The shaurdities connected with estimating h vork have been recently illustrated in this eluring the progress of a case in court. Or rinter was willing to do for $827 what another sould not touch for less than $610, while hird thought he was on the right track at $400 As these figures were all sworn to, the precomption is that the witnesses at least believe heir calculations to be correct. But these disences are insignificant to those brought ir notice within the past few days, where leveland firm offered to print an edition of a samphlet for less than cost of paper and labor any establishment where a fair living price paid the wor kmen.

Why there should be such discrepancies in crice for work in officies known to have equal facilities for it, is one of the problems of the trade. Until there be a radical overhanting of the loose mode of estimating now so prevalent among us, no healthy improvement in business need be looked for. Let no work be undertake without a fair profit; better that machinery should lie idle than be run at a certain loss The remedy is with the printers themselves. instomers are presumed to know nothing of the details of producing work, and will patronia those who offer the best terms, careless whether as it must even to lie be under such a system train for Philadelphia and other cities.
