

Sugar Beets at Schenectady.

In the vicinity of Schenectady, N. Y., considerable interest has been centered in the culture of sugar beets. Dr. Blackwell, the treasurer of the Maine Beet Sugar Company, has contracted to purchase all the beets which may be raised at this point or in the vicinity, at $4 per ton, delivered on the cars at Schenectady before the middle of October, and $3.50 to the first of November. Dr. Blackwell thinks that the bottom lands of the Mohawk river are well suited to beets and closely resemble the best lands of Germany. He has made a joint contract with Henry De Forest to put in 100 acres with sugar beets. Mr. De Forest has also 10 acres on his own account. The amounts to be cultivated by different farmers vary from half an acre to 10 acres. If success is attained, there will be a movement next year to start a sugar beet factory at Schenectady. An analysis of sugar beets grown at Kirby Homestead on clay loam soil showed 15.6 per cent. of sugar, with a little over 2 per cent. of impurities in the juice. This is very encouraging, as the per cent. is very high.

Messrs. De Forest and Blackwell find the brown-iron planting machine is just the thing to put in the beets. They are planting without manure, believing that rich river bottoms to be strong enough to grow rich crops. The freight from Schenectady to Portland, where the factory of the Maine company is located, is $2.10 a ton. Six dollars per ton is the highest price which can be paid and leave any margin for profit to the manufacturer. It is estimated that an average of 20 tons can be grown, with the rows about eight feet apart with a horse. Mr. John Cantone, a machinist here, is constructing a cultivator with teeth specially formed to run in the beets, so as to stir and turn up the ground and not cover the young plants. Best culture is a new industry, and is well worth a thorough trial. The pulp, after the sugar has been extracted is excellent food for pigs and cows.—Country Gentleman.

Strongest Man in the World.

SOME MARVELOUS FEATS OF STRENGTH AS EXHIBITED BY A MAN IN RENO, NEVADA.

The strongest man in the world at the present time, so far as is known, now lives in Reno, Nevada country, N. Y. A San Francisco Chronicle reporter witnessed the astonishing feats of this remarkable man, and was fully satisfied by what he saw that he is really all that has been claimed for him. His name is Angelo Cardella, an Italian, aged thirty-eight years; stature, five feet ten inches; weight, 190 pounds; occupation, laborer; habits, temperate. In personal appearance he is not remarkable; merely a good natured looking son of Italy, with a broad heavy face; a noble development of chest and shoulders, and large fleshy hands. His strength was born with him, for he has had no athletic training. When stripped of his buff, however, a marked peculiarity in his spinal column is at once apparent. His back bone, as it might say, double jointed, with the vertebral articulations unusually large and prominent. Though he is not a man of unusual size, his spinal column is double the ordinary width, and his other bones and joints seem made on a similar large and generous scale. After some solicitation, he finally consented to favor the reporter with an exhibition of strength, which proved to be such an astonishing exhibition of lifting power as scarcely to be believed. The reporter, who weighed 150 pounds, stood with one foot on the floor and arms outstretching, his hand being lightly grasped by two friends, one on each side, to preserve the balance of his body. The slight assistance, however, had no tendency to raise his body, being merely to keep him from toppling over. Cardella then stooped down and placed the third finger of his right hand under the hollow of the reporter's foot upon which he was balancing, and, with no perceptible effort, raised the reporter to a height of four feet, and deposited him standing on a table near the table. This feat he repeated, and then grasped the reporter's ankles with both hands, raised him above his head, and gently lowered him to the table in a sitting posture. Cardella had a pipe in his mouth while lifting, and continued smoking, as much as to say, 'Per Dio, this nothing; a way we have in our country!'

On a former occasion he raised Mr. Lawson, a gentleman connected with the editorial staff of the Reno Gaazette, in a similar way, with one finger, carried him across the room and lifted him standing on the table. He had also lifted by the same plan, using only his third finger (which seems to be his most reliable one) several heavy weights, one weighing over 200 pounds. The reporter's blow with his fist with a power of 500 pounds measured on a register. It is said that two Irishmen, near Verdi, started in to whip him one night, but he, with a single blow, so completely overpowered them, that they grasped one in each hand and beat them together until the life was nearly harnessed out of them. Many other tales are told of his extraordinary strength, and there can be no doubt that, in his particular specialty, he is unrivaled, and, indeed, a luna autore, when the peculiarities of his physical make-up and his almost limitless power are considered. He states that his father could strike a blow equal in power to 1,000 pounds, so that the strength seems a direct inheritance. Cardella has not much education and an imperfect knowledge of English. He dislikes to show his strength and fails to realize his own value. If he were to give public exhibitions of his wonderful power, he would doubtless be recognized and acknowledged to be the most powerful man in the world in certain lines of strength.

The Wine for Consumptives.

Consumptive persons are said to be greatly benefited by the use of Speer's Port Grape Wine. It seems to give nourishment when everything else fails, and physicians are prescribing it as a rich, nutritious wine. Sold by C. A. Kleim, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Instead of asking the blessing on sitting down at the table, a certain family have for years been following the custom of repeating verses from the Bible, each person repeating one, commencing with the head of the family. A few days since a young man in the family brought to dinner with him a friend who was not aware of the custom, and was ready at all times to act in a word of meritment, when they sat down at the table the young friend was placed next to the head of the family, who began the worship by repeating, "the love of money is the root of all evil." The friend took it that the remark was made to him, and replied by saying, "Well, pass along the root." A sensational all round.

Baby Prizes 8600.

An eminent banker's wife of N. Y., has induced the proprietors of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, to offer $600 to the youngest child that says Hop Bitters plainly in any language, between May 1, and July 1, 1881. This is a liberal and interesting offer, and everybody and his wife should send two cent stamps to the Hop Bitters Mfg. Co. Rochester, N. Y., U.S.A., for circular, giving full particulars, and begin at once to teach the children to say Hop Bitters and secure the prize.
