"GIVE US A SONG."

The outer trenckes guarding, When the hented guns of the camp allied Grew weary of bombarding.

Lay grim and threatening under, And the tawny mound of the Malakoff No longer belened its thunder.

There was a prose. The guardsman sild, "We storm the fort to-morrow ; Sing while we may, another day Will bring enough of sorrow."

Below the smoking cannon-Brave hearts from Severn and from Ciyde,

"Give us a song !" the soldier cried.

The dark Redan of silent scoff

They lay along the battery's side

And from the banks of Shanno

They mang of love and not of fame.

Forgot was Britain's glory. Each heart recalled a different name, But all mang "Annie Laurie,"

Voice after voice caught up the song

Until the tender passion Rose like an anthem, rich and strong,

Yet as the song grew louder, omething upon the soldier's cheek Washed off the stains of powder.

Beyond the darkening ocean burned

While the crimson valley learned

How English blood remembers

Hained on the Russian quarters, With screams of shot and bursts of shell, And bellowing of the mortars.

The bloody sunset embers ;

And once again as fire of hell

And Irish Nora's oves are dim

For a singer dumb and gory ; And English Mary mourned for him Who sung of "Annie Laurie."

Oh, soldiers to your honored rest,

Your truth and valor bearing ; The bravest are the tenderesi,

REST, SOLDIER, REST!

The loving are the daring.
