A Lot of Little Men. What a lot of little men there were in the Legislature. Some were so mean that they would skin a flea for his hide and tallow, while their average sense would sooner fit them for billicickers or pillwalkers and vendors than for lawmakers.

Upon his conclusion another lady arose with unwearyed head and cheerful countenance taking for her text, "The Lord loveth a cheerful spirit" and for twenty minutes with that subject she dealt most charmingly and well.

"Comfort the feeble minded, support the weak, be patient toward all men." He learnt with patience and with meekness taught.

The next speaker was an aged gentleman whose form was considerably bowed with age, whose earnest and animated discourse related mainly to Creed, and reasoned thus that the people are growing better and that the tendency of the age is that different denominations and sects of religious worshippers are learning to look more singly to God, than to forms of worship, and pleading with all to "believe and be saved."

"Sin to not, who take no private road," "But sit a through nature up to nature's God," "Sin to not, who 'Pray without ceasing' and thus, he said, make every day a Sabbath.

"Nineteen repented at the preaching of Jonas" and very strongly delineated the parable of the prodigal son "I stay here starving" "I will arise and go to my Father" and now you hear and a half having been preached were serious, and many of them, viz: Welcome, Love, Cheerfulness, Oppression, Patience, Creed, and Contrition, when the meeting was dismissed by two orders shaking hands, after which we received, as do all visitors and friends from a distance, many kind invitations to dine with us, all of which our business engagements compelled us to decline, in order to return, spending only the bright summer morning.
