It would be difficult to explain whence came the notion that "The hares lay the Easter eggs." Queer hares they must be, indeed, but German children believe it as devoutly as they do that the "Christkind" brings their Christmas presents, or as our own little ones do in Santa Claus. No one knows exactly whence came this myth. Many think it a relic of heathen worship but a writer named Christoph von Schmid, in an interesting story for children, suggest this much prettier origin;

Many hundred years ago, a good and no-ble lady, Duchess Rosilinda von Lindenburg, at a time when a cruel war was devastating the land, was obliged to fly from her beautiful home in Germany, accompanied by her two children and one old man-ser-

They found refuge in a small mining village in the mountains, where the simple but contented and happy inhabitants did what they could for their comfort, and placed the best of all they had at the disposal of the (wanderers, Nevertheless, their fare was miserable; no meat was ever to be found, seldom fish, and not even an egg; this last for the very good reason that there was not a single hen in the village! These useful domestic fowls, now so common everywhere were originally brought from the East, and had not yet found their way to this secluded place. The people had not even heard of uch "strange birds." This troubled the kind duchees, who well knew the great help they are in housekeeping, and she determined that the woman who had been so kind to her should no longer be without

Accordingly, the next time she sent forth her faithful old servant to try and gather news of his master and of the progress of the war, she commissioned him to bring back with him a coop full of fowls. This he did to the great surprise of the simple natives, and the village children were greatly excited a few weeks later at the appearance of a brood of young chickens. They were so pretty and bright, were covered with such a soft down, were so opened-eyed, and could De about after their mother to pick up food the very first day, and were any saher such a contrast to the blind, bald, unfledged, bato tests in the hedges, that they could not find ds enough to express their admiration.

The good lady now saved up eggs for some time, then invited all the housewives of the village to a feast, when she set before them eggs cooked in a variety of ways. She then taught them how to prepare them for themselves, and, distributing a number of fowls among them, sent the dames home grateful and happy.

When Easter approached, she was anxious to arrange some pleasure for the village children, but had nothing to give them, "not even an apple or a nut," only some eggs; but that, she concluded, was, after all an appropriate offering, "as an egg is the of Colonel Henry M. Hoyt: The 52d was first gift of the revining spring." And then it occurred to her to boil them with mosses and all that peninsula campaign is the and roots that would give them a variety of seige of Fort Nassier and the taking of brilliant colors, "as the earth," said she, "has just laid aside her white mantle, and dear God makes the fruit and berries not 1865. only good to est, but also pleasant to rook upon," and the children's pleasure would be all the greater.

Accordingly, on Easter Sunday, after the church service, all the little ones of about the age of her own met together in a garden and, when their kind hostees had talked to them awhile, she led them into a small neighboring wood. There she told them to make nests of moss, and advised each to mark well his or her own. All then returned to the garden, where a feast of milksoup with eggs and egg-cakes had been prepared. Afterward they went back to the wood, and found to their great joy in each nest five beautiful colored eggs, and on one of these a short rhyme was written.

The surprise and delight of the little one when they discovered a nest of the gayly Dodson Charles M., mustered September 23 colored treasures, was very great, and one of them exclaimed:

"How wonderful the hens must be that can lay such pretty eggs; How I should like to see them !"

"Oh! no hens could lay such beautiful eggs." answered a little girl. "I think it must have been the little hare that sprang out of the juniper bush when I wanted to build my nest there."

Then all the children laughed together. and said, "The hares lay the colored eggs. Yes, yes! the dear little hares lay the beautiful eggs !" And they repeated it till they began to believe it.

Not long afterward the war ended, and Duke Arne von Lindenburg took his wife and children back to their own palace; but, before leaving, the Duchees set apart a sum Megargel O. A., March 28, 1862, mustered of money to be expended in giving the village children every Easter a feast of eggs. She instituted the custom also in her own duchy, and by degrees it spread over the whole country, the eggs being considered a symbol of redemption or deliverance from

To this day the children living in the country go to the woods just before Easter, and return with their arms full of twigs and moss, out of which they build nests and houses, each child carefully marking his own with his name. They are then hidden behind stones and bushes in the garden, or if the weather be cold, in corners, or under furniture in the house. And on Easter morning what an excitement there is to see what the good little bare has brought! Not only real eggs boiled and colored, but sugar ones too, and often wooden ones that open like boxes, disclosing, perhaps, a pair of new gloves or a bright ribbon. He even sometimes brings boops and skipping-ropes and generally his own effigy in dough or candy is found trying to scamper away be hind the nest .- St. Nicholas for April.

The Eastern Penitentiary.

The annual report of Hon, Richard Vaux, president of the board of managers of the eastern penitentiary, for 1877, has just been issued. It shows that during last year there were received at the institution 556 convicts, of which 492 were white males, 4 white females and 60 colored males. The whole number of convicts at the prison at the end of the year was 1,106—972 white males, 6 white females. During that period there were 16 deaths, of which 10 were white and 6 colored. The daily average number of immates for the year was 1,012 and cost per capita per diem 272 cents. Of the 556 per capita per diem 271 cents. Of the 556 received at the prison during the year, 105 were on second conviction, 30 on the fifth and I on the twelfth. Of this number 257 prisoners were between the age of 18 and 25 years, and only 65 of the whole number had any knowledge of a trade. From January 1, 1835, to December 31, 1877, there were received at this institution 8,990 prison-
