BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, Jan. 9, 1880. No appointment has yet been made by the Governor to fill the vacancy on the Lu zerne bench caused by the resignation of Judge Harding. The contest is between Stanley Woodward, a democrat who labored assiduously for Hoyt, and H B Paine, a repubilcan. Both are able lawyers. It is said that Judge Harding is looking after a seat

How nicely it works! Now you see it and When reports of southern outrages allege to have been committed by democrate, appear in radical organs, our contempory over the way shouts itsel hourse, no matter how utterly false the report may have been shown to be. But when the tricks of its party are discovered and published, the whole thing is simmered down by them to a "joke." According to their logic the seating of Hayes in the White-House was only intended as a "joke" on Tilden, but the lawful action of the Gavernor and Council of Maine is an outrace on the American people.

It is a great stake for which Mr. Blain has been playing in Maine for some months past. To shrewd observers of the political history of this country it has been evident that if, by any means, whether fair or foul, the Republicans should lose their hold upon the Pine Tree State it would be permanently lost to them, and that Maine would be but the first of a tier of New England States to fall out of the Republican column. It is believed by no small number of intelligent students of events that New Hampshire is essentially a Democratic State, and that a considerable majority of her citizens were it not for certain appliances persistently brought to bear upon them, would throw off the yoke of the Republican party altogether Only a few years ago Massachusetts elected a Democratic Governor. Connecticut, the Yankee realm par excellence, is a debatable State, with the real sentiment of its masses manifestly on the Democratic side. It is un der extraordinary pressure alone that the vote of the State goes for the Republi-

The defection of Maine, whenever it shall occur, will be the signal of a political revolution in the North. The Republicans are aware of this, and they know that a single failure to hold it firmly in their grip would be irretrievable. Their ascendency once los no matter how, could never be recovered. To exist at all it must be continuous and un intermitting. Once gone, it is gone forever The same results would follow the breaking of the charm which doomed Republicanism in the Southern States to lasting and irre coverable detest when the power that held them, as it seemed so firmly, was at last over thrown. It was the first step that cost. Af ter that the success of the opposition was assured. And so it would be in the New England States,-Phila. Record.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C. Jan. 5th 1880

POST MASTER GENERAL KEY'S WAR ON SWINDLERS. THE PROGRESS THAT HAS BEEN MADE. THE WAR NOT YET ENDED. A GIGANTIC BROKERS. SWINDLE.

The good that has been accomplished, and that will be accomplished, by Postmaster General Key's starting out war on specious swindlers can scarcely be estimated. Thous ands of men in this country carry on extensive business with purchasers and clients whem they have never seen. Their business is legitimate and honest, but it suffer more or less from a comparison with these fraudulent concerns which are the object o postmaster General Key's attack. The lotterie's, and many other confidence schomes, that Judge Key has throttled, vers truly plead that their business has been the scource of an immense revenue to the government, through the Post-Office de partment. But if this plea was worthy o consideration, it might be answered, that by debauching the mails, and abusing business confidence would have accrued to the Government through the channels of legit imate business. If men all over the country whether they want to make a purchase, prosecute a claim, secure a patent or pension could believe that advertisers do just what they advertise to do, business through the mails would be immensely augmented, and the yexed problem of the elimination of the superfluous "middle man" would be in a measure solved; confidence would be restored, and a much better class of advertisers would find the press an indispensible medium of communication. Judge Key's work, is not yet completed, but it is pro gressing, and is doubtless already reaching in healthful excirpation far beyond the so called firms that he has denuded of power to gull greenborns through the mails.

A gigantic brokers swindle has recently been unearthed in New York. Some time ago the attention of the Postoffice Depart ment was called to a circular purporting to be issued by "Lawrence & Co., Bankers and Brokers," It was filled with seductive words nd accounts of poor men who had become suddenly rich through stock speculations One instance in particular was given of a clerk in the Postoffice Department here, who had intrusted $100 to the firm named, and by allowing it to be continuously invested, had realized no less than $26,000. The circular was headed with a wood-cut of a large building, with several smaller houses by its side and the New York custom house in the distance. On the wall of the large building the words "Lawrence & Co., Bankers &Brokers" were conspicuously displayed. Couvinced that the firm, if it really existed was engaged in deceiving the public, the Department authorized its special agent in New York to investigate the matter and report. The result has been to unearth one of the largest if not the most extensive windling concerns in the country.

The list of swindling concerns published by the Post office Department is already large and many additions will be made before the weeding-out'is completed. Meanwhile many whohave so far escaped the vigilence of Judge Key, are fleeing, of their own accord, from the wrath to come. A too trustful public has been put on its guard, and poor men and women, who have given their earnings in the feverish hope of speedy fortune, have been taught another lesson in the education that the only way for them lies through inlustry and economy. Honest advertisers doing legitimate business, have been greatly benefited and no reform that has been at t-mosted will be farther in reaching in its beneficent influence.

CURLEY IN JAIL.

HE DELIVERS HIMSELF UP FOR THE MUR-DER OF GUNNING, IN 1876.

The vicinity of Centralia and Dark Cor

thrown into great excitement last Sunday Curley, and his surrender to the officers of two years ago with the suspicion resting on him of having been concerned in the beatith of July,1876, which had resulted in his leath a week later. The crime, it is suposed, was prompted by the dving remnan nan who executed the behests of that dread ociety. The beating occurred on the night of the day mentioned in a dark and lonely spot on the road near Centralia. The perpetrators were not discovered, but circumtantial evidence pointed to Curley and he left that vicinity. During the two years since he has been wandering over the country and how he subsisted he alone knows. In that time he ventured home once under the cover of heavy disguise and on a dark night to see his family. His wife on that eccasion urged him to surrender and squeal, s was the fashion among Mollies at that seriod. At first he refused to do so, but as he roamed to and fro the idea gradually beame more to his liking and he finally resolved to take that course. At noon Sunday e appeared at the residence of 'Souire C G. Murphy, whom he astonished by stating his purpose in calling. The 'squire resolved to give him a hearing before committing him and it was not very long before his office was crowded with people, while the excitenent through the town ran high. While he hearing was in progress a scene occurred which intensified the excitement and came near putting a climar to it. Michael Bro gan, a young man who bears a bad reputation as a ruffian and a rogue, entered the office and after acting in a violent manner for some time drew a pistol and denouncing Curley in the bitterest terms attempted to fire ime been sworn in, and acting promptly ejected Brogan from the room and warned nim to stay away from the place. Brogan's fact that about nine months ago he married a daughter of Gunning. He was denounced and excommunicated by the parish priest on New Year's day, as a rogue of the worst orer. At the conclusion of the hearing Jusice Murphy made out a commitment for Curley. He intimated a number of times, that it was his intention to turn states evi-

lence, and promised to make it warm for a number of the residents of that locality.

Should he carry out his threats developments as rare as those which marked the trial of Hester, Tully and McHugh may be expected, and a revival of the interest in Maine Matters.

The opinion of the Supreme Court Maine upon the questions submitted by Governor Garcelon was given on Saturday afternoon. It is signed by all the Judges and is against the Governor and Council or nearly all the issues, the Court holding the voters ought not to be deprived of their rights upon mere formalities. The Republicans express the belief that the opposition crats think the decision will have no effect the certificates already being issued. A correspondent at Augusta, Me, tele graphed as follows, on the 6th. The Governor looks more cheerful to night than when he arrived here this forenoon. His ideas, so far as could be gathered in conversation this evening, have not been changed by the event of Saturday, He will do nothing more, simply leaving the new legislature to settle the contested seats with all the light they can obtain. But he will issue no address, as was cur rently reported this afternoon. He feels tired and worn, and will lay down the cares of office on Wednesday without a sigh. The governor, who is always ready to defend his action, thinks one point of importance has not been sufficiently noticed, and he said to-night that during his remarks at Waterville Saturday evening he stated some facts of peculiar significance, and which he considers an answer to large proportion of the buncombe which has filled the public press for several weeks past. It has been stated over and over again, he says, that none bat the returns from the republican towns were found defective. The fact is far otherwise- Exclusiye of the five cities there were found in the representative returns defects in fiftynine towns and plantations. Of these fifty-nine towns thirty were democratic or fusion, twenty seven republicans and two had tie votes. The difference between the aggregate majorities in the republican and democratic towns was 142 votes against the republicans. That is, the republicans lost 142 votes more in the twenty seven towns than the democrats lost in thirty towns. This comparison embraces the defects of all kinds for which the returns were rejected and shows the results, he maintains, of an impartial application of the rules of action adopted by the council, and should effectively quench the radical charge of doctored returns. Augusta, Me., January 6 .- General Chamberlain has taken charge of the police force at the state house and the guns from the Bangor arrenal have been packed away in boxes Both parties hold their caucause this evening in the hall and on Water street Thomas B. Swan, democratic member elect of the House from Minot, has written a letter to the chairman of the democratic and greenback caucus that he will not participate in the orginization of the house until it shall fully determine to obey the mandate of the court.

The Philadelphia Record of the 6th gives the following interesting information.

The rumored additions to the great for tunes identified with Wall street from the successful speculations of the year 1879 are enormous in amount. These are some of the estimates. Added to the Vanderbilt Estate $30,000,000 To the wealth of Jay Gould 15,000,000 To the wealth of Russell Sage 10,000,000 To the wealth of Sydney Dillon 10,000,000 To the wealtn of James R. Keene 8,000,000 To Drexel, Morgan & Co, 2,000,000 To First National Bank 2,000,000 To three or four other great operators 3,000,000

-to about ten or twelve estates in a single year. The figures are marvellous, but not much, we believe, out of the way.

Bishop Haven of the M. E. church died both parties. The river and harbor approat Malden, Mass., on Sunday evening last.

The Democratic Emergency.

The probability of the nomination of esponsibility above and beyond all ordinary onsiderations of partisan success. Political parties ought to be judged by their efforts to as greedy for large appropriations for their ners in the lower end of this county was afternoon by the reappearance of Edward by their prudence, moderation, and wisdom, publicans and Democrats unite, and by disare able to meet the reasonable expectations the law. He left there very suddenly about of their countrymen, the election of their squandered upon so-called national improvecandidate will be assured.

The duty of the Democratic party in this mergency is clear. It must make so plain ts patriotic purposes that"a wayfaring man, though a fool, may read as he runs." It f Mollie Maguireism and Curtey was the strong as it was in 1876. The Credit Mo- which the Democratic House of the Fortybilier exposure first compelled hone t men, no matter what their political faith had been to stop and consider. What food for thought this revelation presented! The most stupendous swindle ever practised upon any Sovernment! Fifty million of dollars stolen to enrich a few shrewd, bad men, who had bought from Congress the legislation that made the theft possible! And when the awful exposure came, every bright and shiping light among the Republican leaders was found to be smirched. The Vice-President and the Vice-President elect, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Chairmen of the Committee on Ways and Means. Appropriations, and the Judiciary in the House, two Senators of the United States, and half a dozen less prominent Representatives. Then came the frauds of the District of Columbia Ring and the efforts to prevent their exposure, which culminated in the safe burglarly-a monstrous conspiracy that was concocted in the house of one of Grant's familiars, and executed under the direction of officers of the Treasury Department. The Whisky Ring came to grief, and its downfall brought the confidential private secretary of Grant to the bar of criminal justice, and made patent to every intelligent man that a great department of the Government was honeycombed with rottenness, and that millions of dollars had been annually stolen. The crowning infamy was laid bare when on him. Special police officers had by this the Secretary of War was impeached for time been sworn in, and acting promptly selling posttraderships to the highest bidders. A Democratic House of Representatives, with almost two-thirds majority, was elected feelings in the matter are explained by the in 1874, just two years after the Credit Mobilier revelations startled the people into a convincing knowledge of the moral turpitude of Republican leaders. Besides bringing Belknap to the bar of the Senate for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, scores of other lesser rogues were brought to grief by that Democratic House, and in addition to it, > saved the people in one fiscal year nearly $60,000,000 From the first day of January, 1873, down o the close of the Presid ential campaign of 1876, the Republican party was kept upon the defensive by these successive exposures ard the wise economic policy of the Demo cratic House of the Forty-fourth Congress. The damning villainy of the carpet bag Governments in Mississippi, Louisiana, and South Carolina were during this same period becoming every day more and more apparent to the Northern mind. The bitterest Republican partisan could hardly muster the courage to defend the policy of force and fraud by which these vampires were kept in power. It was a renegade Democrat—a man without respect in his profession, and whose social crimes were without parallel in the worst days of Roman debauchery-who had the effrontery to attempt a defence of Grant's order by which a legally elected Legislature was ejected at the point of the bayonet from

against the strenuous opposition of the Republican minority, by judicious legislation, its chambers. The political situation of 1880 is not that of 1876. The last vestige of carpet bag rule n the South was eliminated by the result of 1876. Sympathy for a people afflicted as the citizens of Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina were had a great deal to do with Republican disaffection at the North from 1874 to 1876.

The alacrity with which Southern Demo cratic leaders responded to the overtures of Hayes Republicans to sacrifice Tilden for the State Government of Louisiana and South Carolina—thus solidifying the South—made very untavorable impression on the Northern Independent Republicans and disgusted many Northern Democrats. Having go possession of their State Governmentswhich undoubtedly belonged to them, and which would have been theirs without even the semblance of a bargain-the people of Louisiana and South Carolina have not med the expectations of their Northern friends The tissue ballot frauds of South Carolina were inexcusable, but election frauds are not peculiarly a Southern product. Repudia ion, however, just now appears to be alto gether too popular at the South. Louisiana, Tennessee, and Virginia have inflicted greater injury upon themselves and the Democratic party than the war of the rebellion did Far be it from me to hold the whole Southern people responsible for these local events. These events. however, have exerted an influence in shaping the politics of

The national Democratic party would have been but slightly injured by these comparaively trivial events had the Democratic Representatives in Congress been true to the cause of reform. That large and rapidly growing element in the politics of to-daythe men who care little, if at all, for part ties-very naturally conclude that if the Democratic majority in Congress disregards its reform professions a Democratic Admin stration would do like-wise. Incidents in hemselves trivial assume an undue imporance if the public is inclined to regard them as party characteristics. Unfortunate y for the Democrats, their majority is th House of Representatives twice blundere in selecting the third officer of that body In both cases the persons elected Doorkeep er were from the South. They were of cours unknown to four-fifths of the Democrati Representatives, but their character and ability were vouched for by the delegation from their respective States, and the endors ment was accepted by the caucus. Both me were incapables, and were dismissed after they had been proved guilty of acts de rogatory of the dignity and honor of the House of Representatives. Southern Congressmen lament the fac that they are overrun with applicants for office. A considerable percentage of their constituents, impoverished by the war, with out capacity for business pursuits, and un-fitted for manual labor, look to State or naional Governments for their support. These things, insignificant as they are, have led a very large and intelligent class of people to believe that a Democratic administration vould be powerless to effect reform, because the Democratic machine would be no im provement on the Republican machine Then, again, almost every scheme for the profligate expenditure of the public money has been championed by Southern Demo crats, and if successful it was by their votes Fortunately for the country, such monstrous swindles as the Texas and Pacific and the Brazilian mail subsidies have been defeated by a combination of the best elements of priations, which grew to gigantic proportions

under Republican auspices, bave grown larger since the Democrats took charge of the public purse. But a corporal's guard of Grant imposes upon the Democratic party a Southern and Northern Democrata have had the courage to resist these shameful bills. Northern Democrats, as a rule, have been leserve success. If the Democratic leaders districts as their Southern colleagues. Regraceful logrolling millions are annually

Little by little the Democratic majority in Congress has been drifting away from the reform policy which, in obedience to popular demand, was so worthily began in 1874, must first of all comprehend that it is not as The vast reduction in national expenditures, fourth Congress accomplished, could in decreased proportions have been continued But there was a perceptible retrograde move ment in the Forty-fifth Congress, and with both Houses Democratic, no improvement i thus far promised by the Forty-sixth Cougress. The influence of the Domocratic rings and jobbers is beginning to be noticeable The manifest absence of elevated statesman ship, of commanding ability, of efficient leadership in the Senate and the House is nost disheartening. Personal jealousies and Presidential rivalries have a controlling in-luence in shaping the party policy. The secret history of the intrigues which ere successful in compelling the extra ses sion has not been written. Three independ ent motives inspired them. The first and most potent was a determination to defea Randall's re-election to the Speakership Personal pique, sectional feeling and job bery inspired the fight against Randall. The econd was a movement to create new issue or 1880, and was directed chiefly by the friends of Thurman, although the chief opconents of Tilden cordially assisted: Mr. Randall, as an avowed friend of Tilden, had of course, the enmity of his enemies. The third was greed for the Senate patronage and the control of the perquisites and stealing of the Government Printing Office. There were a few blathering idiots fro the South-mere hangers on the lobby here -who intemperately demanded the defea of Randall because he was the friend of Til den, who had mortally offended them by de claring against Southern war claims. For three years and a half the Democratic repesentatives have made it seem as though their party was steadily drifting away from the reform policy which made success ossible in 1876. Possibly they may sharp y recover the lost ground, but is not six onths too short a period in which to satisfy the public that their repentance is genuine Infortunately, while the national Democray has been driving off elements of moral trength, corrupt local politicians in New York and Pennsylvania have been doing their utmost to disgust all decent men with the very name of Democracy. It is true that the nomination of Grant fo third term should make it possible for the Democratic party to elect any reasonably good Northern Union Democrat. He mus be a man acceptable to patriotic Republicans. He must be a man of known moral courage. He must have a record, and one that gives positive assurance that in each and every one of these particulars he is above suspicion,-N. Y. Sun.
