon which this paper is purtially founded, was established in 1886, and the College and Descorar of the College and the counties and by most of them is read from the first to the last line. It is the only recognised exponent of nearly five thousand Democratic voters in the county. It gives advertisements a tasty display, that makes them attractive to its patrons, thus exsuring greater certainty that they will perse them. While its circulation is undoubtedly much the largest in the county, the advertising rates of the College and the county is a surface of the college and the county is the advertising rates of the College and the surface WHERE TO ADVERTISE.
