Many citizens of this town were exceedingly anxious to get election returns on Tuesday night of last week. seeing a chance for a "grab," the Western Union fixed its price for returns a twenty collars. The parties interested refused to pay this extorti mate sum, and through the kindness of Dennis McD maid were taken to Rupert in a hand car, where they received the news in a much better shape for seven dollars, over the Reading Rail Road wires. We learn that failing to equeeze twenty dollars, the West ern Union esme down to ten dollars or less.
