

THE COLUMBIAN.

BLOOMSBURG, FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1880. PUBLIC SALES. Hoster Ann Elson, Executrix of B. F. Cole, deceased, of Benton township, will expose real estate to sale on the premises on Thursday, July 15th, 1880. See advertisement.

W. J. Buckalew offers a horse and lot situated on First street in the Town of Bloomsburg, at private sale until July 5th, and if not disposed of by that time will be sold at public sale without reservation.

We are compelled almost daily to explain to persons who come in this office to settle up their subscription why it is that we cannot take $1.50 a year for all the time in arrears. It is simply because those are not our terms. We never agreed to anything of the kind, and do not propose to. A short time before last October, J. C. Wall, the late publisher, had the subscription price to $1.50 strictly in arrears.

Of course those who did not pay in advance were not entitled to this rate, while those who paid for the paper when the price was two dollars a year, were charged that price. Now the proprietorship has changed, but the accounts remain at the COLUMBIAN office, just as though no change had taken place. Those who owe for the paper more than one year will pay two dollars for the paper, while those who have not paid according to our terms get it at $1.50. The price of this paper has always been a discount of fifty cents.

At the present time there are so many worthless publications in the market, it would be well to inquire which is the best—this will be found in M. B. Roberts' "The Penny Post." It is a panacea for all ailments, and is a genuine rubbing either an man or beast. For sale by all druggists. July 2-1m Last Monday evening, Rev. E. H. Youm addressed the two Literary Societies of the Normal School in the Opera House. The exercises were opened with prayer by the members of the societies, entitled "Happy Are We Today." The speaker was then introduced by Rev. E. H. Youm, who treated with a highly edifying and interesting discourse on "Students Work in the World." He said, the Normal schools are calculated to furnish the best and most practical knowledge to the youth in mathematics and the sciences. In short they are model schools cultivating model scholars which will turn out to be superior to other men because they are scholars. The highly tutored student is superior to the crude one, so the polished scholar is far above the rule and uneducated one.

The Wilkes-Barre correspondent of the Scranton Times says: Mr. Adam Dreischbach came on the "H. B. Wright" from Nanticoke on Sunday. He had walked up from Catwasa on the line of the local railroad to be built by the Pennsylvania company on the east side of the river to connect his mine at the lower end of the valley. Mr. D. has been invited to put in proposals for the immediate grading of the road. This route was surveyed some years ago, and a portion of the grading was done in the interest of the P. & C. Co. The Pennsylvania Co. having since largely interested in purchases of land about Nanticoke, will construct the road in order to render that company independent of the D. & W. whose track is a dead portion of the way south.

The Sunday School Assembly to be held near Okelike, Pa., July 12-17, promises to be an occasion of extra ordinary interest. No effort is being spared to make it such. There will be twelve first-class lectures, by men who are recognized teachers of teachers, twenty sessions of normal instruction, conducted by adepts, which, with the inspiration growing out of contact with the enthusiastic crowd and a week spent in the woods, will attract every one interested in Sunday School work within a wide radius. A number of the most prominent members of the country will participate. On one day Capt. Pratt, of the Carbine Institute will be present, with some of his dandy pupils. The normal instruction will be under the supervision of Rev. J. A. Worden, one of the most eminent S. S. workers in the land. For programmes and particulars address Rev. W. W. Frazier, Corresponding Secretary, Harrisburg, Pa.

Grant's latest ambition is to be Senator. When he was in the war his highest ambition was to be mayor of Galena.

We are told that Hancock was the favorite officer and military exponent of Andrew Johnson's policy. Just so. That policy is briefly sketched in Hancock's "General Order No. 49," which contains these maxims:

The great principles of American liberty are the lawful inheritance of this people, and ever should be.

The right of trial by jury, the habeas corpus, the liberty of the press, the freedom of speech, the natural right of persons and the rights of property must be preserved.

Military interference with elections is prohibited by law, and no soldiers will be allowed to appear at any polling place unless as citizens of the State, they are registered as voters, and then only for the purpose of voting.

It is unfortunate for the country that these doctrines of the statesman and patriot were not permanently enforced. But General Hancock was relieved of his command after he had brought civil order out of anarchy in Louisiana and Texas. Eight long years of radical reconstruction ensued in which the states of the south were subjected to the oppression of military rule and the rapacity of the carpet-baggers. Peaceful elections of the people were menaced by armed soldiers. Legislative assemblies were turned out of their halls and mountains of debt were heaped upon the shoulders of the people by violent adventurers. The evils which so long afflicted the south grew out of the abandonment of the wise and constitutional policy of General Hancock. This is his highest claim to the confidence of the American people, and his rejection by the republicans is the most signal proof of their unwisdom for power.—Patriot.

It should be the aim of every owner of Horse, Cows, &c., to make them as handsome and useful as possible. The German Horse and Cow Powder helps to develop all the powers of the animal. It improves its beauty and increases its usefulness. It makes the horse, muscle and fat. By using it a horse will do more work and a cow give more milk and be in better condition with less feed. Sold only by weight at 15 cents a pound by C. A. Klein, Bloomsburg, Dec 12, 79-ly
