A Glass Schave.

Herman Schuster, a respectable German of St. Louis woke the other morning to find himself idead. He saw a statement in the morning paper to the effect that he was defunct, and that all that was mortal of him reposed in the Morgue. He immediately, upon the receipt of this information, repaired to that sombre institution, and there sure enough lay his body on a marble slab, with water trickling over it. Every feature was life and natural-the nose, the hair, moustache, facial sears, clothing, all the exact counterpart of his own. He was about to accept the irrevocable decree of fate and retire, when a last faint hope occurred to him. He had not seen the eyes. 'Vot is de golor of dose eyes?' excitedly demanded he of the attendant. The lids were raised. 'Mine Gott I' shouted the poor fellow, 'dot peesh not mine body. Dose augin sind blau, und mine is plack. Gott in himmil, vot a glose schave does vos!'- Washingeon

How to Milk.

Some milkers seize the root of the tent between the thumb and forefinger, and then drag down until it slips out of their grasp. In this way the teat and the udder are both often severely injured. The proper mode of milking is to take the test in the entire hand, and after pressing it upward, so that it may be filled from the capacious milk reservoir above, to compress it first at the base between the thumb and forefinger, then sucessively by each of the three succeeding fingers until completely emptied. The teat is at the same time gently drawg upon, but any severe traction is altogether unnecessary and highly injurious. The cow should atways be milked regularly, and the milk eptirely drawn off. If the milking is seasonably and properly done, there is little danger of disease of the tests or udder. More cows are ruined from faults of this kind, than from ell other causes.

Sensible Weddings.

A month ago a young girl in Boston, the daughter of one of the wealthiest men there, being about to marry, asked her father to let her wedding be as quiet as possible, and to give ber the money which would have been spent for flowers, wine, etc. With this money she gave a certain sum to the poor of each city which she visited on her wedding journey. She had the blessing of the hungry and naked strewed along her path justead of roses. The story without the names, crept into the newspapers. Last week the wedding of one of the great capitalists in New York was marked by as touching and as beautiful an incident. One of the gifts to the bride was the sending of one hundred orphan boys to homes in the West.

Pretty hanging baskets can be made of oyster or peach cans, by removing one end, and cutting them in strips one-third of an inch wide, leaving one-half of an inch at the bottom. Press it in the shape you desire, and clinch the ends at the top over a strong wire, several inches larger in circumference than at the bottom of the can. Pain it green, and when dry line it with green moss from the garden. Fill with good rich soil and plant therein Kenilworth ivy, strawberry, geranium, or some other pretty trailing vine: Suspend it at the window by a wire or tiny chain. This is indeed a thing of beauty,' if kept in a thrifty condition. Hang it over and in a pail of rain water occasionally to water the moss.

Emil Hoedel, the tinsmith from Leipsig, who attempted the assassination of the Emperor William on May 11, in the avenue Unter den Linden, as the emperor was returning from a drive with his daughter, the grand duchess of Baden, has been executed. He was beheaded at Berlin on the 16th at an early hour in the court yard of the new prison. The imperial warrant decreeing that justice should take its course was signed on the 8th of the present month. Hoedel's age was about twenty-one. On the trial he protested that he had not intended to take the life of the emperor, but sought to sacrifice his own life in a public manner, in order to create sympathy for the stiffering people But numerous witnesses testified that Hoedet leveled his weapon direct at the emper-

The above are all certainly ascertained to belong to Columbia or Montour. Battery F participated with distinguished gallantry and efficiency in the following engagements, viz: Winchester, Second Bull Run, Chantilly, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancelorsville, Gettysburg, Bristoe Station, Mine Run, Wilderness, Spottsylvania, North Anna, Tolopotomy, Cold Harbor, Petersburg, and Deep Bottom: a roll of battles of which they may well be proud, as well as of the additional fact that they remained in the service till the war was over, always doing their work thoroughly and taking it as it

PROLAPSUS UPERH (Fulling of the Womb.). A Wonderful Cure.—Nice years my wire suffered with this terrible complaint. She was attended by doctor after doctor, went to the different hospitals where females are treated; tried them all; wore bandages and pessaries with only temporary reiter. Her life was imiserable. We applied Dr. Glies Inniment. Her rellef was immediate. She is now well.

Thos. Brandam,

I was in a dreadful condition. Joints swellen, pain intense. Injections of morphine into my veins failed to relieve me. Giles Todide of Ammonia took away the deposits from my joints. I want every one who suffers to know what will cure them.
