THE RESULTS.

The election is over, and the people will settle down to their accustomed walks until another season of political turmoil shall come around. The state has gone republican by a few thousand, the people of a socalled independent state being unable to as sert their liberty by throwing off the Camer on yoke. Our county ticket is elected, and It is probable that Fetterman, the republican candidate for commissioner, is defeated by Herring on the greenback ticket. The majority for the state ticket is cut down to about 1800 by the greenback vote, and these people can now congratulate themselves that they have succeeded in defeating Dill, and electing the man they have been work-

For Congress, it is probable that Klotz is elected, but the returns from the district up to Thursday morning are not full enough to give definite results. Brockway has about 500 majority in Columbia county, and is reported has nearly a thousand in Lackawans about 1000 votes, and Brockway 400. Orvis received about 1200 in this county as will be seen by the table. This was more than the other parties expected he would get, but less than his estimate. The election passed off quietly in all parts of the county. We will give full returns from the Congressional and Senatorial districts next week.

During the election canvass, just closed Mr. Buckalew has attended and addressed Democratic meetings as follows.

In Columbia County: Bloomsburg (Opera House) Saturday evening, Sept. 28; Light Street, Saturday evening October 5; Espy, Monday evening, October 21; Benton Tues day afternoon, October 22; Berwick, Saturday afternoon, October 26; Catawissa, Friday evening, November 1; Stonytown, Monday evening, Novem er 4.

In Luzerne County: Plymouth, Friday evening, October 11; Shickshinny, Satur-day afternoon, October 12.

In Lackawana County: Carbondale, Tues. day evening, October 15; Lackawana, (Minooka,) Wednesday evening, October, 15; Dunmore, Thursday evening, October 17; Olyphant, Friday evening, October 18. In Sullivan County: Colley, Monday evening, October, 28; Dushore, Tuesday aftermoon, October, 29.

PIKE. Milford, Pa., Nov. 6 .- C. B. Brockway Klotz majority over you thirty six ; over Albright ninety-one.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., Nov. 6 -C. B. Brockway: Albright twenty-three bundred and nineteen; Klotz, twenty hundred and fiftyone; Orvis nine hundred and twenty five; Brockway one hundred and fifteen. Monroe gives Klotz sixteen hundred more than Albright with three townships to hear from.

MONTOUR. Danville, Pa., Nov. 6 -C. B. Brockway: been much scratching. Klotz nine hundred and forty; Albright four hundred and thirty-three; Orvis four bundred and seventy-seven.

Columbia county democrats were induced to vote against their own nominee for Congress by falsehoods circulated at the last moment by Klotz and his employees. Notwithstanding this, Captain Brockway's majority over Klotz in this county is about eight hundred.

With all the known and unknown agencies that were at work against Brockway, this vote is not at all complimentary to those who were opposing him

Wilson M. Gearbart was elected Prothonotary in Montour county, by the republicans and greenbackers. W. J. Baldy, republican was defeated for assembly.

W. H. Cummin, the peoples candidate for President Judge in Lycoming defeated J. J. Metzgar, the regular nominee. Both are

One of the many contemptible tricks resorted to by Klotz, was the posting of bills 3,000 votes were polled out of a registered in parts of Luzerne county announcing that Brockway had withdrawn in his favor.

THE ELECTIONS.

PENNSYLVANIA PROBABLY REPUBLICAN.

Special dispatches to the COLUMBIAN.
Philadelphia, Nov. 5th, 12 midnight.-The republicans have a majority in both branches of the Legislature and have gained one member of Congress defeating Stenger in the eighteenth district. Special returns to the Record from every county in the state make Hoyt's majority close to twenty thou-sand. The Democrats retain their majority in the Lower House Congress.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6th, 2 a. m.-The Re publicans have carried the state for their full ticket by a majority ranging from ten to twenty thousand. The Republican majority in this city for Hoyt is fifteen thousand.

Other States.

NEVADA. San Francisco, November 5 .- The chairman of the democratic state committee claims the election of the legislative ticket, much scratching being done. Dispatches from Virginia City state that the chairman of the democratic state committee claims that the democratic legislative ticket is ahead in that state. There has DELAWARE.

222 democratic majority.

Wilmington-The returns are not all in yet. In Wilmington city the estimated democratic majority for governor is 1,000. Seven out of the nine hundreds in Kent county heard from, electing Marbin, democrat, to congress and the whole democratic ticket by about 1,992 majority. In the other two hundreds the democratic majority not yet known.

Wilmington, November 5.—John W. Hall, democrat, has been elected governor, and Edward L. Martin, democrat, is elected to congress. The republicans ran no candidate for either of the above offices, the only opposition being greenbackers. The repubicans ran a county ticket in New Castle county, but without success. It was expected that the greenbackers would develop some strength in Sussex county, but returns received so far indicate that they offered no material opposition. In Kent county the democratic ticket was unopposed.

VIRGINIA. Richmond, Nov. 5 .- The election is quiet and the vote is small in this city, only about vote of over 18,000. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston carries the city by over 2,000 majority. Returns from a number of precincts in the Third district indicate Johnston's election beyond a doubt. Hunton for congress is re-elected. RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, November 5-Ballon, repubican, is re-elected to congress in the second district by 700 majority. Aldrich, republican elected in the First district by 3,800 majority.

Columbus, Nov. 5 .- Returns indicate Senator for this district, but we are unable Henry Person, independent democrat, electto give the full vote. His majority in this edwover Harris, present member, by 1,000

CONNECTICUT. Bridgeport, November 5 .-- P. T. Barnum, is elected to the legislature from Bridgeport on the republican ticket. Hartford, Eighty-seven towns give Hub-bard, democrat, 22,987, Andrews, republican, 23,119; Atwater, 3,420; prohibition, 498. In 1876 the same towns gave Hubbard 28,263, Robinson 26,985 Gen. Hawley, republican, is elected to congress by a plurality of 1,500, a gain of 1,557 from the vote of 1876. Wait, republican, is elected in the Third district. There is no election of governor by the people. Eighty-seven towns give Hubbard, demo crat, 22,987; Andrews, republican. 23,119 Hawley, republican, is elected to congress from the Hartford district by 1,500 plurality. Waite, republican, for congrese, elected i the third district. Legislature probably re-

A SUGGESTED IMPROVEMENT IN FARMING,

The usual rotation of crops in Columbia County is either core, oats, wheat and clover; or, omitting outs, wheat after a summer follow then clover. There are three objections the ground for a season. Second, loss of the labor required to keep the land clean. And th'rd, loss of fertility in the fertility by fallowing while good land loses. To save the fertility of good land it is necessary always to have something growing upon it. Oats are also objectionable, because they require mainly the same nutriment that wheat does and therefore injure the succeeding wheat crop, and sometimes cause a total failure. The essential ingredients of fertility in the soil and of all manures are FOUR-Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid, Potash and Lime. These are the regulators of production, and the only ones with which agricultural industry need occupy itself. Lime exerts no especial preponderating action upon any crop, but is necessary for all. Phosphoric acid is especially beneficial to corn. Potash has an especial influence upon clove and potatoes. But Nitrogen is the predomi nant ingredient for both wheat and oats Now inasmuch as oats tend to exhaust the soil of its nitrogen the same as wheat does, it follows that a second crop of wheat on wheat stubble will stand just as good a chance as a first crop of wheat on oats stubble. Observation proves that farmers who practice fallowing and dispense with oats do better in the long run than those who raise wheat on oats stubble. The former generally have good crops of wheat, and seldom and some of them never have a failure, which cannot by said of those who practice raising wheat on oats stubble. If instead of losing a year by fallowing farmers could get a good crop of wheat, to be succeeded the next year by another equally good, they would soon more than retrieve their lost prosperity. To fully appreciate the importance of this extra wheat crop every year, it is only necessary to remember how much distress and poverty have been brought upon farmers and the country by the rayages of the Hessian fly. Can this extra crop of wheat be obtained without detriment to the soil?-I answer it

A correspondent of the Country Gentle man of October 24, 1878 writes as follows: WHEAT IN CULTIVATED ROWS .- I have no recollection of having seen any account in the Country Gentleman of a trial in this country of the so-called Lois-Weedon 'method of growing wheat year after year, "in the same field, on alternate strips five "feet wide, which are deeply stirred by scar-"yearly crop is growing on the intermediate "strips; these being also heed and kept "quite clear of all plants but the wheat, the average yield at Lois Weedon for 'eighteen years, without any manure being "from a little over a peck of seed sown, or of the same sort of grain in constant annu-Lawes and others; and the theory that the 'minute tusect enemies of the plant are 'starved out by clean cultivation, which 'leaves them no resource at the season when "the cultivated plant does not occupy the ground, seems to gather support from these cases. Fallowing, to be effective must be 'at the critical season (between harvest and 'seed time,) perfectly clean, in order to the starving out of unseen insect depredators." from Lancaster county, where it had been cultivated like corn. While the wheat plant quite small it requires but little moisture om the ground. But the most common and generally the greatest draw back to the wheat crop is dry weather after the straw gets large and thick on the ground, and while the wheat is filling. The stalks and leaves then expose a large amount of evaporating surface to the supshine and winds, thereby drawing much moisture from the earth to supply their demand. Now what would be the effect of sowing wheat in alternate narrow strips, the intermediate strips at trace loose, especially in dry weather, by clean cultivation? Why, the clear strips of ground would absorb much moisture from the atmosphere and retain it, and thus act as self-regulating fountains to irrigate the

of ground at either side.

The great objection to sowing wheat in the usual way upon corn stubble, is the expense of getting the corn out of the way early enough to prepare the ground for on alternate strips, this objection can be casily obviated by cutting the corn early and setting it up in stooks on some of the intermediate strips which are not to be plowed for the present sowing. For the purpose of plowing the ground level and smooth in alternate narrow strips leaving the intermediate narrow strips upplowed, the corn should be set up in straight rows of stooks about twenty feet apart from centre to centre and

PARIS LETTER.

Paris, October 18, 1878.

I had a glance at the reverse side of Parisian life the other day on the Boulevard-a giance sudden, momentary, but as completey lucid and comprehensive as that afforded of a landscape by a flash of summer lightning on a moonless night. It was two Prosawell, republican for governor, 7'476 o'clock in the afternoon, and raining heavily. I was standing on the curb, just in front of the Cafe Riche, in that state of delorous dubiety to which people are subject who sontinually carry an umbrella, and who never save under the strongest compulsion, open it. An umbrella may be a companion, a friend, a staff, a protector, a weapon, an adviser, an indicator, and when it rains the best use you can put your parapline to is to hail the nearest cab or omnibus with it. But there were no cabs to be had that afternoon; the Paris omnibuses do not stay in their wild career to take up stray passengers; and I had begun to think that there was no alternative between putting up my " Robinson" as the French, in the affectionate memory of Robinson Crusoe, term an umbrella-when there stopped right in front of to fallowing. First, the loss of the use of of coal-black steppers, exquisitively me the smartest of smart broughams, Pair matched; a viscount's coronet on the panels; similar heraldic device in platinated soil where the land is good. M. le Viconte lawn colored ulster, varnished shoes with dove colored gasters, lemon kid gloves, spiky moustaches, a rose in his button-hole, and a cigarette. Second person, a lady, but whether she was Madame la Vicontesse or Madem miselle Amenaide Sanspapa of the Bouffes Parvaiens, I am not prepared to ray; suffice t to remark that she was beauteous, that her hair was of the bue of newly-stacked barley that she was radiantly clad, that she wa brave in diamonds, and that from the superb chariot there exhaled an odor of jocky club, frangipane opoponax-I am sure I don't know which, not being learned in any perfames, save that of the Vueltra de Abajo, an oder very popular in the Island of Cuba, where the names of the principal perfumers are Cabana, Partagas, and Cavargas. Still the occupant of the smart brougham were evidently two very important personages in deed. Stay, there was a third; a snow white little Maltese dog, with two sparkling black eves and a crimson satin bow at his chin He battled with his paws, and barked as though the brougham and the coal-black steppers and the servants and the lady in dismonds-tout le tremblement enfin-belonged to hum. Who knows? Perhaps Hastily alighting from his carriage, to keep an appointment with a friend at the Cafe' Riche, M. le Viconte let fall from a number of documents which he held in on emon-kid-gloved hand something like a letter in an envelope. It fell face downwards in the smooth black mud of the gulter Instantaneously-I never saw anything quicker-a lean young man, with a white pock marked face, a faded ragged blouse reaching scarcely below his waist, deplora ble pantaloons, shoes like minature coal barges past service and rotting in a ship breakers wharf, and a cap that looked like one of the late Daniel Lambert's grey wool len stockings with the top cut off, darted for ward, went on his hands and knees, grovelled in the gutter, grappled with the paper which was fast floating towards a sewer graa fawning mien, and a look in which copidpaper with his ragged elbow, and presented it to the gentleman. "Cen' est qu' une enveloppe' mon ami," quoth M. le Visconte airily and without taking any more notice of the poor wretch, he tripped bitthely into the Cate' Riche. It was only an envelope, absolutely without value now that it was soiled that had fallen in the mud. It was only an envelope, abin my time, but I do hope that I shall never again hear curses so fearful as those which were uttered by the lean young man with the white pock-marked face. He had expected reward. The envelope might have been full of thousand-franc notes, and here he was left with his treasure trove, hungry and with muddy bands. He shook his fist at the lady in the brougham-shook it so savagely that she pulled up the window in a hurry to the great discomposure of the Maltese dog-and then the lean young man changing his tone, began to murmur. Mal heur, matheur I par meme une piece de cin quante centimes." And then, it is wretched and shocking to relate, he began to whimper and at last to blubber as though he had been a child of four years old.
