The mistake in raising stock is in n knowing when to commence feeding. The farmer who raises a quantity of calves fixe on some time as the period when he will commence to feed them, and the calves are indifferently cared for, fed on skimmed milk and kept in some out of-the-way lot that is termed 'good enough for a calf pasture.' It is not considered important that the calves be taught to eat grass or grain ; and when they are weaned and out on Winter feed no espe cial attention is paid to their growth or good health. This is the general manner of treating calves intended for the dairy. The fattening of the calf should commence its first meal, and it should be continued un til the animal matures and is disposed of.

Jack Frost has sent the blood through our veins with cold breath, and warns us of the chilling breezes yet to come, ere his reign say one word. He had never thought of is over. We are well protected, in our warm houses with our winter clothing but the chickens will suffer if not properly housed and cared for. A Dog Killed by a Mouse.

A gentleman writing to this journal relat- what it should be. es the following curious occurrence: 'I was alone with my labors in a field where A man who was to have been married in potatoes where being harvested. My watch Rochester could not get nearer than fort; dog was along with me. I saw him seize a miles of the city at the appointed time, in consequence of the snow blockade. The as sembled wedding party was informed by a mouse, swallow, and then lie down at my feet I went home to my dinner, and while seated at the table was asked what was the matter telegram of the trouble. A suggestion that the ceremony be performed by telegrap! with the dog. He had been turning around and moaning, and something was hanging was favorably received by the bride, and the from his side. I took him up in my arms usual questions and answers were flashed and found it was a mouse which had just over the wires. It was fun for the guests fi been killed ; at first I thought it had merely the warm Rochester parlor, but the bride stuck in the long hair, but on examining groom, shivering all night in a cold car, did closer, I saw that only one halt of the mouse not particularly enjoy it, and the bride protruded from the dog's body. When the wept.

aperture was cleared it was found to be an inch in depth. The dog had no front teeth, had swallowed the mouse and the little ani mal had at once began to gnaw its way out. It was at first stopped by one of its ribs, and had actually burrowed its way out between the skin and rib. The dog killed the mous when it put its head out by munching i with his jaws. The dog died the same day.' - Berlin Neue Stettish Zeitug.

cataract. Now, what causes it? Every muscle in the body is always in a state of tension. Some are more on the stretch than others, and particularly those of the finger. It is conceded that the vibrations of fibers in those fingers being communicated to the shell, it propagates and intensifies them, as the hollow body of a violin does the vibrations of its strings, and thus the acoustic nerve recives the sonorous expressions. Mus-cies of the leg below the knee are said to vibrats in the same way, and if conducted to the ear produce the same results.

To Insure Early Chickens.

To insure early chickens you must have in the first place hens that will lay during the winter and be ready to set before the snow is gone. Then there must be a place to set them which will be warm and dry, and which is far enough from the place in which they have been kept in the winter to be free from vermin. Here the nest must be fixed with great care. There should be earth enough in the bottom of the nest to hold the heat of the fowl for some time after she goes off the nest, and also to hold a little moisture. Allowing the eggs to become dry from the heat of the fowl will be very sure to pre-vent their batching. The nest should be slightly holle wed out in the centre, but not too much, as, if it is too deep, the eggs will roll against one another with force enough to break the shell when the hen gets off the
