Watering Horses.

This subject is again on the carpet, and there are as many views as there are writers as to when, how often and how much water a horse is to be allowed daily.

Chad and Seth.

Chad and Seth were great cronies, though Chad's father was a lawyer, and Seth's was a blacksmith.

There was an opinion floating about the village that Chad and Seth were boys. But the evidence for this was very intangible.

The truth of the matter was that Chad and Seth were two young democrats, full to the brim of life and spirit, who liked fun better than anything else.

Chad and Seth were near the same age—just turned thirteen.

The worst thing I know about Seth was that he didn't keep his hands and face clean. As for Chad, the greatest fault I found with him was that he persisted in his companionship with Seth.

Chad was teasing to go and play with Seth. "Why, Chad, I should think you'd feel mortified to be seen with Seth."

"I ain't goin' back on Seth for that," said Chad, stoutly. "He can't help it. His mother's the one to haul over the coals for that."
