So far as we know the Legislature has not passed a single useful or necessary measbre, and the people are not crying for any legislation except the passage of the nesary appropriation bills, which do not require states nagship or delay. Of course the pay of $10,00 a day after the first hundred days elapsed is a great temptation to an impecunious member who has no occupation at home, but the people fret under he necessity for paying their representatives for unperformed services. Even the utmost limit of one hug leed and fifty leaves only about thirty working days. Backle down to necessary work, Gentleman, or else, AD-

The Domocratic and R-publican parties in this state are about evenly balanced. With a good platform, good candidates, and united, harmonious action we can always win the day at a fair electron. But it would seem that our chances are frequently frittered away, because of the senseless bickerings of would be leaders. Men who have onjoyed the honors of the party should remember that they do not own it, and that they are simply its agents. The 380,000 Democrats in this state therefore should have neither lot nor part in the quarrels of Randall, Wallace, or anybody else. If such desire to cut their own throats, let them do it ; but that is no reason why the whole organization should suffer. The party needs union and harmony, and will have it even if certain ambitious men must step down and

More than one-half of the pensioners on the rolls receive from the Government less than one hundred dollars per annum, and a very large proportion less than fifty dollars a year. There is another large class that receives m one hundred to two hundred and sixteen dollars each, and only about twelve hundred get over $300. The pensions range from twelve dollars to $864 per annum, the latter sum being paid to eleven pensioners "totaily disabled." The list is continually decreas ing by deaths, by the marriage of widows. and by minor children coming of age ; but reases in rates and additions to the rolls prevent a reduction in the amounts expendyearly. In a very few years the minor children will all be of age, and then, it is to be expected, there will be a rapid reduction in the appropriation annually required for the payment of pensions .- Ledger.
