BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, Feb. 15, 1878 THE COUNTY STATEMENT.

We presume that by this time our readers have carefully examined the County statement which is unusually clear and explicit It so readily explains itself that we shall only call attention to a few points. In the first place it will be observed tha of the taxes assessed for 1877, over one-half remains unpaid. This is all wrong. The County is paying interest on bonds and on money borrowed from Banks, when there is due it for 1877 over $19,000, and from 1878 to 1877 over $3700. It is not fair that those who pay their taxes promptly, should suffer for the negligence of others. Much of this evil comes from the selection of incompetent collectors,-men who are generally chosen with more reference to their past or prospective political service to the comissioners, than for any peculiar fitness fo their positions. Nor do we understand the statement in giving the amount as due from collectors prior to 1877 as $3761, when the Treasurer is charged for the same item $13, 433. We also think the item of $100, for managing a dog fund of only $1561, is rather

In the matter of exonerations the fault of our tax system is also illustrated. In Bloomsburg, which has a large number of laboring and poor men, and which pays a tax of over $5950, the exonerations last year were only $19, whilst four other townships, paying about the same tax, were allowed $126,

We also think the payment of $100, t Mr. Comly for Jail argument, should have come out of the Commissioner's pockets, as it was their sait, and not the peoples. Be side the County has already an able attorney who works an entire year for the same sur as was paid Mr. Comly for one suit.

But upon the whole, the Statement make to a subject heretofore very much complicata fair showing considering the new Jail ex penses, and the unusual Court expenses.

The Returning Board Conviction.

The conviction of General Thomas C Anderson, a member of the Louisiana Returning Board, marks another and the first important step in the onward march of retribution against the infamous conspirators who fraudulently manipulated the returns of election and falsely certified the result in favor of the Hayes electors. The offense of the twisting and turning of Mr. Hayes on tunately the mail car next after the engine which General Anderson is convicted was the greatest crime in the political history of the country, committed, as it was, without a palliating condition, and powerful as it was for evil in example as well as in immediate effect, and any other result of the trial that has just closed in New Orleans would have been a travesty of justice and a lasting repreach to American civilization. The crime was not committed in any corner; it was seen and known of all men. Some of the most eminent citizens of the United States were present, and, knowing the infamy in progress, held their peace if they did not actually encourage its perpetration and assure the criminals of protection. Others of equal eminence viewed the proceedings with disgust and published them to the world think there will be over 20,000 in line. who thus perverted the will of the people, qualifications of the voters are not yet fixed. ia utter defiance of the real figures, were Thomas C. Anderson and his associates. It is idle to pretend that such men are entitled to immunity and absurd to say that the legal proceedings against them have any of the characteristics of a political persecution Sufficient time has been allowed for the passions of the hour to be dissipated. The jury that convicted Anderson was fairly chosen, and embraced two colored men, and, perhaps, other Republicans. He has been given a fair hearing, in the face of a flight that constituted presumption of guilt, and no one

A Novel Contract.

The Miss Carrie M. Burnham, who, a few days ago, forwarded a petition to the Legislature to take such action as would insure her the power to practice as an attorney at law, is the wife of the eccentric lawyer, Damon Y. Kilgore, with whom she studied law. Some time ago Miss Burnham applied to the Board of Examiners for admission to the bar, but the Board refused to grant her request. Shortly after this she was married to Mr. Kilgore by a novel process, known as the anti-nuptial contract. In this case the document was drawn up, in which it was particularly specified that she should not be subject to any of the legal disabilities imposed on married women by the laws of the land, but should have control of her own personal property and earning, precisely the same as if she was an unmarried woman. This contract was signed by two witnesses, ratified before a Notary Public and recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds.—
