

COLUMBIAN DEMOCRAT, STATE OF THE NORTH AND SOUTH CAROLINA. PUBLISHED WEEKLY, EVERY FRIDAY MORNING, AT BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA.

JOHN B. BARKLEY, Editor and Proprietor.

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1878.

THE COLUMBIAN, VOL. XII, NO. 41

Table with columns for space, length, and rates for various advertising categories.

BLOOMSBURG DIRECTORY.

SCHOOL OFFICERS, Bank, Just printed and ready for sale at the Columbia office.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

C. O. BARKLEY, Attorney-at-Law, Office in Brown's building, 2nd story, Rooms 4 & 5.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY!

GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE. TRADE MARK. It is especially recommended for the cure of all kinds of coughs, colds, and croup.

THE RED FRONT.

MOYERS' BLOCK. HARTMAN BROS., Dealers in TEAS, CANNED FRUIT, CIGARS, TOBACCO, SNUFF, CONFECTIONERY.

FINE GROCERIES.

Foreign and Domestic Fruits, and GENERAL LINE OF Family Provisions.

GILES' LINIMENT (IODIDE AMMONIA).

Cures all Pain in Man and Beast.

PROFESSOR TREATISE (Pain of the Womb). A Wonderful Cure. - Nine years my wife suffered with this terrible complaint. She was attended by a doctor for several years, but to no purpose.

VIGORENE

THE GREAT POSITIVE CURE FOR ALL KINDS OF NEURALGIA, MIGRAINE, RHEUMATISM, SCIATICA, BRUISES, SWELLINGS, AND ALL AFFECTIONS OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM.

THE ONLY TRUE REMEDY FOR COLDS. It is especially recommended for the cure of all kinds of colds, coughs, and croup.

DO NOT GO FODDLING AROUND. A valuable medicine for the cure of all kinds of ailments.

AT PRIVATE SALE, A FARM CONTAINING ABOUT 109 ACRES, mostly cleared, and whereon are erected a LARGE BRICK DWELLING HOUSE, a Frame Barn, Wagon Shed, and other out-buildings.

FOR SALE AT N. J. HENDERSHOTT'S DRUG STORE, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Select Story.

ALMOST A CRIME.

AN OLD MAN'S STORY OF BOYISH FASHION.

You ask me to tell you about it, children, and I will; I only warn you to let it be a lesson to you in future years not to give way to passion or malice.

Bay and Girl.

Our readers who are of an observing sort may take their places any morning where they can see a stream of people pursuing their way to business—clerks, shop girls, teachers, editors, lawyers, merchants, market-men, and they will soon take notice of a peculiar fact, which is that every nine men out of ten go with a careless air, indifferent to the way they are moving.

Napoleon's Old Soldier Dead.

MAJOR AUGUST RULLMAN, WHO FOLLOWED HIM FROM TULUM TO WATERLOO.

Major August Rullman, one of the old soldiers of Napoleon I, who followed through all his European campaigns subsequent to 1805, beginning at the Ulm and ending at Waterloo, died in Newark on Sunday, in his 97th year.

Historical.

HISTORY OF COLUMBIA COUNTY.

MILITARY RECORDS.

394 Regiment.

COMPANY H.

Recruited in Montour county.

Joseph F. Ramsay, resigned, October 21, 1862.

Charles W. Eckman, September 25, 1861, wounded at Wilderness, May 5, and at Cedar Creek, Virginia, October 19, 1862, promoted from 1st to 2d lieutenant, June 27, 1862.

Joseph H. Cope, October 21, 1861, promoted from corporal to sergeant, August 1, 1862, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1863, to 2d lieutenant, May 1, 1863, to 1st lieutenant, August 1, 1863, to captain, November 28, 1864, promoted to major, January 27, 1865.

Leiford H. Stinson, October 21, 1861, resigned, July 29, 1862.

Max B. Goodrich, October 21, 1861, promoted from 1st sergeant to 2d lieutenant, July 25, 1862, to 1st lieutenant, October 21, 1862, to captain, June 14, 1863, to major, November 28, 1864, to lieutenant colonel, May 5, 1865.

Oscar Sharples, October 21, 1861, promoted from corporal to sergeant, January 1, 1863, to 1st lieutenant, May 1, 1863, to 2d lieutenant, November 28, 1864, to 1st lieutenant, April 2, 1865, to captain, April 2, 1865, to major, April 2, 1865, to lieutenant colonel, April 2, 1865.

Frederick Lumbach, October 21, 1861, promoted from corporal to sergeant, January 1, 1863, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 2d lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to captain, January 1, 1865, to major, January 1, 1865, to lieutenant colonel, January 1, 1865.

Seth C. Freese, promoted from sergeant to 2d lieutenant, November 1, 1862, to 1st lieutenant, March 12, 1863.

Jared Royan, promoted to corporal, March 18, 1863, to sergeant, July 1, 1863, to 1st lieutenant, November 30, 1864, to 2d lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 1st lieutenant, Virginia, April 2, 1865, discharged on surgeon's certificate, May 15, 1865, veteran.

Frederick Lumbach, October 21, 1861, promoted from corporal to sergeant, January 1, 1863, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 2d lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to captain, January 1, 1865, to major, January 1, 1865, to lieutenant colonel, January 1, 1865.

William Miller, October 21, 1861, promoted to corporal, October 1, 1864, to sergeant, December 1, 1864, to 1st lieutenant, at Wilderness, Virginia, May 5, 1865, absent at muster out, veteran.

Charles W. Shales, October 21, 1861, promoted to corporal, November 30, 1864, to sergeant, January 1, 1865, wounded at Wilderness, Virginia, May 5, 1865, absent at muster out, veteran.

John T. Howe, October 21, 1861, discharged, returned to civil service, discharged, January 1, 1864, to sergeant, April 3, 1865, promoted to 1st lieutenant, June 27, 1865.

William Young, October 21, 1861, wounded at Cedar Creek, Virginia, October 19, 1862, discharged on surgeon's certificate, August 1, 1862.

David R. Dickman, wounded at Wilderness, Virginia, May 5, 1865, promoted to sergeant, June 1, 1865, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 2d lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to 1st lieutenant, January 1, 1865, to captain, January 1, 1865, to major, January 1, 1865, to lieutenant colonel, January 1, 1865.

J. P. Fenwick, October 21, 1861, promoted to sergeant, October 1, 1862, to 1st lieutenant, May 5, 1865, killed at Orange, Virginia, September 19, 1864, veteran.

Hiram Layland, October 21, 1861, promoted to corporal, November 30, 1864, to sergeant, January 1, 1865, wounded at Wilderness, Virginia, May 5, 1865, absent at muster out, veteran.

Amos Gase, October 21, 1861, promoted to corporal, January 1, 1865, wounded at Petersburg, Virginia, March 25, 1865, absent at muster out, veteran.

John F. Blunt, October 21, 1861, promoted to corporal, January 1, 1865, promoted to 1st lieutenant, June 27, 1865, veteran.

Charles Knicker, October 21, 1861, promoted to sergeant, April 3, 1865, wounded at Fair Oaks, Virginia, June 1, 1862, promoted to 1st lieutenant, August 1, 1862, to 2d lieutenant, August 1, 1862, to 1st lieutenant, August 1, 1862, to captain, August 1, 1862, to major, August 1, 1862, to lieutenant colonel, August 1, 1862.

Samuel Quinn, October 21, 1861, promoted to corporal, March 1, 1865, promoted to sergeant, June 27, 1865, veteran.

John G. Hines, October 21, 1861, promoted to sergeant, January 1, 1865, promoted to 1st lieutenant, April 2, 1865, absent at muster out, veteran.

Orville D. Vander, October 21, 1861, discharged on surgeon's certificate, September 22, 1862.

Charles W. Weaver, October 21, 1861, discharged on surgeon's certificate, January 27, 1862.

George S. Walker, October 21, 1861, discharged on surgeon's certificate, April 14, 1863.

John Ryely, October 21, 1861, discharged on surgeon's certificate, October 21, 1864, to date of expiration of term.

Lewis M. Yoder, October 21, 1861, wounded at Wilderness, Virginia, May 5, 1865, discharged on surgeon's certificate, October 27, 1864.

How Appearances are Never Certain.

The most remarkable instance of appearances being altogether opposed to fact, occurred in a true incident which Prasca Lavello, the heroic Russian who was rescued from the hands of the Cossacks, and who was the father of a daughter's love the tale of "Elizabeth, the Exiles of Siberia," is founded.

She chanced to arrive after nightfall in a town the name of which she could never learn exactly, and, knocking at the door of the first house she came to, she was opened by an old man of most forbidding countenance. He rudely inquired what she wanted, and when she asked for a night's lodging, shut the door in her face. An instant afterwards he called her back and said she might come in if she pleased. Prasca felt rather surprised that he had changed his mind, and the sight of his face, an old man, with a more unpleasant-looking than himself, did not make her more comfortable. The woman, who was dressed in a long, heavy, woolen, lined-up dress, with a high collar and a long, flowing skirt, looked upon her with a stern, almost morose expression.

"What do you want?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I want to stay here for a night, if you please," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"Why do you want to stay here?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

One Way to Get Married.

Judge Richardson does not pretend to be a person of great learning, but in the marriage ceremony as the slimy supporters of a dying hierarchy. The young couple stood up before him one evening and the Judge inquired in a cross questioning tone of the groom:

"Are you a citizen of the United States?"

"The groom took hold of the waistband of his trousers and struggled, saying: 'I voted for Tilden, Judge.'

"Why James?" faintly exclaimed the blushing creature by his side.

"It's a fact, Judge, that I voted for Tilden, and I honor-coughed and demanded severely."

"Do you, sir, as a citizen of Nevada and a lawful voter of Reno, solemnly declare that you will forsake all other evils and cleave to this one?"

"I've money to bet on it," responded the groom, growing pale, but placing his arm around the waist of the shrinking bride.

"Then," cried the Judge, bringing his fist down on his desk, "God has joined you together and it seems a pity that while any portion of the race is becoming more civilized, beings should become less perfect animals. When occasion arises, indeed, there has not one who has a more magnificent bearing than our brothers and husbands; but we think that if mothers would consider it but somewhat to impress upon boys the art of pleasing and the fitness of a dignified carriage, it would not be only on occasion that the average man equals the exceptional giant, but manly and laudari a laudato viro."

Harper's Weekly.

Long Words.

"Rob, which is the most dangerous word in the English language to pronounce?" said Tom.

"Don't know unless it is a swearing word," replied Rob.

"Doth it is stumbled; because you are sure to get a tub between the first and last letter," said Tom.

"Ha! now I have one for you. I found it once in reading the paper. Which is the longest word in the English language?" replied Rob.

"Valentinianism," answered Tom, promptly.

"No, sir, it is smiles; because there is a whole mile between the first and last letter."

"No that's nothing; I know a word that has over three miles between its beginning and ending," cried Tom.

"And what's that?" said Rob, faintly.

"Belaguered," exclaimed Tom, triumphantly.

They are published.

How Appearances are Never Certain.

The most remarkable instance of appearances being altogether opposed to fact, occurred in a true incident which Prasca Lavello, the heroic Russian who was rescued from the hands of the Cossacks, and who was the father of a daughter's love the tale of "Elizabeth, the Exiles of Siberia," is founded.

She chanced to arrive after nightfall in a town the name of which she could never learn exactly, and, knocking at the door of the first house she came to, she was opened by an old man of most forbidding countenance. He rudely inquired what she wanted, and when she asked for a night's lodging, shut the door in her face. An instant afterwards he called her back and said she might come in if she pleased. Prasca felt rather surprised that he had changed his mind, and the sight of his face, an old man, with a more unpleasant-looking than himself, did not make her more comfortable. The woman, who was dressed in a long, heavy, woolen, lined-up dress, with a high collar and a long, flowing skirt, looked upon her with a stern, almost morose expression.

"What do you want?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I want to stay here for a night, if you please," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"Why do you want to stay here?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.

"I mean that I am a Russian, and I have been driven from my home by the Cossacks," said Prasca, in a low, trembling voice.

"What do you mean by that?" said the old man, in a stern, almost morose expression.