They went to Buckhorn, Columbia county, failed to secure bail; from there they came to Iola, and stopped at Haymans mill. Here Shoemaker informed John that he wanted to see Hayman concerning bail, and both went ato the mill and talked with Mr. Hayman white without success. Shormaker then stepped out of the mill, and while they were preparing to get into the buggy, whisked around the mill and shot up the road at a speed in- into a first class manufactory in another branch diesting an escape. As the fugitive was a muscular man and of large size, it did not require any extraordinary effort on his part to place an extended space between him and his captor, in a little while. And as it was 11 o'clock at night with rain pouring down, it is not at all surprising that the escape was effected. John return ed to Hughesville on Friday evening, no doubt feeling that he had made a narrow escape from getting throttled, but nevertheless very mad at himself for allowing his prisoner to escape.

Friday night the other two prisoners were taken before Esquire Swartz for a hearing-Leman said he got the money he passed on Nathaniel Buck, at Hu, hesville, from Shoemaker, who he had been working for; but his testimony, when summed up, was not of the Monday night, at the age of 39 years and 10 kind to make those listening think that he was months, leaving a widow and three children, telling a straight story.
