A Town in Two States.

Although Bristol, Tenn., is a small and unimportant town it has two mayors, two municipal governments, two bodies of police and is taxed in two states. It is in Tennessee and Virginia, the centre of main street being the dividing line, and its peculiar position causes no little confusion and many droll incidents. Young couples elope in Virginia, and, by crossing the street, enter Tennessee and are married without hindrance. A man commits a crime in Tennessee, flies to the opposite sidewalk in Virginia, and defies the officers of the former state. He needs to be very guarded in his movements, however, lest he cross the boundary and become amenable to the laws of the commonwealth he has fled or stepped away from. Fugitives are often pulled across the street by officers armed with a warrant and so legally arrested. Not long since a fellow who had stolen a horse in Tennessee crossed the boundary—by walking twenty feet—and seating himself on a pile of dry goods boxes laughed a pursuing policemen to scorn. While so occupied a law abiding citizen pushed over the pile of boxes and the thief fell within the confines of Tennessee and into the arms of a waiting and watching minion of the law.

Women who prefer to have their children borne in one or the other states often live on one side of Main street and cross over just before the coming event. There are several instances in which expectant mothers have been a little too late, and thus children designed for Virginian nativity have been born on Tennessee soil, while predestined Tennesseans have clearly missed their destiny by being enrolled in the census of Virginia. A number of mature Bristolites are still uncertain of their place of birth, having vainly spent time and money trying to discover beyond doubt whether they are Virginians or Tennesseans.

A country girl, on being asked if she knew what a fashionable reception was, replied: "It is a gathering of the sexes where women gossip with women on the latest fashion, and with men on the latest scandal."

A Vermont girl fell out of a rocking chair and received injuries from which she died in two hours, whereupon the Burlington Hawkeye moralizes: "Young girls should not sit in rocking chairs unless there is a young man in it to hold them in.

How Lickshingle Preserved His Umbrella.

"Len' me yer umbrella a minit!"

Such was the exclamation of Jones as he pushed into the office of Squire Lickshingle recently.

"Certainly, certainly," said the Squire, laying down the newspaper, and taking a fresh chew of fine cut; "glad to accommodate you," and he opened a drawer in his desk and began rummaging through his legal forms and blanks.

Jones darted into the corner, seized the green gingham relic, and was preparing to fly with it.

"Stop, stop, stop!" said the Squire raising his hand majestically; not too fast, young man. Wait till I make out the necessary papers."

Jones dropped the umbrella on his corn of course. After pumping his lame foot up and down and tying a hard knot in his countenance, and undoing it again he echoed:

'The necessary papers," and he continued his search among the blanks.

The right one found, he filled it out in a jiffy and handed it to Jones to sign.

As Jones read the paper his knees knocked together. It was a mortgage on his house and lot as security that he would return the umbrella in good order within fifteen minutes. He faultered

"Wh-why, Squire, I only want to borrow your umbrella to run across the street with. I'll fetch it back in two seconds."

The Squire shoved his spectacles up over his bald spot until they formed two sky lights in his intellectual roof, and looking one full in the face, said:

"You only want to run across the street. You'll return it in a few minutes. Young man, that's what they all say. I take no stock in it Man wants but little here below, but, by the good Samaritan, when he wants his umbrella he wants it. I have known people in my time who have listened to the song of the siren, who came to borrow umbrellas, until she has transformed them into people without an umbrella between them and the pelting storms. I am not one of that kind. I have lived a long time I have accumulated a fortune. Why? For the simple reason that I have not spent my substance in buying umbrellas. That umbrella which you hold in your hand is certainly not of uncommon beauty, nor is it of great value. It is simply a gingham umbrella. A green one at that. But it answers the purpose, for which, &c. I have had it since I was a boy. Why? Because no man, neither the son of man, has ever taken it beyond the range of my vision without first signing over his estate that he would return it in good condition. I may not seem neighborly, but it's business. Here is the mortgage; there is the umbrella; without beats the rain of heaven. You have your choice," and the old man resumed his newspaper.

Jones thought of his wife and babies and the pleasant home that was all his own. Then he looked at the rain that was pounding at the doors and windows, as if to get in out of the wet. A glance at his new overcoat, and Jones was decided.

"I'll risk it," he said, and stepping to the desk with measured tread and slow, he clapped his name to the mortgage, and was off with the umbrella.

One of Life's Shadows.

At eight o'clock the other morning a Second street wife followed her husband down to the gate as he was starting for down town and kindly said to him:

'William, you know how sadly I need a blue bunting dress.'

'Yes dear,' he remarked, 'but you know how hard up I am. As soon as I can see my way clear you shall have the dress, and a new hat to boot. Be patient, be good, and your reward shall be great.'

Forty minutes after that he emerged from a restaurant with a big basket and a fish-pole bound up the river. In the basket was a chicken, pickles, cake, fruit, pie, and a bottle of liquid of a rich color, and he was just lighting a twenty cent cigar when his wife came along.

'What! you here?' he exclaimed.

'Yes, I was going to the market. Where are you going?—what's in that basket?'

'I was going to carry this fish-pole around to a friend on Jefferson avenue,' he modestly answered.

'And that basket?'

'This basket—well, I was going to take it to the Orphan Asylum as a present to the children. It is a donation from six leading citizens.'

'William, I don't believe it!'

'Sh! Don't talk so loud!'

'William, I shall talk louder yet!' she exclaimed. 'I'll bet you are going fishing!'

'Mary, have I ever deceived you?' he plaintively asked. 'I never have. As proof of my sincerity you can take this basket to the asylum yourself.'

'And I'll do it!' she promptly replied as she relieved him of it.

'Mary, hadn't you—?'

'No, sir, I hadn't. You'd better hurry up with that fish-pole, as the man may want it and be careful how you stand around in the hot sun!'

She left him there. He watched her take the car for home, and then he returned the fish-pole and crossed the street and said to an acquaintance:

'Tom, I'm suffering with neuralgia and the excursion is off till next week. Too bad but we can never tell what a day may bring forth.'

There were chickens and pickels and other goodies on the table at dinner, but he never smiled. Even when his wife wished she was an orphan, if that was the way they were fed, he never betrayed the gloom in his heart. It was only when she handed him the bottle he had so carefully tucked into the basket and he saw it labled, 'Good for Little Children,' that he said:

'Mary, it is an awful thing for a wife to get the impression that her husband is a colde' headed liar!'

'It must be,' she replied, as she took the other chicken leg.—Detroit Free Press.

A little boy hearing some one remark that nothing was quicker than thought, said: "I know something that is quicker than thought." "What is it, Jonny?" asked his pa. "Whistling," said Johnny. "When I was in school yesterday, I whistled before I thought, and got licked for it, too."

TESTIMONIALS:

PROLAPSUS UTERI (Falling of the Womb.) A Wonderful Cure.—Nine years my wife suffered with this terrible complaint. She was attended by doctor after doctor, went to the different hospitals where females are treated; tried them all; wore bandages and pessaries with only temporary relief. Her life was miserable. We applied Dr. Giles' Liniment. Her relief was immediate. She is now well.

No tongue can tell what I have suffered for the past 30 years from CostIVENESS and BLIND BLEEDING PILES, at times so bad that I could not stand upon my feet. I could not walk half a mile without suffering intense agony which would bring on severe illness.

About one year ago I was induced to try a bottle of your VIGORENE and am glad to state that after taking four bottles I was entirely cured of both diseases and am now enjoying excellent health and strength. I advise all similarly afflicted to try VIGORENE.

ANTI-FAT

ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT is the great remedy for Corpulency. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. It acts on the food in the stomach, preventing its conversion into fat. Taken according to directions, it will reduce a fat person from 6 to 5 pounds a week.

In placing this remedy before the public as a positive cure for obesity, we do so knowing its ability to cure, as attested by hundreds of testimonials, of which the following from a lady in Columbus, Ohio, is a sample: "Gentlemen—Your Anti-Fat was duly received. took it according to directions and it reduced me five pounds. I was so elated over the result that I immediately sent to ACKERMAN'S drug store for the second bottle." Another, a physician, writing for a patient from Providence, R. I., says, "Four bottles have reduced her weight from 180 pounds to 162 pounds, and there has been general improvement in health." A gentleman writing from Boston, says: "Without special change or attention to diet, two bottles of Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me four and one-quarter pounds." The well-known Wholesale Druggists, SMITH, DOGLITTLE & SMITH, of Boston, Mass., write as follows: "Allan's Anti-Fat has reduced a lady in our city seven pounds in three weeks." A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat reduced me twelve pounds in three weeks, and altogether I have lost twenty-five pounds since commencing its use." Messrs. POWELL & PLIMPTON, Wholesale Druggists, of Buffalo, N. Y., write: "TO THE PROPRIETORS OF ALLAN'S ANTI-FAT: Gentlemen.—The following report is from the lady who used Allan's Anti-Fat. 'I find Anti-Fat had the desired effect, reducing the fat from two to five pounds a week until I had lost twenty-five pounds in three weeks.' A gentleman in St. Louis writes: "Allan's Anti-Fat is an unexcelled blood-purifier. It promotes digestion, curing dyspepsia, and is also a potent remedy for rheumatism. Sold by druggists. WOMAN

By an immense practice at the World's Dispensary and invalids' Hotel, having treated many thousand cases of those diseases peculiar to woman, I have been enabled to perfect a most potent and positive remedy for these diseases.

To designate this natural specific, I have named it

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

The term, however, is but a feeble expression of my high appreciation of its value, based upon personal observation. I have, while witnessing its positive results in the special diseases incident to the organism of woman, studied it out as the climax or crowning gem of my medical career. On its merits, as a positive, safe, and effectual remedy for this class of diseases, and one that will, at all times and under all circumstances, act kindly, I am willing to stake my reputation as a physician; and so confident am I that it will not disappoint the most sanguine expectations of a single invalid lady who uses it for any of the ailments for which I recommend it, that I offer and sell it under **
