Massas, Entrons :-- I closed a protracte seeiing at Benton on Monday evening, 21st nat, which resulted in fifteen baptisms, one quited who had been baptised, and several r newed their covenant to God. The Church ook a new life and the members covenanted ogsther to keep the ordinances of the Lord's House, and to watch with and over each other. The religious status of the church is better now than for the last eighteen years, and we trust will be a power for good in that place. Benton has had a hard name abroad, owing the vile Liquor traffe carried on by the two otels, but as to the citizens generally, they are ery excellent people, and we hope in anothe cenc to create such a religious sentiment i here as will enable us to prevent their getting cerse. It is a strange phenomena, to the heisdian philanthropist, that twelve, or any other number of "sober" men, in any community, will ask the Court to license a man t and is fully as good as any made. It has been t carry on a business in their midst that is a positive injury to every man, woman, and child n the community, except the man who does he business-no other is benefited. With your permission I may have something more to say on the Liquor question occasionally. Stillwater, April 28, '79. D. M. KINTER.
